GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.—No. 2601.

The 31st July 1894.—Under section 8 of the Calcutta Burial Board's Act V (B.C.) of 1881, and in supersession of all previous rules prescribed under the same section, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to approve of the following Rules of the Burial Board for the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, which take effect from the date of this Notification. His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General in Council has accorded his consent to the revised scale of fees and charges, in connection with the cemeteries under the control of the Board, included in the Rules. The scale hitherto in force is thereby superseded.

REVISED RULES OF THE BURIAL BOARD FOR THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA.

I.—Jurisdiction.

1. Under section 5 of Act V (B.C.) of 1881, the general management of, and control over, the following cemeteries have been vested in, and are exercised by, the Board:—

The North, South, and Mission Cemeteries in Park Street.
The Lower Circular Road Cemetery.
The Ekbalpur Cemetery at Kidderpore.

II.—Meetings of the Board.

1. A meeting of the Board shall ordinarily be held on the first Monday in each month. Three members of the Board (exclusive of the Chairman) shall be a quorum.

2. The Chairman may summon a special meeting when he thinks fit, and shall do so when required by three members of the Board.

3. In the absence of the Chairman at any meeting of the Board, the members present (being a quorum) shall choose one of their number to preside.

4. All questions shall be decided by a majority of votes. The Chairman of the meeting shall have a second or casting vote.

5. Minutes of the proceedings of all meetings of the Board shall be kept and shall be signed by the Chairman.

6. Matters of emergency and matters not provided for by the Rules shall be referred by the Superintendent for the orders of the Chairman. All such references, with the orders passed thereon, shall be laid before the next monthly meeting for confirmation.

III.—Graves and monuments.

1. All applications for the erection of monuments and alterations of the same shall be made in duplicate to the Chairman of the Board, and shall show the proposed design and inscription and cost of the same.

Note.—In these rules the term monument includes head-stones, slabs, and all other memorials of the dead, and grave enclosures.

2. The size of graves is limited to 8' × 4', and the area of ground to be enclosed must not exceed 10' × 6' by external measurement. No monument must exceed 8' × 4' at the base.

3. No monument (except a simple head-stone or cross not exceeding 3½ feet in height) shall be placed over a grave not constructed of masonry, unless adequate masonry foundations are laid. The foundations in this case shall be not less than 5 feet in depth.

4. The use of masonry or of wood or other perishable material for monuments is not allowed. This does not apply to crosses which may be made of wood.

5. The enclosure round a grave must be by a metal railing, or by chains, or bars of metal supported on iron or masonry pillars. Wooden or masonry enclosures are not permitted.

6. All non-masonry graves must be at least 5 feet in depth from the ordinary level of the ground.

7. All masonry graves must be at least six feet in depth from the ordinary level of the ground, and no masonry grave constructed after the 1st January 1888 shall be used for a second interment therein unless there is room to place at least five feet of earth between the top of the coffin and the surface of the ground at its ordinary level.

8. No burial shall be allowed in any masonry vault or family grave constructed before the 1st January 1888, unless there is room to place at least three feet of earth between the top of the coffin and the surface of the ground at its ordinary level.

9. All masonry graves shall be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications, and with materials approved by the Board, and shall be arched in after the interment to the satisfaction of the Board.

10. The land used for a non-masonry grave may be re-used after a period of 10 years.

But after the lapse of one year, and within a period of 10 years, a non-masonry grave may be converted into a masonry grave on a written application to the Board, and on payment of the difference between the fee paid for the original grave and the fee leviable under the rules for a masonry grave.

12. The Commissioner of Police shall have power to order the exhumation of corpses whenever such exhumation is deemed necessary by him for police purposes, informing the Burial Board when the disinterment is in any cemetery under their control.

In regard to the Nonconformist portion of a cemetery, the Chairman of the Burial Board shall obtain, if possible, the sanction of the head of the denomination concerned.

In urgent cases the Superintendent may give leave for exhumation within 12 hours of the burial, notifying the fact at once to the Chairman.

14. The Board alone, save as they may otherwise appoint, will construct or dig graves within the cemeteries under their care.

15. No person shall construct or dig, or cause to be constructed or dug, a grave in any burial-ground at a less distance than two feet from any other grave, nor in any other line than that marked out by the Superintendent.

16. If any monument or masonry grave falls into a ruinous condition, the Board may call upon the friends of the deceased to repair it, and if they neglect to do so, or if they cannot be traced, the Board may deal with such monument or grave at their discretion.

Provided that, if any monument or masonry grave falls into a ruinous condition within five years of its construction, such condition being due to defective foundations or to the defective materials of which such monument or grave is constructed, the Board may call upon the undertaker who was employed on the construction to repair it.

17. The Board will undertake to keep in repair any monument, for the repair of which the friends of the deceased may deposit with the Board such sum as the Board shall consider to be sufficient.

The Pilot on boarding a vessel from Hong-Kong or Canton shall direct the flag prescribed above to be hoisted if it has not already been done.

II. The Commander shall not, without first having obtained permission as hereinafter provided, allow any communication with the shore or any other vessel or boat, excepting only with the boat supplying the Pilots* from the Pilot Brig, and in that case communication shall be limited to receiving on board the Pilot, his Leadsman, servant and baggage.

* N.B.—Pilotage is compulsory for all vessels over 100 tons in the Port of Calcutta.

III. If there is any case of sickness on board and the Pilot has reason to believe that it is plague, he shall telegraph to the Port Officer from Saugor and not proceed beyond Diamond Harbour without the permission of the Port Officer.

IV. If the Pilot has no reason to believe that there is any one suffering from the plague on board, he shall bring the vessel up the river to Mateabrooj, and shall anchor it there till the Health Officer has visited it.

V. The Health Officer, as soon as he has received information of the arrival of the vessel at Mateabrooj, shall visit it, and ascertain by enquiry from the Commander or the Medical Officer on board, or other sources of information, whether any person on board is suffering or has suffered from the plague.

VI. If the Health Officer is satisfied that no one is suffering from the plague, or has suffered from the plague since the vessel left Hong-Kong or Canton, Port, and if the vessel has been allowed pratique at Singapur, he shall allow the passengers to land, but shall detain the vessel at Mateabrooj till such measures have been taken for the disinfection of the mails and cargo and hold, as he may consider necessary.

The Health Officer shall also direct the Commander to prohibit, during the period for which the vessel remains at the quarantine anchorage as aforesaid, all communication, except such as is hereinafter provided for between such vessel and the shore, or other vessels and boats in the harbour.

IX. If the Health Officer, as the result of the enquiry made under paragraph V above, has reason to believe, at the time when the vessel arrives in the harbour, that any person on board is suffering, or during the voyage has suffered, from plague, or if during the time the ship is in quarantine at Mateabrooj under Rule VIII, any case of the disease breaks out, he shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage at Diamond Harbour or elsewhere, and there to remain for a period of fifteen days from the day of arrival in the harbour; and shall further direct that during such fifteen days intercourse between the vessel detained under this Rule or Rule III, and the shore or other vessels and boats in the harbour, shall be prohibited as provided in Rule II.

TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED tenders in duplicate will be received by the Ordnance Officer in charge, Madras Arsenal, up to 17th September 1894, for supply to the Arsenal of the undermentioned articles (more or less), in whole or in part, from 1st April 1895 to 31st March 1896.

2. Printed forms of "Lists or Schedules" of the stores (in whole or in part), for the supply of which tenders are invited, and the form of contract deed which, in the event of a tender being accepted, must be signed by the contractors, are procurable at this office daily (Sundays and holidays excepted).

3. Tenders will only be received on these printed forms, two of which are procurable on application at this office on payment of Rs. 2.

4. These lists or schedules should be in duplicate and in English, and should specify in words as well as in figures the rate at which the article named in them will be delivered, and should be accompanied by a statement that the tenderers have submitted samples of the articles they tender for. Fractional parts of pies in rates will not be accepted. Rates to include cost of delivery at Madras.

5. Tenders should be accompanied by a deposit of Rs. 2 per cent. in Bank receipt or Government Promissory Note as earnest money, up to a maximum of Rs. 2,000, which deposit will be returned on execution of the contract deed or rejection of the tenders.

6. Tenders not complying with these conditions will be rejected.

7. The approval or rejection of tenders rests with the Inspector-General of Ordnance, who reserves to himself the right of rejecting any tender or any items in any tender without explanation.

8. Tenders will be opened at this office at 12 noon on the 18th September 1894. Parties tendering are invited to attend.

9. In the case of an accepted tender, the tenderer must be prepared to execute an agreement.

10. In the event of the party whose tender is accepted failing to take it up, his earnest money will be forfeited.

11. On failure to carry out the contract fully, it shall be competent for the Inspector-General of Ordnance to confiscate the whole or any part of the security deposit to Government at his own discretion.

12. Parties tendering are particularly requested to give their address in full.

13. Parties tendering for any of the following descriptions of hides will be required to submit samples therewith, and particular attention is directed to the specifications of such samples as shown below. It must be clearly understood that the samples represent the lowest quality of leather which the contractor can supply. Consequently no supplies can be accepted at the contract rate which are in any way inferior to the sample in their individual value. Each hide will, however, be judged by its own aggregate merits against the sample, so that a better grown hide than sample will not be rejected on account of small blemishes not present in the sample.

Any number of samples of each quality may be tendered, but only one will be selected to guide supply.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.
A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.
 By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2.6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts, Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. V) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Calcutta, the 28th July, 1894.

RESOLUTION—No. 3053 Med.

The Annual Returns on the working of the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the year 1893.

Read again—

The Triennial Report on the working of the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the three years 1890—92, and the Resolution recorded on it by Government.

The detailed Report on the administration of the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal, which is prepared by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals once in three years, was submitted last year, and he has therefore on this occasion merely forwarded with brief notes the usual annual returns showing the working of those institutions during 1893. An important question connected with the medical administration of the Province engaged the attention of Government during the year, viz., the propriety and the possibility of improving the pay and prospects of the Civil Hospital Assistant class, so as to attract better men into the service, and thus enable Government to insist on higher qualifications in candidates for employment as Civil Hospital Assistants. The whole question was referred to the consideration of a Committee, who were appointed in the month of December: their report had not been received when the year closed. Earlier in the year, however, as a first step towards the improvement of their position, the Lieutenant-Governor, on the recommendation of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, allowed supernumerary Civil Hospital Assistants when unemployed to draw their full grade pay of Rs. 20 or Rs. 25 instead of a reduced salary of Rs. 10, as was formerly the case.

2. Number of dispensaries.—The number of dispensaries open at the close of the year 1893, from which statistics were received for incorporation in the Provincial Returns, was 339, against 299 in the previous year. Of this increase of 40 in the number of dispensaries, 24 were new institutions opened during the year, the remainder being dispensaries of older standing, such as those maintained by the Irrigation Department and the Court of Wards, and also the Dufferin Hospitals for women, the statistics of which have now for the first time been included in the annual returns.

3. Two Local Fund dispensaries were sanctioned at Samastipur and Sherghati, but not opened. Orders also were passed for bringing three more private dispensaries on the Government list, but two of these were not opened during the year, and no returns were received from the third. Besides these, there are 13 dispensaries already in existence, maintained or aided by the Court of Wards and the Lady Dufferin Fund, the statistics of which have not been included in the present returns, though they will be included in future. The Lieutenant-Governor commends the action of Dr. Harvey in arranging for the inclusion of these institutions, without which the returns did not show the true measure of charitable medical relief afforded in Bengal. Since the close of the year instructions have been issued to the Board of Revenue to require the managers of all dispensaries in Wards' estates to bring them under Government supervision and to make them conform to the rules of the Dispensary Manual. Similarly, it was decided, in communication with the Committee of the Countess of Dufferin Fund, that all their dispensaries and hospitals in these Provinces should be brought under the same supervision.

4. Number of patients treated.—The total number of patients treated during the year was 1,926,528, against 1,613,771 of the previous year, showing an increase of 312,757. Excluding the number of patients (62,129) treated in those hospitals which have now for the first time been included in the Provincial Returns, the real increase was 250,628, against an increase of 117,717 in 1892 over the figures for 1891. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice this steady advance in the figures of attendance, since it affords the best testimony to the good management and popularity of the charitable dispensaries in the mufassal. The daily average attendance of patients rose from 12,320 in 1892 to 15,426 in 1893. In 14 dispensaries the increase in the number of patients was over 3,000 in each case, the most marked among them being Laheria Serai (Darbhanga) and Gopalganj (Faridpur), where the increase respectively was 14,506 and 7,149; on the other hand, there was a decrease of 2,000 and upwards in six cases, the largest being in Madhubani, where the number fell off by 7,849. The increase is generally attributed either to the growing popularity of the institution, or to the greater unhealthiness of the year, or to both causes; but those explanations are not always either convincing or consistent. For instance, an increase of nearly 7,000 in the Darbhanga Dispensary has been ascribed to the "excessive prevalence of malarial fevers," whilst the falling off of 7,849 at Madhubani in the same district is said to be due to the "healthiness of the year." The falling off of 2,102 patients at Chanchal in the Malda district is reported to have been occasioned by the temporary "absence of the permanent incumbent (medical subordinate in charge) on privilege leave," a reason which, in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor, is most insufficient.

5. In-door patients.—One hundred and sixty-three dispensaries received both in-door and out-door patients, as against 148 in the previous year, the total number of in-patients treated being 40,589, against 37,845 in 1892, thus showing an increase of 2,744 persons. The total number of beds available rose from 2,357 in 1892 to 2,511, but the daily average of attendance was 1,693 only, which shows that full advantage is not yet taken of the accommodation provided for in-patients at hospitals. The attention of the managing bodies of these charitable institutions is again drawn to the remarks in the Resolution of last year pointing out the advisability of providing suitable accommodation

(1) for the relatives of patients near the dispensaries, and (2) for moribund cases and pauper patients. It is gratifying to notice that with a larger number of in-patients treated during the year, viz. 40,589, against 37,845 of the previous year, the number of deaths in hospitals fell off from 5,107 to 5,059, the death-rate of inmates being thus reduced from 13·49 to 12·46 per cent. The percentage of mortality was as usual largest in the hospitals along the pilgrim route to Puri, the proportion rising in one case as high as 49 per cent. of the patients treated. Evidently a large proportion of the sufferers were in a moribund condition when received into the hospital.

6. Out-door patients.—The table in the margin shows that, with the exception of a single year (1885), the number of out-door patients has gone on increasing every year during the last decade, the number having almost doubled during that period. It is satisfactory to notice that twenty-two dispensaries had an average daily attendance of 100 and upwards in 1893 as against sixteen which reached this standard in the previous year. The largest average daily attendance (267) was at the Municipal dispensary at Chapra.

1884	965,555
1885	950,218	—5,337
1886	1,006,157	46,239
1887	1,055,165	49,008
1888	1,106,700	51,235
1889	1,179,813	73,113
1890	1,239,850	60,007
1891	1,460,195	220,345
1892	1,575,926	115,731
1893	1,885,929	310,013

7. Diseases treated.—As usual, “malarial fevers” contributed the largest number of cases treated at the dispensaries, forming no less than 21·1 per cent. of the total number of cases treated both in-door and out-door, against a percentage of 19·2 in the previous year. The number of fever cases rose from 320,113 in 1892 to 408,043 during 1893, and even allowing for the figures returned from the new dispensaries, it is clear that there was a very large increase in the number of fever patients, and that in the year 1893 fever was very common. Cases of bowel-complaints (dysentery and diarrhoea) rose from 71,781 to 87,243. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals attributes the unusual prevalence of these diseases to the prolonged and heavy rains of the year, and though the Sanitary Commissioner’s vital statistics show that the fever mortality was not high, the ratio being only 20·78 per thousand as against 22·84 in 1892, it is clear that a larger proportion of fever patients came to the dispensaries for relief. The number of cases of cholera and small-pox fell off from 9,795 and 191 in 1892 to 8,077 and 91 respectively; and although it is well known that such cases are only in rare instances brought to a hospital, it may be inferred from a comparison of the figures for the two years that these diseases were on the whole less prevalent during the year 1893 than during 1892. The statistics in the Sanitary Commissioner’s Report fully corroborate this inference. The number of lepers who attended at the hospitals was 3,286, against 2,769 in 1892, the largest number being treated at the Darbhanga and Laheria Serai dispensaries, viz., 209 and 138 respectively.

8. Surgical operations.—The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that the total number of surgical operations, both major and minor, increased from 86,915 in 1892 to 92,476 during the year under review, for it is on the success of these operations that the fame and popularity of charitable dispensaries largely depends. The largest numbers of major operations were performed in the hospitals named in the margin, whilst in twelve hospitals more than a thousand operations of both kinds were performed, Dacca and Monghyr heading the list with 3,380 and 3,360 operations respectively. The officers who performed 150 or more major operations were the following:—

Dacca ...	632
Gaya ...	607
Chapra ...	482
Bankipore ...	480
Monghyr ...	465
Arrah ...	288
Burdwan ...	237
Cuttack ...	234
Muzaffarpur ...	231

Assistant Surgeon Apurba Krishna Das (Chapra)	326
Surgeon-Major R. H. Whitwell (Gaya) ...	286
Assistant Surgeon Ram Kali Gupta (Bankipore)	255
Apothecary J. Burnett (Dacca) ...	243
Assistant Surgeon Lalit Mohan Laha (Monghyr)	227
Assistant Surgeon Nitto Gopal Mitter (Arrah)	207
Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel G. Price (Burdwan)	190
Assistant Surgeon Shoik Mohomed Hosain (Barh)	184

The number of operations for cataract (extraction of the lens) fell off from 2,323 in 1892 to 2,221 during 1893. The officers named in the margin were responsible for the largest number of these operations, whilst ten other officers carried out fifty operations and upwards. The number of lithotomies performed during the year as compared with the previous year fell from 191 to 143. Surgeon-Major Whitwell (Gaya) operated in the largest number of cases, viz. 21. Eight ovariectomies were performed, and in five cases death occurred: this result is explained by the fact that only the very worst cases submit to operation. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals is requested in future, when mentioning the names of officers who are conspicuous for activity in surgery, to state the names of the hospitals to which they were attached.

9. Sex of patients.—The total number of females treated during the year, both as in-door and out-door patients, was 299,187, against 249,410, showing an increase of 49,777, or 19 per cent. Although this represents but an infinitesimal fraction of the female population of these provinces, the advance is satisfactory, and it is expected that, with the gradual increase in suitable accommodation provided by the construction of Dufferin Hospitals throughout the province, the number of female applicants for medical help will increase, though the progress is necessarily slow. The average daily attendance of female in-patients was no more than 346, although 718 beds were available for them.

10. Income and expenditure.—The total income of the dispensaries during 1893, inclusive of the opening balance of Rs. 25,289, was Rs. 6,14,737, against Rs. 5,48,699 of the previous year, which included a larger opening balance of Rs. 35,327. The net increase in the income was Rs. 76,076, due to a large extent to the inclusion of the statistics of a number of dispensaries for the first time this year. The increase was contributed largely by Government (Rs. 13,457), by Local as distinguished from Municipal Funds (Rs. 25,162), and by subscriptions from natives of India (Rs. 35,232). The latter appear chiefly under institutions which had not been included in the returns in previous years.

11. The total expenditure of the year was Rs. 5,86,365 against Rs. 5,23,544, showing an increase of Rs. 62,821. This increase was due mainly to the newly-included dispensaries, but there was also some additional expenditure on salaries of medical officers and subordinate establishment, bazar and European medicines, diet, and miscellaneous charges. Whilst reviewing this subject, it may be noticed that future returns are expected to show a perceptible saving of expenditure on European medicines under the scheme lately sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, which contemplates the supply from England at wholesale prices of such drugs, instruments, and medical necessities as cannot be better obtained in India, and the supply of tinctures and other alcoholic preparations from a leading Calcutta house at a greatly reduced cost. Government have with this object made the important concession of allowing the firm to obtain duty-free the amount of country spirit required for those preparations. Although the expenditure on diet on the whole shows an increase, as noticed above, the annual cost of maintenance of each patient was Rs. 39-7-2 in 1893 as against Rs. 40-6-5 of the previous year. The Lieutenant-Governor would expect to see the cost of diet of in-patients at dispensaries increase rather than decrease, as was the case in 1893. Towards the total expenditure of Rs. 5,63,737 (excluding the amount invested during the year), Government contributed in cash Rs. 41,434 or 7.35 per cent. But besides this, in the majority of instances Government supplied the medical officers, who are the mainstay and support of the dispensaries all over the province. No part of the salaries of Civil Surgeons is debited to the dispensaries situated at district head-quarters, which are daily visited by them; and at subdivisional head-quarters Government pays the salary of the Assistant Surgeon or Civil Hospital Assistant for doing his regular work, whilst the local dispensary has only to pay Rs. 20 or Rs. 10 a month, respectively, for the services of these highly-trained medical subordinates; thus the ostensible contribution of 7.35 per cent. of the expenditure represents only a small portion of the pecuniary assistance actually rendered by Government.

Surgeon-Major R. H. Whitwell (Gaya) ...	170
Assistant Surgeon Apurba Krishna Das (Chapra) ...	146
Assistant Surgeon Nitto Gopal Mitter (Arrah) ...	113
Surgeon-Lieut.-Col. G. I. rice (Burdwan) ...	107
Assistant Surgeon Ram Kali Gupta (Bankipore)...	102

12. Inspections.—One hundred and fifty-four dispensaries were inspected by Civil Surgeons four times (the minimum fixed by the Dispensary Manual) or upwards during the year, as against 119 in the previous year. Although the figures show improvement, the results are still far from satisfactory, and the Lieutenant-Governor thoroughly supports the serious injunction of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals to all medical officers that inspection is one of the most important of their duties, and His Honour expects them to discharge it as fully as possible. Sir Charles Elliott is glad to find that Dr. Harvey personally inspected 28 dispensaries at district head-quarters, 6 at subdivisions, and 14 outlying dispensaries between the date of his taking over charge of the Medical Department on the 8th November 1893 and the middle of May 1894. For this energy and industry, as well as for the ability with which he has administered the Department since he took charge, the Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are due to him. His Honour also desires to acknowledge his obligations to Surgeon-Colonel J. G. Pilcher and Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel J. H. Newman, both of whom officiated as Inspector-General at different times during the year 1893.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

LIBERALITY OF KUMAR NARENDRA LAL KHAN OF MIDNAPORE.

No. 3005L.S.-G., dated Calcutta, the 26th July 1894.

From—J. H. TEMPLE, Esq., Offg. Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of the correspondence ending with your letter No. 659M., dated the 7th July 1894, in which you report that the proposal to devote the donation of Rs. 30,000 made by Kumar Narendra Lal Khan of Midnapore to perpetuate the memory of his father to the endowment of a zenana hospital at that place has been abandoned, and that it has been decided to spend that amount in the construction of a bridge over the Jhalka nalla.

2. In reply, I am directed to say that the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to accept the liberal offer made by the donor, and, in supersession of Government order No. 2484Med., dated the 28th July 1893, I am to request that you will be so good as to convey to him an expression of His Honour's acknowledgment of his liberality. This letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS
TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
TIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATUR-DAY, THE 28TH OF JULY 1894.

DURING the previous week a cyclonic storm had advanced from the north-west angle of the Bay across the coast a little to the south of Balasore, and had travelled in an almost westerly direction across India. It had given extremely heavy weather and excessive rainfall to many of the districts it had passed through, particularly in the western districts of India, and on the 21st, or the last day of that week, its centre was a little to the north-west of Indore. On the 22nd the storm had advanced in a north-westerly direction and its centre was near Mount Abu. On the 23rd it had advanced into Lower Sind, and on the 23rd though a depression was still indicated over that area it was very feeble, and on the 24th the depression had entirely disappeared. Thus the storm which first formed a little to the west of the centre of the Bay about the 14th instant continued to exist quite up to the 23rd or for ten days, during which period it also advanced in directions varying in different parts of its course from north-north-westerly to westerly over a path probably seventeen or eight hundred miles long, giving heavy weather and abundant rain practically throughout its existence. It has therefore been a storm of exceptional nature.

At the beginning of the week under review while this first storm was still in existence conditions were again becoming disturbed in the Bay. On the 22nd, or the first day of the week, pressure was falling at all except a few of the south-western stations, the fall being largest in the north-east angle of the Bay. It is probable that even on this day a small storm was forming, and the weather at Akyab on the 22nd was extremely suspicious with a falling barometer during the day, while to the south very strong winds and very squally weather were reported from Diamond Island. On the 23rd the observations indicated that a feeble storm existed partly over the head of the Bay and partly over the Sunderbans with a centre to the south of Barisal, where pressure was 0.13 inch in defect. It is uncertain whether this storm was the continuation of the disturbance indicated in the north-east angle of the Bay on the 22nd, but if it is, the disturbance must have moved in a north-westerly direction during the 24 hours from the 22nd to the 23rd. During the 23rd the storm commenced to move in a westerly direction, and up to 4 p.m. of that date it had not intensified to any extent, but remained a feeble disturbance. From that time, however, it commenced to deepen and intensify rapidly, and at 8 a.m. of the 24th it was a deep and rather severe storm, the centre being about 30 to 40 miles to the south-east of Calcutta, where a pressure of only 29.203" was recorded or 0.318" below the normal. With the rapid deepening of the storm the cyclonic circulation of winds became much stronger and extended over the whole of Bengal. The main force of the winds was to the south and south-east of the storm, and a severe gale of wind blew at Saugor Island and the Sandheads, commencing from about midnight on the 23rd, and for several hours the wind velocity at Saugor Island averaged more than 60 miles an hour. At noon of the 24th the centre of the storm was about 25 or 30 miles to the south-south-west of Calcutta, the centre having passed apparently close to Diamond Harbour, and at this time the direction of its movement must have been a little to the north of west. Its rate of advance then became very slow for some hours, and up to 10 p.m. the storm had made little further advance, and its centre was still to the south-west of Calcutta and south-east of Midnapore. This retardation appears to have been due to an alteration in the direction of its movement which was taking place, for it is always the case that storms move very slowly while recurving. After 10 p.m. it moved almost in a north-westerly direction, and at 8 a.m. on the 25th the centre was to the south of Bankura and nearer to that station than to Midnapore. The pressure at Bankura on the 25th at 8 a.m. was 29.274" or 0.211" in defect, and it is probable the storm was already commencing to fill up slightly, though it was still accompanied by strong cyclonic winds. On the 26th at 8 a.m., the storm was entering Baghelkhand, and had hence moved across Chota Nagpur during the 24 hours at an average rate of about 12 miles an hour in a west-north-westerly direction. The depression at the centre of the storm was much smaller than on the previous day, and probably did not exceed a tenth of an inch, but it was still accompanied by a fairly strong cyclonic circulation of winds. On the 27th the storm had marched nearly westwards and the centre was near Sutna, and the storm was still a shallow depression only, while on the 28th, or the last day of the week, it had almost completely filled up.

During the passage of the storm in addition to the very low pressures recorded and the very strong cyclonic circulation of winds, which gave very stormy weather with rough sea at the head of the Bay, and rather squally or somewhat stormy weather over a large part of Bengal, the storm also gave heavy rainfall over the south-western part of the province, the falls being exceedingly heavy near the path of the centre. Thus on the morning of the 24th Contai in the Midnapore district reported 15.29 inches of rain, Dantoon also in the Midnapore district 10.31 inches, Diamond Harbour 9.90 inches, and Tamluk, Ghatal and Saugor Island each more than 7 inches. On the 25th Mohanea, Shahabad district, reported 6.65 inches, and Aurangabad, Kendrapara, Jajpur, Akhyapada, Chandbali, Bhadrack and Balasore from four to six inches, and so on.

Pressure.—The variation of pressure during the week has been dependent on the formation and movement of the storm just described. The mean pressure for the week varies from an excess pressure of 0·01 inch to 0·02 inch at the extreme northern stations to a defect of nearly 0·03 inch at Calcutta and defects of about 0·05 inch and 0·06 inch at Saugor Island, Jessore, Midnapore, Cuttack, &c.

Temperature.—The mean average temperature for the week has been in defect by from about 1° to 2° in South-West Bengal, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, while it has been nearly normal or slightly in excess in the other districts. For the whole of the province the mean variation has been a defect of two-thirds of a degree: on the other hand in Assam there has been an excess of 1·5°.

Rainfall.—The average rainfall in Orissa has equalled nearly 6 inches, while in Chota Nagpur it has averaged about 5 inches and in South-West Bengal nearly 4 inches. In East Bengal an average fall of 2·81 inches is recorded, and in Bihar 1·80 inches. Exceedingly small falls only have been reported from North Bengal, which has averaged the small amount of 0·50 inch. The falls have been very abundant and above the normal in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal, while large defects are reported in Bihar and East Bengal and exceedingly large defects in North Bengal, some parts of which indeed have received little or no rain.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 128 per cent., North Bengal 18 per cent., East Bengal 76 per cent., Bihar 64 per cent., Orissa 183 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 148 per cent. Taking each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 103 per cent. of the normal fall.

In Assam the rainfall has also been generally light during the week; Cachar has received 1·23 inches, Sibsagar 0·69 inch, and Dhubri only 0·46 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 28th of July 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALÉD tenders in duplicate will be received by the Ordnance Officer in charge, Madras Arsenal, up to 17th September 1894, for supply to the Arsenal of the undermentioned articles (more or less), in whole or in part, from 1st April 1895 to 31st March 1896.

2. Printed forms of "Lists or Schedules" of the stores (in whole or in part), for the supply of which tenders are invited, and the form of contract deed which, in the event of a tender being accepted, must be signed by the contractors, are procurable at this office daily (Sundays and holidays excepted).

3. Tenders will only be received on these printed forms, two of which are procurable on application at this office on payment of Rs. 2.

4. These lists or schedules should be in duplicate and in English, and should specify in words as well as in figures the rate at which the article named in them will be delivered, and should be accompanied by a statement that the tenderers have submitted samples of the articles they tender for. Fractional parts of pies in rates will not be accepted. Rates to include cost of delivery at Madras.

5. Tenders should be accompanied by a deposit of Rs. 2 per cent. in Bank receipt or Government Promissory Note as earnest money, up to a maximum of Rs. 2,000, which deposit will be returned on execution of the contract deed or rejection of the tenders.

6. Tenders not complying with these conditions will be rejected.

7. The approval or rejection of tenders rests with the Inspector-General of Ordnance, who reserves to himself the right of rejecting any tender or any items in any tender without explanation.

8. Tenders will be opened at this office at 12 noon on the 18th September 1894. Parties tendering are invited to attend.

9. In the case of an accepted tender, the tenderer must be prepared to execute an agreement.

13. Parties tendering for any of the following descriptions of hides will be required to submit samples therewith, and particular attention is directed to the specifications of such samples as shown below. It must be clearly understood that the samples represent the lowest quality of leather which the contractor can supply. Consequently no supplies can be accepted at the contract rate which are in any way inferior to the sample in their individual value. Each hide will, however, be judged by its own aggregate merits against the sample, so that a better grown hide than sample will not be rejected on account of small blemishes not present in the sample.

Any number of samples of each quality may be tendered, but only one will be selected to guide supply.

WORKING OF THE FIRE-BRIGADE IN THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA AND IN THE MUNICIPALITY OF HOWRAH DURING THE YEAR 1893-94.

No. 7021, dated Calcutta, the 20th July 1894.

From—SIR JOHN LAMBERT, K.C.I.E., Commissioner of Police, Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit, for the information of Government, a report on the working of the Fire-Brigade in the town and suburbs of Calcutta and in the Municipality of Howrah for the year 1893-94.

2. During the year 35 fires occurred, at 28 of which the Brigade was in attendance; of the remaining seven fires, one was extinguished by the local police and six by the residents of the locality.

3. The estimated value of property destroyed during the year was Rs. 7,81,755.

4. There were four fires in buildings licensed under Acts IV of 1883 and I of 1893, in which property to the value of Rs. 2,90,665 was destroyed.

5. The five most serious fires that occurred during the year may be briefly noticed as follows:—

I.—On the 11th April, at 12-10 A.M., a fire broke out on board the steam flat Gwalior and the flats Sherpur and Talup which were moored off Juggernath Ghat. It was extinguished by the Fire-Brigade and Port Commissioners' floating fire-engine by 6 P.M. The loss of cargo consisting of bales of jute was valued at Rs. 70,000, and the damage done to the vessels was estimated at Rs 30,000, in all Rs. 1,00,000.

II.—On the 7th December at 12-40 A.M., a fire was reported on board the flat Khyber, which was lying off Cossipur Ghat, causing damage to the extent of Rs. 1,16,194 to the cargo which consisted of jute, gunny bags and salt. This fire was not extinguished until 6 P.M. on the following day.

III.—On the 1st January 1894, at 3-30 A.M., a fire, which lasted till noon, occurred on board the flat Serajganj lying off Ruthtolla Ghat, by which jute to the value of Rs. 85,772 was destroyed.

At these three river fires, it was found necessary to form bridges of boats between the shore and the burning vessels, to enable the Fire-Brigade to get the hose on board.

IV.—On the 1st of April 1893 a fire occurred in a brick godown belonging to the Strand Bank Press at Chitpur, in which a large quantity of jute was stored; the loss was estimated at Rs. 1,25,000.

V.—On the 16th February 1894, at 11-45 A.M., a fire broke out at the Howrah Jute Mills, by which damage to the extent of Rs. 1,26,565 was caused. This fire lasted over three days, and 18,600 maunds of jute were damaged by fire and water.

6. During the year there were two prosecutions under the Explosives Act IV of 1884, in which one conviction was obtained.

CALCUTTA POLICE OFFICE,
The 20th July 1894.

J. LAMBERT,
Commissioner of Police.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIREBRIGADE ACT I OF 1893 IN CALCUTTA
DURING THE YEAR 1893-94.

No. 16J., dated Calcutta, the 12th July 1894.

From—J. G. RITCHIE, Esq., Officiating Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report, under section 41 of Act I of 1893 (B.C.), of the Warehouses in Calcutta for the year ended 31st March 1894.

2. During the first quarter of the year under review the levying of license fees was suspended under orders of the Government of Bengal contained in their letter No. 192T.M., dated the 1st June 1893, pending the publication of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act of 1893, which had passed the Bengal Council on the 1st of April 1893, in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India. The said Act was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 29th June 1893, and under orders of the Government of Bengal, No. 299T.M., dated the 26th June 1893, license fees were levied for the first quarter of the year under the old Act (IV of 1883), and notices issued to owners or occupiers of new warehouses under section 6 of Act I of 1893 (B.C.)

3. It was, however, found that there were several technical objections to the levying of fees under the Act, and on representations being made to Government, a short amending Act was passed in the Bengal Legislative Council, towards the close of the year under report, by which the Commissioners were authorised to levy fees on old warehouses for the last three quarters of 1893-94, according to the provisions of the old Act of 1883, and to levy fees on depôts of straw, hay, wood, &c., for these quarters under section 346 of Act II of 1888, which had been repealed by Act I of 1893. The operation of Bengal Act I of 1893 was thus practically postponed to the 1st of April 1894.

4. On the 18th of July 1893, the Commissioners received intimation from the Commissioner of Police of the appointment of Mr. G. E. Marklew as an Inspector of Warehouses under section 8, clause 1 of Act I of 1893.

5. Under the old Act the Commissioners received 20 per cent. of the collections towards the cost of inspection, collection and assessment of warehouses. This arrangement having been altered by Act I of 1893, a representation was made to the Government of Bengal on the subject. The Bengal Government, in their letter No. 3987M., dated 16th December 1893, directed the Commissioner of Police to make a provision for the cost of assessment and collection for warehouses in his Budget, and the latter made provision for Rs. 750 under this head for the Corporation of Calcutta for the last three quarters of 1893-94.

6. During the year under review licenses were renewed for 101 old warehouses, the license for one warehouse was cancelled, and license fees for 10 warehouses still remained to be paid when the year came to a close.

7. The following statement shows the number of applications for license received and their result:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore .003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0.6 higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0.6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS
TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY,
THE 4TH OF AUGUST 1894.

DURING the previous week a small cyclonic storm had passed across South Bengal and through Chota Nagpur, and had filled up near Sutna at the end of the week. In the rear of the storm a heavy wave of monsoon winds flowed over the province, but it was deflected mainly over the south-western and western districts, and the remainder of the province received comparatively little rain. On 29th July, or the first day of the week under review, pressure fell moderately to briskly over the whole province, and became in moderate defect, while at the same time westerly winds began to set in over the west of the province. These westerly winds appeared to shew that the Bombay branch of the monsoon current, represented by the westerly winds, was penetrating across India, and was giving a certain amount of interaction with the branch of the monsoon coming from the Bay, which was giving south-easterly and easterly winds over the remainder of the province. As is generally the case when such interaction occurs, heavy rain began to fall in the western districts of Bengal, and on the 29th many of the Bihar stations reported heavy rain, Bettiah receiving 8·50 inches, Buxar 6·14 inches, Siwan 5·17 inches, and several stations falls of two inches and upwards. Over the remainder of the province, however, rainfall was light. On the 30th pressure had fallen over the eastern half of the province, the fall being largest at Dinajpur, while it had risen over the west and south-west of the province, and a distinct but feeble barometric depression had formed with a centre near Dinajpur, round which a very distinct circulation of winds appeared. Hence conditions had become particularly favourable for rainfall over practically the whole province, and falls exceeding five inches were reported at Atia, Fenny, Harishpur, Cox's Bazar, and Siwan, while very numerous stations reported amounts of more than three inches. On the 31st the feeble depression had moved in a westerly direction, and was lying along the foot of the hills from about Purnea westwards, and on the 1st of August it had almost disappeared, or had become merged into the monsoon trough of low pressure which at this time was lying almost along the foot of the hills. This trough of low pressure continued in this position and in the eastern parts of the North-Western Provinces for several days. Up till the 2nd pressure over Bengal also remained below the normal, but on this date and on the 3rd it was in considerable excess, but owing to a brisk fall on the 4th it again became slightly in defect. It will hence be seen that conditions for the greater part of this period remained favourable for good general rainfall, particularly in the northern and eastern districts, and on several days exceedingly heavy falls were reported. Towards the end of the week, however, as the conditions became less favourable, the rainfall grew much lighter and more local.

Hence during the week under review an average rainfall of about six inches has been reported in Bihar and East Bengal and of nearly five inches in North Bengal. Chota Nagpur has received nearly four inches, and South-West Bengal a little more than three inches. Orissa on the other hand has received less than two inches of rain.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has not varied very much from the normal. Slight excess pressures of about 0·02" and 0·03" have been registered at the southern stations in such cases as Cuttack, Balasore, Sangor Island, Calcutta, Chittagong, &c. Towards the north of the province on the other hand slightly defective pressures have been registered, and stations like Jalpaiguri, Dinajpur, Rangpur, &c., report defects of about 0·02". In Assam the general average pressure has been almost normal.

Temperature.—Owing to the heavy rainfall during the week the mean temperature has averaged about a degree below the normal, the defect being largest in East Bengal and Bihar. In Assam an average defect of 1·3° has been recorded, but the defect has been mainly confined to Sibsagar, and in other districts the temperature has been almost normal.

Rainfall.—Falls of about six inches have occurred in East Bengal and Bihar, while in North Bengal the fall has been 4·56 inches and in Chota Nagpur 3·78 inches. In South-West Bengal an average fall of three and a quarter inches is reported, and in Orissa of a little less than two inches. Large excess falls have therefore occurred in Bihar and in East and North Bengal. In Chota Nagpur and in South-West Bengal the falls have been almost normal, while in Orissa the rainfall has been in decided defect.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 96 per cent., North Bengal 147 per cent., East Bengal 138 per cent., Bihar 189 per cent., Orissa 67 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 96 per cent. Taking each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 122 per cent. of the normal fall.

In the following districts where the falls have been unusually light since the beginning of the monsoon season, the average falls for the week have been as follows:—Rajshahi 1·88 inches, Dinajpur 4·52 inches, Jalpaiguri 15·42 inches, Darjeeling 15·63 inches, Kuch Bihar 3·92 inches, Rangpur 2·86 inches, Muzaffarpur 4·92 inches, and Darbhanga 5·01 inches.

In Assam during the week Silchar has received 4·11 inches, Dhubri 2·75 inches, and Sibsagar 2·61 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 4th of August 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners No. 199, dated 26th August 1893, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given the following information relating to the positions of rocks and shoals in the vicinity of Diamond Point (Jambu Ayer), derived from a recent Netherlands chart of the locality:—

1. The bank named Minjak, with a depth of 6 fathoms on it, and 15 to 19 fathoms around, lies with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing E. by S. $\frac{3}{4}$ S. (S. 70° E.), distant $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and Pasai summit S. by W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. (S. 16° W.).

Approximate position, lat. $5^{\circ} 19' 20''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 21' 30''$ E.

2. The shoal named Tenga, with a depth of $2\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms on it, and 12 to 14 fathoms around, lies about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles S.E. by S. (S. 34° E.) from Minjak, or with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. (S. 76° E.), distant $8\frac{1}{4}$ miles, and Pasai summit S. by W. $\frac{5}{8}$ W. (S. 19° W.).

3. The rock Karang Timau is awash at low-water springs, with depths of 8 to 10 fathoms around, and lies with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing East, distant 6 miles, and Pasai summit S.S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. (S. 25° W.).

Approximate position, lat. $5^{\circ} 16' 15''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 24' 15''$ E.

4. There is a general extension of shoal water to the north-westward of Diamond Point, its width within the 5 fathoms line being about 2 miles. The north-west extreme of this shoal, where there is a depth of 5 fathoms, with $3\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms immediately south-eastward and less water towards Diamond Point, lies with the north extreme of Diamond Point, bearing S.E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E. (S. 53° E.), distant $3\frac{3}{4}$ miles, and Pasai summit S.S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. (S. 28° W.).

5. From about one mile westward of Diamond Point to 18 miles westward of that point, the high-water mark has advanced seaward as much as one mile for the greater part of the distance; and at 11 miles from Diamond Point depths of less than 3 fathoms extend 4 miles north-westward of the position of Changkul, as shown on the old chart.

Approximate position, north-west extreme of 3 fathoms, lat. $5^{\circ} 14' 30''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 19'$ E.

CAUTION.—Considerable caution is requisite when navigating in the vicinity until corrected charts have been issued.

RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE—MASSAWA CHANNEL, NORTHERN APPROACH.

Verification and position of Saunders' reef.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 306 of 1894), issued by the British Admiralty, is republished :—

Saunders' reef was originally reported as seen breaking, by Mr. Kemp Saunders of the steam-ship Shat-el-Arab on 11th February 1893, and the report was published in Notice to Mariners, No. 150 of 1893. As the position and depth given made it a formidable danger to vessels approaching Massawa channel, one of H. M. Ships was directed to search the vicinity, but nothing was found.

A second search made by Commander A. W. Paget, H. M. S. Dolphin in May 1894, has, however, been more successful and the existence of the reef has been verified, the position being about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles S.E. of that originally reported.

The following particulars are furnished by Commander Paget :—

Saunders' reef is of coral formation, about 400 yards in diameter; the least depth found upon it is 2 fathoms, with deep water close around.

Approximate position, lat. $17^{\circ} 11' 15''$ N., long. $39^{\circ} 24' 0''$ E.

TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED tenders in duplicate will be received by the Ordnance Officer in charge, Madras Arsenal, up to 17th September 1894, for supply to the Arsenal of the undermentioned articles (more or less), in whole or in part, from 1st April 1895 to 31st March 1896.

2. Printed forms of "Lists or Schedules" of the stores (in whole or in part), for the supply of which tenders are invited, and the form of contract deed which, in the event of a tender being accepted, must be signed by the contractors, are procurable at this office daily (Sundays and holidays excepted).

3. Tenders will only be received on these printed forms, two of which are procurable on application at the office on payment of Rs. 2.

4. These lists or schedules should be in duplicate and in English, and should specify in words as well as in figures the rate at which the article named in them will be delivered, and should be accompanied by a statement that the tenderers have submitted samples of the articles they tender for. Fractional parts of pies in rates will not be accepted. Rates to include cost of delivery at Madras.

5. Tenders should be accompanied by a deposit of Rs. 2 per cent. in Bank receipt or Government Promissory Note as earnest money, up to a maximum of Rs. 2,000, which deposit will be returned on execution of the contract deed or rejection of the tenders.

6. Tenders not complying with these conditions will be rejected.

7. The approval or rejection of tenders rests with the Inspector-General of Ordnance, who reserves to himself the right of rejecting any tender or any items in any tender without explanation.

8. Tenders will be opened at this office at 12 noon on the 18th September 1894. Parties tendering are invited to attend.

9. In the case of an accepted tender, the tenderer must be prepared to execute an agreement.

10. In the event of the party whose tender is accepted failing to take it up, his earnest money will be forfeited.

11. On failure to carry out the contract fully, it shall be competent for the Inspector-General of Ordnance to confiscate the whole or any part of the security deposit to Government at his own discretion.

12. Parties tendering are particularly requested to give their address in full.

13. Parties tendering for any of the following descriptions of hides will be required to submit samples therewith, and particular attention is directed to the specifications of such samples as shown below. It must be clearly understood that the samples represent the lowest quality of leather which the contractor can supply. Consequently no supplies can be accepted at the contract rate which are in any way inferior to the sample in their individual value. Each hide will, however, be judged by its own aggregate merits against the sample, so that a better grown hide than sample will not be rejected on account of small blemishes not present in the sample.

ACT No. IV OF 1894.

An Act to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Bengal Act III of 1884; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, Bengal Act III of 1884; and it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor General.

2. (1) In section 2, after the words "commenced under this Act" the following shall be added, namely:—

"The expression 'notifications' as used in this section shall be deemed to include and to have always included all directions, declarations and orders given, or made, and published under any enactment referred to in this section:

Provided that nothing in this definition shall be deemed to affect any decision or order of a competent court made before the date on which this Act shall come into force."

(2) In the same section, for the fourth paragraph, the following shall be substituted:—

"In every enactment passed before this Act comes into force in which reference is made to Bengal Act III of 1864, the District Municipal Improvement Act, or to any enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this Act or to its corresponding part or section."

3. In section 6, after the definition contained in clause (14), the following definition shall be inserted:—

"(14 A) 'Sanitary Board' means the persons for the time being appointed, either by name or by official designation, by the Local Government by notification in the Calcutta Gazette to constitute a Sanitary Board for Bengal."

4. For section 9, the following sections shall be substituted:—

"9. The Local Government may, on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, by notification published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in such other manner as it may determine, declare its intention—

- (a) to withdraw any municipality from the operation of this Act; or
- (b) to exclude from a municipality any local area comprised therein and defined in the notification; or
- (c) to include within a municipality any local area contiguous to the same and defined in the notification; or
- (d) to subdivide any municipality into two or more municipalities; or
- (e) to alter the number of the Commissioners of a municipality:

And the Local Government may, on the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting of both or all the municipalities concerned, by notification similarly published, declare its intention to unite two or more municipalities so as to form one municipality:

Provided that no local area shall be included within a municipality unless the Local Government shall have been satisfied that three-fourths of the adult male population of such local area are chiefly employed in pursuits other than agriculture:

Provided also that whenever it shall appear, either from a general census or from special enquiries undertaken in this behalf, that any municipality does not comply with the conditions laid down in section ten, the Local Government may, of its own motion, declare its intention to withdraw such municipality from the provisions of this Act or to deal with it in the manner stated in this section:

Provided also that where the local area to be excluded or included is a cantonment or part of a cantonment, no notification affecting it shall be published under this section without the previous consent of the Governor General in Council.

"9A. (1) Any rate-payer of a municipality, inhabitant of a local area or, when the union of two or more municipalities has been recommended, the Commissioners of any one or more of such municipalities in respect of which a notification has been published under the last preceding section may, should he or they object to the alteration proposed, submit his or their objection in writing, through the District Magistrate to the Local Government within six weeks from the publication of the notification in the Calcutta Gazette, and the Local Government shall take such objection into consideration.

(2) When six weeks from the publication of the notification have expired and the Local Government has considered the objections (if any) which have been submitted under sub-section (1) of this section, the Local Government may, by notification, give effect to the proposed alteration or not, as the case may be.

"9B. Whenever two or more municipalities

Local Government may apportion and dispose of municipal property upon a subdivision or union of municipalities.

The Report for the year 1892 and the orders of Government thereon.

Mr. E. R. Henry held the office of Inspector-General throughout the year, except for a period of 19 days spent on privilege leave, when Mr. A. H. Giles officiated for him. The present report was received in print punctually on the 1st July. The reports from the Divisional Commissioners, which were due to Government on the 20th March, were all received within the month, with the exception of that from the Commissioner of Chota Nagpur, which, as was the case last year, was more than a month late.

2. Constitution of the force.—The sanctioned strength of the Bengal Police at the close of the year was 77 superior officers (including 8 probationers), as compared with 89 superior officers (including 15 probationers) at the close of 1892. The reduction of 12 in the number of superior officers is due to the reorganization of the service sanctioned by Government in its Resolution of the 27th May 1893, the object of which was that District Superintendents of Police should be provided for every district in Bengal, and that Assistant Superintendents should only be provided for the most important subdivisional charges and as a reserve for leave vacancies. The effect of the reorganization has been to increase the number of District Superintendents from 43 to 45, and to reduce the number of Assistant Superintendents from 27 to 19, and of probationers from 15 to 8. The sanctioned strength of subordinate officers and men, including Military and Railway Police was 23,719, against 23,390 at the end of 1892.

3. Changes in the number of investigating centres and in the recruitment of the investigating staff.—In accordance with the recommendations of the Police Redistribution Committee, which provide for the reduction of 188 investigating centres, 145 have been abolished during the year, and steps have been taken to still further reduce the number. An important change was also introduced in the system of recruitment of the investigating staff, the appointments of new men (other than those promoted from the grade of head-constable to the grade of Sub-Inspector) being now made on the results of competitive examinations. Only those candidates who are of good moral character and have passed the Entrance examination and satisfied certain physical tests are allowed to compete; selections are not made purely in the order of the marks which candidates obtain, but care is taken to secure a due proportion in the representation of different classes, such as Muhammadans and Hindus, Biharis and Bengalis; and selected candidates are put through a probationary course of instruction after their selection. The number of men selected at the two examinations held in 1893 was 35 and 60 respectively, but it is as yet too early to form any comparison between the men thus selected and those recruited under the old system. The Lieutenant-Governor shares, however, in the belief expressed by Mr. Henry that the new system will lead to the recruitment of a higher and more capable class of investigating officers.

4. Expenditure by the Department.—The expenditure on the Bengal Police (excluding the Military Police in the South Lushai Hills, the Presidency Police, and the provincial expenditure on village police and on pounds) for the past financial year was Rs. 43,54,930, the corresponding figure for the previous year being Rs. 43,00,062 and that for 1891-92, Rs. 42,26,193. The figures for 1893-94 are, however, departmental figures only, and have not yet been verified by the Accountant-General. The actual expenditure distributed among the several heads in 1893-94 and the two preceding years is shown in the following table:—

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
		Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1	Inspecting agency ...	1,23,337	1,38,078	1,50,653	12,575	...
2	Pay of District and Assistant Superintendents ...	4,60,133	4,44,795	4,72,019	27,224	...
3	Pay of executive police and establishment with good conduct pay and batta allowance ...	28,33,148	28,66,852	28,47,004	...	19,848
4	Travelling allowance ...	92,038	93,268	1,01,634	8,366	...
5	Fixed boat establishment ...	56,983	55,658	57,005	1,347	...
6	Special, regular and contract contingencies ...	5,11,882	5,63,216	5,91,105	27,889	...
7	Government contribution to the Municipal and Railway Police ...	1,45,622	1,38,195	1,35,510	...	2,685
	Total ...	42,26,193	43,00,062	43,54,930	77,401	22,633
	Net increase	54,868	...

The increase of Rs. 54,863 in expenditure over that incurred in 1892-93 is accounted for partly by the appointment of an Assistant Superintendent in charge of the special branch, and by the grant of exchange compensation allowance to European officers, and partly to an increase under the head of "Contract contingencies," due to the repairs of damage done by storms, and to prisoners in many places being escorted by rail or steamer instead of by land, as well as to the excessive rainfall of the year which rendered travelling by boat necessary in the interior of certain districts.

5. Working of the Town Police.—The town police force was increased in Backergunge, and in nine districts of the Burdwan, Presidency, Chittagong, and Orissa Divisions. The result of the changes effected should have been summed up in a statement showing the strength of the new force substituted for the old in each district, and the increase or decrease in cost. It appears that the total number of town chaukidars appointed during the year was 406 in place of 332 constables employed in 1892. In the 24-Parganas the experiment of replacing constables by local and acclimatized town chaukidars was tried for the first time in three municipalities, and the system will be still further extended. In the Rajshahi Division the town police consist of a mixed force of constables and chaukidars in all districts, except Darjeeling and Bogra. In the Patna Division the work of the town chaukidars in Champaran, Muzaffarpur, and Darbhanga is said to have been on the whole satisfactory, but in Saran, where the District Superintendent of Police is said to have paid insufficient attention to his duties, the results of the year are far from successful. In Patna City and Dinapore the self-checking system of patrol introduced in 1892 was again worked with marked success, the number of burglaries in the Patna City having decreased from 477 in 1891 to 397 in 1893, while 20 burglars were arrested at night by the rounds officers. In Gaya and Shahabad the system has not proved so successful, and this the Inspector-General of Police attributes to the superior officers not sufficiently interesting themselves in its working details—a complaint which the Lieutenant-Governor hopes will not recur. In the Bhagalpur Division all the districts, except the Sonthal Parganas, employ chaukidars on town duty, and their work is said to have been generally satisfactory, especially in the town of Bhagalpur itself.

The Lieutenant-Governor believes that by the substitution of chaukidars for constables in the ordinary municipalities of Bengal, an increase of efficiency and economy should be secured, but that there are municipalities in which a turbulent element exists which cannot be kept in order by chaukidars alone. In future reports the results of the changes effected should be briefly summarised, showing their financial effect and the advantages supposed to have been gained, and it should be stated whether the substitution of chaukidars for constables has been completed as far as is desirable or not.

6. Street lighting.—The exceptional difficulties under which the work of the town police is carried on has been alluded to more than once in former reports, and not the least of these is the want of light which is essential to the efficient guarding of houses and property. The proposal that municipalities in which there are no street lamps should contribute towards the cost of supplying oil for the lanterns of the watch and ward police has not been generally adopted, some municipalities refusing to contribute on the ground of want of funds, or because the expenditure is not legally chargeable to them. In 36 districts, 620 new lamps have been erected, but the Inspector-General believes that this represents but little real improvement. It is not creditable to such municipalities as those of North and South Barrackpore that no street lamps are provided by them.

7. Rural Police.—Reports have been called for by Government from Commissioners of Divisions on the working of the Chaukidari Act, and the effect of the changes introduced by the new law of 1892, with special reference to the progress made in extending the provisions of the Act to villages in which it has not hitherto been in force, and to the steps taken for the improvement of the position and status of the chaukidars. These reports are now before Government, but the Inspector-General has briefly summarised in his report the results achieved during the year. From Statement E it appears that the total number of chaukidars in the province in 1892 and 1893 was as follows:—

1	2	3	4	5
Under Act VI of 1870 ...	96,787	101,517	4,730
Under Regulation XX of 1817 ...	53,665	48,696	4,969
Number of chakran chaukidars ...	18,629	17,911	718
Other chaukidars ...	2,991	3,428	437
Total ...	172,072	171,552	5,167	6,687

It will be seen that some progress was made during the year in extending the provisions of Act VI of 1870. In the Burdwan Division 1,251 Act VI men were substituted for Regulation chaukidars, of whom 987 belong to the Bankura district. There are still more than 21,000 Regulation chaukidars in this division—an excessive number—which should be rapidly reduced. The number of chakran chaukidars is 11,383, and the important question of the resumption of chakran lands in this division has lately been under consideration. A procedure for the resumption and assessment of such lands is contained in Part II of Act VI of 1870, and some progress in this direction has already been made. It has now been decided to steadily apply the principles of the existing law and to gradually extend the provisions of the Act to all places to which it is applicable. The Commissioner of the Division has been directed to recommend an officer in each district for appointment as Commissioner under section 58 of the Act, and to take steps for undertaking systematic operations in all districts of the Division without delay. In the Dacca, Presidency, and Chittagong Divisions, and in all the districts of Rajshahi, Act VI of 1870 is in force, and, with few exceptions, all the chaukidars are under the Act. In the Patna Division, 2,426 chaukidars were appointed under Act VI of 1870, and the number of Regulation chaukidars was reduced by 3,322. This action, however, appears to have been confined to Shahabad and Saran, and His Honour hopes that greater attention will now be given to this matter in other districts. In Orissa Act VI of 1870 is not in force, and the state of the village watch is said to be as unsatisfactory as ever. The question of the reorganization of the whole chaukidari system in this Division is now under the consideration of Government.

8. The efforts made to induce men of better position to enlist as chaukidars have met with varying success in different portions of the Province. In the Dacca Division the majority of the population being Muhammadans, the question of caste is of less importance than in other places; but a marked improvement has been effected in the class of men recruited. In Bhagalpur a few Rajputs and Chattris were induced to accept employment, and in the Burdwan Division about 1 in 12 of the men newly appointed are said to be of better caste. In other districts but little improvement seems to have been made. There can be no doubt that in Eastern Bengal generally the improvement in the status of the chaukidar is principally due to the punctuality with which his salary is now paid, and to the fact that there has been a general tendency to raise the rate of salary. The Lieutenant-Governor enquired into this matter during his recent tour in the eastern districts, and was gratified to find that wherever he went the chaukidars appeared to be a fine, smart, well set up body of men, in receipt of regular salaries, and in many cases certainly constituting most respectable representatives of the Musalmans of the delta. This improvement was most marked in the Backergunge, Noakhali and Khulna districts.

9. The habit of treating chaukidars as menial servants has frequently been referred to as one of the causes of the unpopularity of the post, and the Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that very few instances of such treatment have been reported during the past year. In Birbhum a head-constable and a constable, and in Midnapore a Sub-Inspector and a constable, were punished for requiring chaukidars to do menial work, but no cases are reported from the Dacca and Presidency Divisions, and only one from each of the Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and Chittagong Divisions. In Patna three instances are reported, and in all the police in fault were suitably dealt with. In regard to the payment of rewards, the Lieutenant-Governor has constantly impressed upon district officers the importance of adequately rewarding good work done by the village police, and of being less indiscriminate in the matter of punishments; but he regrets to observe that in some districts his remarks have not borne fruit. In the Presidency Division a sum of Rs 758 only was distributed as rewards amongst over 16,000 chaukidars, and in the Burdwan Division only about one chaukidar in every 200 received a reward. In the Rajshahi district the insignificant sum of Rs. 39 was distributed as rewards amongst 3,136 chaukidars, and in Mymensingh 20 per cent. of the force were punished, but only 05 per cent. were rewarded. In Patna also there was but little improvement in this respect as compared with last year. There has, however, been some improvement in the totals for the whole province, the number of chaukidars rewarded by judicial officers having risen from 585 to 593, and the number rewarded departmentally from 859 to 1,273, while the total amount disbursed in rewards has risen from Rs. 7,644 to Rs. 10,367. The percentage of chaukidars rewarded to the total number in the province has risen from 8 to 1.13, but the Lieutenant-Governor considers that there is still much room for improvement, and he hopes that in future greater attention will be paid to this important question by all district officers.

10. Additional Police.—In consequence of the disturbances arising out of the anti-kine-killing agitation in the Patna Division, additional police were quartered in various villages in the Gaya, Shahabad, and Patna districts, the cost being realized from the villagers. The additional force entertained at Krokir-char in the Dacca district in 1892, and at Lahiri in Darbhanga, were retained throughout the year.

11. Military Police.—By the reorganization of the force which was sanctioned at the commencement of the year, three companies of 100 men each, including officers, have been formed with their head-quarters at Dumka, Bhagalpur, and Dacca respectively. Detachments from all three companies were sent to Keonjhar in consequence of the disturbances in that State, and detachments from the Dumka and Bhagalpur companies were also on duty in Bihar in connection with the anti-kine-killing agitation. Great attention was paid during the year to instructing the men in drill and musketry practice, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to be able to bear witness to the general smartness and efficiency of the force.

12. Casualties.—The following table shows the details of casualties during the past three years:—

2. Resignation	760 " 3.2 "	722 " 3.1 "	728 " 3.09 "
3. Dismissal	588 " 2.5 "	586 " 2.5 "	624 " 2.66 "
4. Discharge	225 " .9 "	125 " .5 "	220 " .93 "
5. Desertion	40 " .2 "	51 " .2 "	42 " .18 "
6. Death	517 " 2.2 "	551 " 2.4 "	415 " 1.93 "
Total	2,582 or 10.9 "	2,456 or 10.5 "	2,481 or 10.5 "

The average percentage of casualties for the three years previous to 1891 was 12.4. The variations in the figures under the different heads during the last two years are slight, and do not call for any special remark.

13. Torture and extortion by the police.—The record of offences of this class is fortunately not a serious one. The number of cases of torture reported fell from 32 to 17, and of these only five were finally returned as true. Two cases ended in conviction and 12 were reported to be false. In 5 of these the complainant was prosecuted under section 211, I. P. C., but only 4 were decided during the year, and in one only was a conviction obtained. None of the cases of torture were of special importance, the worst apparently being that of a head constable and a constable of Mymensingh and a constable of Dacca, who were charged with torturing a boy and causing his death. The last accused absconded, but the first two were convicted and sentenced by the Sessions Judge to five years and one year's rigorous imprisonment respectively. The High Court, however, took a lenient view of the case, and on appeal acquitted the constable and convicted the head-constable of assault only, sentencing him to a short term of imprisonment.

The number of cases of extortion brought against the police fell from 92 to 70, of which only 14 ended in conviction. The number returned as false was 37, and in 14 of these the complainant was prosecuted, 8 of these cases ending in acquittal, and 4 in conviction, while 2 remained pending at the close of the year. The practical impunity with which false charges of extortion were brought against the police in the Dinajpur district was referred to in last year's Resolution. During the past year the number of cases reported has fallen from 42 to 19. Of these four only were true, and of the remainder prosecutions were instituted against the complainants under section 211 or section 182, I. P. C., in 8 cases, with the result that two ended in conviction and four in acquittal, while the remainder were pending trial at the close of the year. Great attention was paid by the Magistrate of the district, Mr. Tute, to this important question of Police administration, and to him is in a large measure due the credit of the improvement effected. Under Government order No. 5600J., dated 28th December 1893, District Superintendents at head-quarters and Inspectors at sub-divisions have been directed to enquire personally into all cases of torture brought against the police, and the attention of police officers has been drawn to the importance of making a sifting enquiry into all charges in which the police are concerned.

14. Punishments.—The following table shows the number of punishments inflicted on members of the police force during the past three years:—

YEAR.	JUDICIAL CONVICTIONS UNDER PENAL CODE.			UNDER ACT V OF 1861.			DEPARTMENTAL PUNISHMENT.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
1891	260	·3	1·2	112	·3	·5	4,254	39·2	14·3
1892	246	·7	1·0	120	·1	·5	4,323	41·0	14·0
1893	237	·4	1·0	126	·3	·5	4,853	42·4	16·7

There has thus been a considerable increase in the number of men and officers departmentally punished as compared with last year, and the Inspector-General accepts this as an indication of closer supervision on the part of superior officers rather than of a falling off in the general good conduct of the force. The Lieutenant Governor is not altogether satisfied with this explanation, and is disposed to think that there is a tendency among District Superintendents to inflict too frequent punishments. He concurs with an observation which has been recorded by Mr. Nolan, the Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division, in his Annual Divisional Report, that in this respect there is often too much zeal and too little justice, and that probably much good would result by making the treatment of police officers in regard to punishments and promotions accord more nearly with that prevalent in other departments. The Inspector-General is requested to look into this matter and satisfy himself that punishments are inflicted with more discrimination than appears to be the case at present. It is observed that the number of men wearing good conduct stripes at the close of 1893 was 9,019, being an increase of 714 as compared with 1892. Good conduct allowances amounting to Rs. 17,656, or sufficient for 1,471 men at the rate of Re. 1 each per mensem, were disbursed during the year, and special money rewards were paid to 2,160 officers and men, while 76 received special promotion.

15. Inspections.—Mr. Henry was on inspection tour for 135 days, and Mr. Giles, when acting for him, for 19 days. As Deputy Inspector of the Northern and Western Range, Mr. Giles and Mr. Pratt were out on tour for 197 days in all, and Mr. Daly and Mr. Wilcox for 196 days. The headquarters of every district and 27 sub-divisions were inspected during the year either by the Inspector-General of Police or by one of the Deputy Inspectors-General. From the statement given in paragraph 39 of the Report, it appears that, generally speaking, there has been a change of inspecting officers as compared with last year, and that only 12 out of the 45 districts in the province have been inspected twice running by the same officer. In future reports the districts shown in this statement should be arranged in their official geographical order, and not alphabetically, as has been done in the present report.

The Inspector-General has given a complete list showing the number of days spent on inspection duty in each district by the District Superintendent of Police, and the Lieutenant-Governor notices that insufficient inspections were made by Mr. Wilcox (24-Parganas), Colonel Ramsay (Muzaffarpur), Mr. Ryland (Rangpur), Mr. Goldsbury (Jalpaiguri), Mr. Boileau (Saran), Mr. Orr (Mymensingh), Mr. Livesay (Tippera), Mr. Biswas and Mr. Daly (Noakhali), and Mr. Patten (Palamau). On the other hand, in some districts the number of days spent on tour by District Superintendents of Police was far in excess of the prescribed standard. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Inspector-General that no advantage is to be gained by this excessive touring where no improvement in work results, and he approves of the proposal to issue a circular impressing on all officers the necessity of making their inspections more thorough and more instructive to their subordinates.

16. Crime.—The incidence of crime in Bengal, division by division, for the two years 1892 and 1893, is shown in the following statement:—

DIVISIONS.	Police.		Population. The proportion of police to cognizable crime investigated in Bengal in 1893 was one policeman to 3.8 cases, which is lower than the proportion in any other province in 1892, except Madras, where it was 1 to 4.9. In the latter calculation, however, petty cases under special local laws are included, and if these be excluded, the proportion will be higher in Madras than in Bengal. In the North-Western Provinces the proportion of police to investigated crime was one policeman to 3.5 cases, and in Bombay it was 1 to 1.3.

17. Police tests.—The following table compares the working of the police during the past three years, according to the tests which have been prescribed for the purpose:—

		Percentage of cases investigated by police to cases reported, (a1).	Percentage of police cases ending in conviction to cases decided, (a4).	Percentage of persons convicted in police cases to persons sent up for trial, b(3).
Classes I to V taken together	1891	75	68	53
	1892	75	70	55
	1893	66	74	59
Classes I to VI taken together	1891	81	81	69
	1892	81	83	71

According to test (a1), the figures for the past year are lower than in the two preceding years, because the rules about investigating petty cases have been relaxed; but according to tests (a4) and (b3) they show a steady improvement, which has been attributed by the Inspector-General of Police mainly to the employment of Court Sub-Inspectors as prosecutors in Magistrates' courts. Mr. Henry points out that under the new system of recruitment officers with higher educational qualifications are being drafted into the police force, and that it will be possible to select from them an improved class of Court Sub-Inspectors better qualified by education and knowledge of law to conduct cases in the Courts. The most important test of police work is (a4), and though the percentage according to this test .74 per cent. for classes I to V) was lower than the percentage in 1892 in any other province, except Assam and Punjab, in each of which it was 70 only, the results as compared with those of previous years cannot be considered unsatisfactory.

18. Reported crime of the province.—The Inspector-General has shown in the table in paragraph 47 of his report the number of cognizable and non-cognizable offences reported in the province during the past two years; but here, as in other places where he deals with crime by classes, or remarks on the tendency of crime to increase or decrease, the corresponding figures for at least ten years should be given, and he should bring forward statistics to illustrate his remarks, similar to those given in Departmental Return No. I.

	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.
1	2	3	4	5
Cognizable ..	117,443	128,472	146,185	137,898

Non-cognizable ...	116,554	119,072	121,624	121,490

The total decrease in cognizable offences was thus 8,287, but excluding sanitary offences, which fell off by 4,096, the net decrease in cognizable crime is 4,191. In the Inspector-General's opinion the decrease is smaller than might have been expected, considering the improvement in the prices of food-grains in 1893, and he attributes this to the sustained improvement in the reporting of crime in consequence of the discretion allowed to the police to abstain from enquiring into certain petty classes of theft, and to the increased attention paid to holding chaukidari parades, and in questioning chaukidars as to occurrences in their villages. Prices in 1893 were, however, higher at least in Eastern Bengal than in 1891.

19. False cases.—The total number of cases declared false was 6,103, or 150 less than in the preceding year, and the percentage of such cases to the number reported was 4.4 as compared with 4.2 in 1892, and an average of 5.4 in the three preceding years. The number of false cases in which prosecutions were instituted fell from 743 to 725, but there was a rise from 246 to 270 in the number in which convictions were obtained. The improvement was most marked in the Dinajpur district, where the number of successful prosecutions under section 211, I.P.C., in false cases rose from 9 to 21,—a result which is attributed to the personal attention paid to the subject by Mr. Tate, the District Magistrate. In marked contrast to this in Rangpur, with a larger number of false cases, only two were successfully prosecuted. Under Mr. Marindin in Bhagalpur, out of 40 prosecutions, 25 resulted in the conviction of the accused. The number of cases in which compensation was awarded under section 560, C.P.C., fell from 805 to 676. The falling off is to be regretted, as the power given to Magistrates under the section is one of the most useful means of checking the indiscriminate institution of false prosecutions.

20. Abstention from enquiry by the police under section 157, C.P.C.—The percentage of cases of house-breaking in which the police abstained from making enquiry, to the number reported, was 33.9, as compared with 10.5 in 1890, 13·4 in 1891, and 38·2 in 1892. In theft cases the percentage was 16·5, the corresponding figures for 1890, 1891 and 1892 being 8·7, 10·3, and 17·5 respectively. The variation in the figures of different divisions is remarkable and in some divisions the abstentions seem to have been unduly numerous. While the percentage of burglary cases not enquired into to the number reported was over 40 in the Chota Nagpur, Bhagalpur, and Patna Divisions, it fell below 30 in the Presidency, Rajshahi, and Dacca Divisions, and below 20 in Chittagong and Orissa. In the Patna Division, of the number of burglary cases investigated, only 1 in 12 was successfully prosecuted; and in Gaya, out of 2,247 cases reported and 924 investigated, only 69 ended in conviction. These figures indicate that the most careful supervision on the part of District Superintendents of Police is necessary to prevent the abuse by subordinate police officers of the powers given to them by section 157, C. P. C. General instructions as to the manner in which these powers should be exercised have been issued by Government and are embodied in the revised Police Code. The Inspector-General remarks that the Code was not published in time for these instructions to have any effect on the figures of the year under review: they were, however, issued and circulated before the Code was published, and the intention of Government in regard to them was fully explained in the Resolution on the Report on the administration of the Police for 1891. As was stated in that Resolution, the instructions are intended rather by way of general guidance than as laying down any rigid rule to be observed in all cases, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that district officers will see that they are intelligently acted up to by the subordinate police.

21. In paragraph 56 of his report the Inspector-General has given a general analysis of crime, but it would have been better if the information had been thrown into the form of a table showing the figures for former years, as follows:—

YEAR.	NUMBER OF CASES—			Number not enquired into.	Number declared false.	True cases.	ENQUIRED INTO—			Number of convictions.	Percentage of convictions to true cases.
	Reported true during the year.	Taken up from the preceding year.	Total.				By police Sub-Inspector.	By order of Magistrate.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
1889	119,656	1,470	121,126	6,562	6,905	107,575	93,823	3,234	97,047	47,226	41·3
1890	117,443	1,787	119,230	4,910	6,417	107,303	91,116	3,016	97,132	49,050	43·4
1891	128,472	1,247	129,719	6,740	6,631	116,348	102,198	2,663	104,860	54,779	44·6
1892	140,185	1,239	147,424	17,877	6,253	123,194	107,516	2,542	110,058	64,328	45·3
1893	137,898	1,102	139,000	15,112	6,103	117,785	102,703	2,862	105,567	60,252	45·3

It will thus be seen that there has been a steady increase in the percentage of cases ending in conviction to the number of true cases reported. As regards persons, the Inspector-General has given a statement on page 43 of the report, showing the proportion of persons convicted and acquitted to the number arrested, as well as to the number brought to trial. These ratios appear progressively good, but they are calculated on an unsound basis, and the statement itself is faulty, inasmuch as the distinction between the percentage of convictions to total arrests, and between the percentage of convictions to persons brought to trial, rests solely on the accident of persons having been arrested, without taking into account those whose cases were still pending at the close of the year. The proportion should be calculated on the number of persons whose cases were actually disposed of during the year; and the percentage of persons convicted and of persons acquitted in such cases should aggregate 100. Calculated on this basis, the following table shows the number of persons convicted and acquitted during the year, and the percentage of such convictions to the total number of persons whose cases were disposed of:—

	By Magistrate.	By Sessions.		By Magistrate.	By Sessions.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
1889	66,907	1,318	68,315	33,034	1,365	34,999	103,314	66·1	33·9
1890	68,674	1,230	69,903	33,771	1,041	31,812	104,715	66·8	33·2
1891	73,559	1,463	75,022	34,552	1,222	35,774	110,746	67·7	32·3
1892	84,008	1,693	85,670	34,444	1,318	35,792	121,468	70·5	29·5
1893	79,923	1,403	81,325	32,641	1,100	33,741	115,129	70·7	29·3

There has thus, with regard to persons as well as cases, been a steady improvement during the last five years in the results of trials and in the percentage of convictions.

22. Results of Sessions' cases.—The total number of cases tried before the Court of Sessions was 1,123, of which 781 ended in conviction and 342 in acquittal. Out of 2,563 persons put on trial in these cases, 1,463 were convicted and 1,100 were acquitted. The percentage of convictions in cases rose from 67·8 to 69·5, and in persons from 55·3 to 57·0. These figures show that, as regards both persons and cases, there has been a decided improvement in the results of Sessions trials as compared with 1892. As regards persons committed for trial, out of the 46 districts, 32 (as against 29 last year) secured the conviction of 50 per cent. or more: as regards cases, Manbhum is the only district in which the number ending in acquittal was in excess of the number ending in conviction. The Commissioner attributes the failure at the Manbhum Sessions—and his remarks apply equally to the Hazaribagh and Lohardaga figures—to the long delay between commitment and trial, and to the want of careful supervision on the part of the police. The average detention of prisoners tried at the Sessions was 86 days in Hazaribagh, 70 at Ranchi, and 55 at Purulia. Such delays are excessive, especially at Ranchi, which is the head-quarters of the Judicial Commissioner, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that arrangements may be made for the more frequent holding of Sessions at these places. In the Patna Division the results of Sessions trials were unsatisfactory in all districts, except Shahabad, Champaran, and Saran. With the exception of Manbhum, Darbhanga shows the worst results of any district in the province, only 16 persons having been convicted against 35 acquitted. In Muzaffarpur only 33 persons, and in Gaya only 23 were convicted, against 53 and 28 respectively acquitted. As remarked by Mr. Caspersz, (who submitted the District Report from Chittagong as Magistrate, and had been Sessions Judge throughout the greater part of the year) one of the chief causes of the break-down of cases at the Sessions is the failure on the part of Magistrates to sufficiently realize that it is a duty they owe to the accused to thoroughly sift cases before commitment, carefully scrutinizing police diaries, and clearing up discrepancies in cases where the accused are ultimately committed for trial. With these remarks the Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees, and he trusts that they will be borne in mind by all Magistrates when committing cases for trial to the Sessions.

23. The number of true cases reported during 1893 and previous years is shown in the following table:—

	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

" III ...	22,803	22,234	25,247	27,624	25,085	28,238	33,325	31,453
" IV ...	2,682	2,427	2,405	2,351	2,210	2,220	2,268	2,082

Total ...	99,941	95,902	103,686	112,650	111,026	121,841	130,932	131,792

The decrease of 8,140 in the total number of true cases reported occurred chiefly in classes III, V and VI.

24. From paragraph 61 to paragraph 150, the Inspector-General of Police, according to precedent, deals with the details of the year's crime, class by class and Division by Division. In future reports it will be convenient for him to commence his remarks on each class by a brief statement shewing the principal heads of crime included in that class. Such a statement is prefixed to his report on class III (paragraph 85).

25. Class I.—Offences against the State and public tranquillity.—There was an increase of 26 cases only under this class as compared with 1892. Cases of coining fell from 162 to 128, and of 173 persons tried in these cases, 87 were convicted and 86 acquitted. True cases of rioting show but little variation during the last five years, the number for 1893 being 2,218, against 2,192 in 1892 and an average of 2,204 in the three preceding years. That most of the cases tried were petty in their nature is indicated by the fact that only 229 out of the 10,510 persons actually tried came before the Sessions Court. In the Burdwan, Presidency, Rajshahi, Chittagong, and Bhagalpur Divisions there was a falling off in the number of true cases of rioting reported, and in the Patna, Dacca, and Orissa Divisions there was an increase of 111, 34 and 13 cases respectively. The increase in the Patna Division is partly accounted for by the outbreak of lawlessness, due to the strained relations between Hindus and Muhammadans on the subject of the slaughter of cattle. In Gaya there were 17 occurrences from this cause, five cases, in which 30 persons were concerned, resulting in conviction, the remaining cases proving unsuccessful on trial. The quartering of additional police on the localities concerned in these riots has had an excellent effect, and there has now been a cessation of disturbance. Two riots in Shahabad and Saran were specially serious because of the evidence they bore of premeditation and conspiracy on the part of a large body of Hindus who collected secretly from considerable distances, and appeared unexpectedly on the scene, prepared to use violence in support of their determination to put down or to punish the slaughter of cattle. In the first case, which occurred at Koath, the riot arose out of a dispute in connection with the disappearance of a Brahmini bull, and five Muhammadans and seven Hindus were prosecuted and convicted, a force of punitive police being also quartered in the village. The other and still more important case occurred in the village of Basantpur in the Saran district. A mob of Hindus attempted to rescue a number of cattle that were being taken to Dinapore for commissariat purposes, and had been placed for safety inside the thana under the protection of the Police. Inspector Gyatri Prosonno Ghosal, with a small force of police, after giving the rioters ample warning, was compelled to fire on them, with the result that two of them were so severely wounded that they subsequently died. Although the accused were ultimately acquitted for want of sufficient identification, the action of the Inspector in ordering his men to fire on the rioters was held by the Judge who tried the case, and by the Government, to have been justified, and he has since been rewarded with promotion for the courage and due sense of responsibility shown by him on the occasion. In the Dacca Division there has been an increase of 34 in the number of true cases of riot, and this in spite of the extensive preventive measures taken under sections 106 and 107, C. P. C., in all districts of the division, with the exception of Mymensingh. No doubt, however, as Mr. Savage has stated, in a district like Backergunge, where rights and tenures are in a state of inextricable confusion, possession is considered more than nine points of the law, and it is generally accepted as cheaper and easier to fight and run the risk of punishment, than to seek redress in the Civil Courts. In the Rajshahi district an important case of riot occurred between two opposing members of the Nator family, known as the Bara and Chota Taraf, and occupied the time of the Courts for many days. In the course of the riot a man's head was cut off and carried away, and the body was claimed by both parties as that of one of their adherents. In the Chittagong Division, the only case of any importance was one in which Mr. King, of the Assam-Bengal Railway, was wounded by villagers armed with fishing spears and lathies. In this case eight of the accused were convicted and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment.

26. Class II.—Serious offences against the person.—Cases of this class fell from 4,666 to 4,568, the decrease occurring under all heads except "Hurt by dangerous weapons," "Attempts at and abetment of suicide," "Other murders," and "Attempts at murder." The percentage of convictions in cases and for persons tried shows improvement. In the former the percentage was 45·7, against 43·3 in 1892 and an average of 43·4 for the four preceding years, and in the latter it was 48·9, against 45·6 in 1892 and an average of 44·9 for the four years from 1889 to 1891. Of the 6,861 persons sent up for trial, 1,166 were tried by the Sessions Court. Here also there was an improvement as compared with former years, the percentage of convictions having risen from 47·9 in 1889 and 50·4 in 1892, to 52·3 in 1893. The number of true cases of murder reported increased from 351 to 356. The percentage of these cases ending in conviction was 25·5, or practically the same as last year; but the percentage of persons convicted to the number tried rose from 20·7 to 25·5. There were five cases of murder by dacoits, and 10 by robbers, against 8 and 15 respectively in 1891. The one case of murder by robbers in the Presidency Division occurred in the 24-Parganas, and in this a constable was beaten to death at night by some robbers, whom he had surprised in the act of robbing a goldsmith's shop. The murderers succeeded in escaping detection; but, as the Inspector-General points out, the case illustrates the desirability of having the watch and ward police working in pairs—an arrangement that has already been carried out in most towns. "Murders by poison" have fallen from 21 to 16, but under "Other murders" there was an increase of 18 cases, from 307 to 325. In the Burdwan Division, the results of trials under the latter head were the worst of any division in the province, the number of persons convicted being only 7, to 44 acquitted. A remarkable case occurred in the Khulna district, in which the accused, being enraged with his wife, a girl of 11 or 12 years of age, for not supplying him with water, attacked her and gouged her eyes out, causing her death. The man was sentenced by the Sessions Judge to be hanged, but the sentence was commuted by the High Court to one of seven years' transportation. In the Patna district an unhappy case occurred in which a post-office employé, in a fit of insanity, shot his bearer dead. An extraordinary case is reported from the Cuttack district, in which some raiyats, who were resisting distraint of their crops, severely injured one of the servants of the zamindar, and in order to support a charge of murder against the latter's party killed an old man of their own side.

27. Class III.—Serious offences against property.—There has been a decrease of 1,872 cases in this class, the number having fallen from 33,325 to 31,453. The decrease occurred under all serials of crime, except in cases of house-trespass (serial 37), in which there was an increase of 23 only. There was a decrease of 91 in true cases of dacoity, the number having fallen from 317 in 1892 to 226. The remedial measures taken to check this serious form of crime were enumerated in last year's report, and the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to think that they have already met with a fair measure of success. With the exception of the Chota Nagpur Division, where the increase was merely nominal, the only divisions which do not show a decrease in true cases of dacoity are Burdwan and Dacca, where the numbers rose from 42 and 18 to 62 and 26 respectively. Of the 62 cases in the Burdwan Division, no less than 27 occurred in the Midnapore district and 21 in Bankura. In these districts there has been in the past a noticeable suppression of crime, and the police either did not report cases, or reported them as minor offences. Instances of this suppression were brought to light during the year, and the officers to blame were punished. In Bankura a case which occurred as far back as 1890 was detected, two persons being sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment each—an excellent piece of work for which the credit is due to Sub-Inspector Ram Sadoy Mookherjee. A notorious bad character, Sarfaraz Khan, who is believed to have organized several dacoities in this district, was imprisoned during the year, and his organization has been broken up. In the Dacca Division the chief increase occurred in the Mymensingh district, where the number of cases rose from 6 to 17. In the opinion of the Inspector-General, the district is underpoliced, and this defect was noticed also by the Police Redistribution Committee who have recommended an increase to the district force of 9 officers and 80 men. In the Rajshahi Division the decrease in the number of cases is most marked in the Rangpur and Dinajpur districts, and is attributed by the Commissioner to the cessation of the agricultural distress which aggravated crime of this kind beyond the normal standard in 1892. At the same time he notices the improvement in the working of the police as a contributory cause. In Rangpur an important case was brought to a successful issue through the courage of the complainant who fired on the dacoits, and the promptness of a head-constable who arrested some of the men as they were about to leave by train. Five men in this case were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment each, and the head-constable and complainant were rewarded. In the Patna Division the number of cases of dacoity fell from 76 to 42, the decrease being most conspicuous in the Gaya district, where occurrences under this serial fell from 42 to 11. Of these, however, not a single case was detected—a result which is discreditable to the district police. The decrease in the number of cases is attributed by the Magistrate to the preventive measures taken against bad characters living in the centre of the district, who had been neglected in former years, and who were responsible for the great outbreak of dacoity in 1891 and 1892. That this is probably the correct explanation of the decrease in the number of cases is borne out by the fact that there was no decrease in the Jahanabad subdivision, where least attention was paid to bad characters—a reproach which the Lieutenant-Governor hopes will be removed during the present year.

28. Cases of robbery fell from 197 to 184, but while the percentage of convictions in cases has fallen from 42·6 to 42·3, that of persons has risen from 52·4 to 59·9. The number of true cases of mischief by fire rose from 375 to 396. Only 23 persons were convicted in these cases against 113 acquitted. The worst Divisions in this respect are Rajshahi and Presidency, with 97 and 72 cases, respectively, and only one person convicted.

29. Class IV.—Minor offences against the person.—The number of cases under this class fell from 2,268 to 2,082. Judicial results show a slight falling off, the percentage of convictions in cases being 21·1 against 21·7, and that of persons 28·2 as compared with 30·1 in 1892. As the majority of these offences are compoundable, more favourable results can hardly be expected.

30. Class V.—Minor offences against property.—Cases of this class decreased from 44,870 to 43,098, and if burglaries be included, the figures for the two years become 76,219 true cases in 1892 and 72,715 in 1893. The number of true cases of burglary fell from 31,349 to 29,617, being a decrease of 1,732 cases, and of theft from 30,529 to 29,098, or a decrease of 1,431. That the decrease is not more marked, considering the favourable harvests of 1893, may be attributed to the improvement in reporting occurrences. About 66 per cent. of burglary and 72 per cent. of theft cases were investigated, and in the former only about 1 in 9, and in the latter less than 2 in 5, were successfully worked out. In the Patna Division there was a decrease of 859 cases of burglary as compared with last year, the decrease occurring chiefly in the Gaya and Champaran districts. The percentage of cases in which the police abstained from enquiry is still too high, though it has fallen from 53 to 40·7, the figures for the Darbhanga district for the two years being 70·7 and 51·8. In the Darbhanga district, moreover, the great disproportion between the number of burglaries and thefts, of which there were 1,461 and 441 cases respectively, leaves no room for doubt that crime under the latter serial is still largely concealed, and the attention of the District Officers should be specially directed to the matter. As an illustration of the successful working of the anthropometrical system may be instanced a case of theft which occurred in the 24-Parganas, in which the accused, who had taken service under an assumed name, was identified by anthropometric measurements, and three previous convictions having been proved against him by this means, was sentenced to four years' rigorous imprisonment.

31. Class VI.—All other cases.—There has been a net decrease of 4,238 cases under this class, which is accounted for chiefly by a decrease of 4,098 under "Public and local nuisances," and of 634 in prosecutions under the Salt Act. Prosecutions under the Excise laws fell from 2,732 to 2,509. The number of cases of bad livelihood instituted rose from 2,638 to 2,944, and of these, 151, as compared with 91 in 1892, were instituted by petition before the Magistrate. In Lohardaga, out of 19 cases prosecuted, only one proved successful, and this very unsatisfactory result is no doubt due to the inordinate delay in taking up cases, the average duration of which from the date of issue of process was 135 days. In Palamau there were only 4 prosecutions during the year, and not a single one proved successful. In Singhbhum and Burdwan, results were almost as bad, only one out of 16 prosecutions in the former and 7 out of 23 in the latter ending in conviction. The importance of trying a certain number of these cases in the villages of the accused has been referred to in previous years, and the Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the number of cases so tried has risen from 843 to 1,168. Instances of delay, however, in disposing of cases are still very numerous. Thus in Jessore one case lasted 596 days from the date of issue of process, one in Bogra lasted 280 days, and one in Midnapore 244 days, while in seven other districts cases are shown as having lasted over 200 days. Judicial results for the whole province show a great improvement, and are the best on record for many years, 72 per cent. of the cases instituted, as compared with 71 per cent. last year, having proved successful.

The number of persons shown in the registers as under surveillance at the close of the year was 42,107, as compared with 45,151, and the decrease is attributed to the greater attention paid to the subject, which has led to the exclusion from the registers of some persons who had hitherto been needlessly included. A confidential register, containing the biographies of all persons registered for C. class surveillance, has been opened at the head-quarters of each district for the Magistrate's information, and he can thus satisfy himself whether the surveillance is really necessary or not, and whether it may safely be relaxed. The number of salt prosecutions fell from 2,006 to 1,099, the decrease occurring chiefly in Chittagong, Midnapore, and the Orissa Division, the latter being the tract where it has recently been asserted in the House of Commons and in the native newspapers that there had of late been unusual and excessive activity in prosecuting such cases. As an average, 15 seers of salt was attached for each person convicted.

32. Non-cognizable crime.—The following table shows the increase or decrease under each class of non-cognizable crime in 1892 and 1893:—

	1892.	1893.
1	2	3	4	5
Class I ...	8,994	9,278	284
" II ...	20	20
" III ...	823	959	136
" IV ...	57,264	58,252	988
" V ...	10,015	10,958	943
" VI ...	13,685	13,676	9
Special laws ...	30,923	28,447	2,476
Total ...	121,624	121,490	2,351	2,485
Net decrease	134

None of the cases call for special remark, but the Lieutenant-Governor notices that, as regards judicial results, there is, in many districts, a remarkable excess of acquittals over convictions. Thus in Midnapore the number of persons acquitted to persons convicted was 1,469 to 1,419, in Bogra it was 341 to 336, in Chittagong it was 1,306 to 1,032, in Champaran it was 1,165 to 797, and in Purnea it was 555 to 456. Again, in Palamau there were 199 persons acquitted to 156 convicted, whereas in the neighbouring district of Manbhum there were 516 convictions and only 43 acquittals. Such figures awaken the fear that sufficient care is frequently not taken by Magistrates to see that there is fairly strong prima facie evidence against the accused before the prosecution is admitted.

33. Remands.—The following table shows the percentage of remands in police cases sent up for trial:—

(b) Excluding ditto ditto.

The percentage of A forms disposed of at the first hearing and of those remanded more than six times is not quite so good as in 1892, but the variations are slight, and the figures are a great improvement on those of former years.

The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the improvement noticed last year has been generally maintained in all Divisions.

34. The number of cases of security for keeping the peace under section 107, C. P. C., has fallen from 4,020 to 3,938, being a decrease of 82 cases. In future reports it should be stated how many of the persons required to find security were able to do so, and how many had to go to jail in default.

35. Anthropometry.—A detailed report on the working of the anthropometric system for the identification of criminals was submitted to Government on the 1st May 1894, and the Inspector-General has not therefore thought it necessary to do more than make a few passing remarks on the subject. It would, however, have been well in this report to have briefly summarized the results attained and to have shown the number of criminals actually identified by means of the system during the year. The instruments used in measuring have been improved by mechanical additions which reduce the chances of inaccuracy in taking measurement to a minimum, the system of search has been made exhaustive, and the use of thumb impressions as the final test in the office of search has been adopted with the most successful results. From the separate report referred to above, it appears that the measurements of over 11,000 dangerous and habitual criminals have been permanently recorded. The system was put to the test of actual working for the first time towards the close of the year, and instructions were issued to all District Superintendents of Police requiring them to account separately for all unidentified persons in their districts, and to submit their nominal roll and measurement cards to the central office. The number of successful identifications thus secured in the eight months up to the 1st April 1894 was 48, and it is interesting to compare these figures with the corresponding figures in France, where in the second year of the working of the Bertillon system, the number of successes under similar conditions was only 49. These results justify the belief expressed by the Inspector-General that the system in Bengal has now been established on a firm and practical working basis, and that in a few years, especially if the system is introduced in the North-Western Provinces, the Central Office will be able to account for a large proportion of the persons who would otherwise have remained unknown to the police. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to hear that cordial assistance was rendered to the police engaged in measuring habituals by the officers of the Jail Department.

36. Mr. Henry brings to the notice of Government the good work done by Messrs. Giles, Daly, Pratt and Wilcox as Deputy Inspectors-General, and acknowledges his special obligations to Mr. Showers, who acted as his Personal Assistant throughout the year. The names of the District Superintendents of Police, Assistant Superintendents, and Inspectors who are mentioned in paragraph 42 of the report will be noted in the Appointment Department.

37. To Mr. Henry himself the thanks of Government are due for the zeal with which he has devoted himself to police work. His management of the department has been sound and sensible, and in particular he has developed anthropometry with such assiduity and energy that he has placed it on a firm basis as a useful agency for the identification of criminals.

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

IRRIGATION OPERATIONS OF CANALS IN BENGAL DURING THE RABI SEASON, 1893-94.

No. 10291.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 14th August 1894.

READ—

Statements Nos. I, II and III showing irrigation operations of canals in Bengal during the rabi season, 1893-94.

OBSERVATIONS.—The area irrigated during the rabi season of 1893-94 was 76,762 acres against 133,202 acres in 1892-93, showing a decrease of 57.62 per cent.

2. The rainfall during the year in each of the eight districts was less than that of the previous year, the average being 1.04 inches against 4.71 in 1892-93. The excess rainfall of the preceding year was, however, mainly in February, and there was a heavier fall in October 1893 than in October 1892, which materially affected the area leased.

3. From the Midnapore Canal, where there was no irrigation of rabi in 1892-93, 6,213 acres of boro rice were irrigated during the year, while from the Eden Canal 138 acres only of boro rice, sugar-cane and potatoes, were irrigated against 2,191 acres in 1892-93, showing a decrease of 2,053 acres. In the Sone Circle the area irrigated was 60,061 acres less than that irrigated in 1892-93, and in the Orissa Circle the decrease was 539 acres.

4. The details of the increase or decrease in the irrigation of the rabi crops from each canal during the year 1893-94, compared with those of the previous year, are given in the following statement:—

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1894.

THE meteorology of July has not only been highly important, but it has also been rather extraordinary from the number and importance of the barometric depressions and cyclonic storms which have been formed. All of these storms have moved in a westerly or north-westerly direction. Four of these storms, and indeed all the severe storms were formed over the sea, or partly over the sea and partly over the land, whilst two feeble depressions were formed over the land area.

In the first week two feeble storms occurred: one passing from the north-west angle of the Bay, and the other being formed in the centre and north of the province, but these were of little importance. After this came three severe storms, each more severe than the last, and the path of each of which was to the north of the former path. These were practically formed over the Bay, and moved in paths varying from north-west to west. The first of the three was decidedly severe, and the two last very severe, the third doing a good deal of damage to the shipping at the head of the Bay. The sixth was a feeble storm, as judged by the depression of the barometer, but it was highly important in the amount of rainfall it gave, and particularly because it gave heavy rain to areas which had hitherto received very little rain in July.

With this succession of storms large amounts of rain have been brought up to the province, but the distribution of the rain has been singular. The general rainfall of the province has been about 20 per cent. in excess of the normal, but nevertheless some districts have not received much more than half or one-third the usual amounts for July. Thus in Kuch Bihar a defect of no less than 63 per cent. and in Rangpur a defect of 62 per cent. of the normal fall in July has been recorded, while on the other hand, in the same division of North Bengal, the district of Pabna has received an excess fall of 74 per cent. Again in Bihar the district of Darbhanga has received a fall 48 per cent. less than usual, and Muzaffarpur and Purnea have shown defects of about 40 per cent., while also in Bihar the district of Bhagalpur has received a fall 51 per cent. in excess, and Gaya an excess of 46 per cent. of the normal fall. Hence, though the monsoon rainfall has been good on the whole, it has been remarkable for its irregular distribution, and in this respect the present monsoon appears to be almost unique.

At the close of June a very feeble barometric depression had formed in the north of the Bay, and on the 30th, or the last day of the month, it had advanced into the north-west angle, and its centre was close to Balasore and a little to the east of it. With the advance of the small depression, monsoon winds were again beginning to blow freely over the province, and hence general rain was being received. On the 1st of July the depression had to a great extent advanced inland, though it remained extremely feeble, and the lowest pressure was reported at Calcutta, while there was also a badly defined cyclonic circulation of winds over South-West Bengal. Practically, however, on this day, the depression had ceased to exist. On the 2nd the lowest pressure was reported from Rampur-Balia, and round this as a centre winds were again circulating feebly in a cyclonic form, but there was scarcely sufficient evidence to say that any barometric depression existed over this area on this day. On the 3rd, again, pressure was relatively low over the east of Bihar and part of North Bengal, and a moderate fall of pressure had occurred, while winds showed a tendency to circulate round a centre probably near Malda, so that a very feeble, but not very definite, barometric depression appears to have existed over the east of Bihar on this day. On the 4th the lowest pressures were reported at Patna and Arrah, where pressure was nearly a tenth of an inch in defect, and the feeble depression had apparently moved in a west-north-westerly direction, and hence pressure was falling in the western districts, while it was rising moderately to rapidly at the central and eastern stations. The circulation of winds accompanying the feeble depression was, however, by no means definite. On the 5th the feeble low pressure area had apparently passed away from the province, and pressure was rising briskly at all stations, though it was still in slight defect in the west and centre of the province. No true circulation of winds, however, was recorded on this day. On the 6th a further slow increase of pressure occurred, and pressure became in slight excess in all districts, while on the 7th pressure had again generally increased, though a fall was commencing at the western stations, but still pressure was in excess in practically all districts.

The first two feeble depressions of the month having thus passed away, they were followed by a third and much more vigorous storm, which was of considerable strength over the sea. It formed immediately after conditions had ceased to be disturbed after the Bihar depression.

Small cyclonic storm of July 8th to July 14th.—On the 8th, pressure was rising at the northern stations and falling over the southern half of the province, the fall increasing in amount towards the south-eastern districts, and being largest over the Bay. At the same time wind directions at a few of the south-eastern stations began to show indraught towards the sea area. It was hence evident that a barometric depression was forming in the east of the Bay. Over Bengal rain had fallen rather abundantly from the 7th to the 8th, the rainfall being particularly heavy in the west of the province. On the 9th the depression over the Bay was developing slowly, and pressure had fallen in all districts, but owing to the indraught towards the depression, the monsoon winds were being drawn away from Bengal, and on the 9th the rainfall reported was light and local. On the 10th a further slow development of the depression in the Bay took place, and the small storm was probably nearly in the centre of the Bay and to the south-west of Akyab. Winds showed a strong indraught towards the small storm, and therefore again little rain was reported in Bengal on this day. It is probable also that on the 10th the small storm was beginning to move in a westerly direction, for on the morning of the 11th the centre had become much nearer to the South Orissa Coast, and was probably to the south-east of False Point and to the east of Puri. Hence on the 11th pressure was falling slowly to moderately in Orissa and in the south-western districts of Bengal, while it had risen briskly over the remainder of the province. The centre of the small storm crossed the Orissa coast to the south of False Point, and the central line passed probably almost immediately over Puri at about 2 A.M. of the 12th.

The following is a short description of the weather experienced at Puri during the small storm as given by the Collector of that district :—

*“ The 11th July 1894.—*Weather was stormy with a strong gale of wind and rain at small intervals. The total amount of rainfall registered was 0·70 inch, of which 0·49 inch preceded the storm. The highest wind velocity was 38·2 miles an hour. Wind direction, north-north-east at first, was calm a little before the storm, then south-west and south-south-west. The state of sea during the storm was boisterous, but it subsided soon after the wind had ceased.

“ This weather first began with a light shower of rain amounting to 0·23 inch between forty minutes after 1 and 4 P.M. on the 11th instant, wind blowing in puffs from north-north-east at a velocity of 26·5 miles an hour. The sky was completely overcast. Between 6 and 8 P.M. there was another shower of rain amounting to 0·26 inch, wind direction continuing steady (north-north-east), but the velocity fell from 26·5 to 14·5 miles an hour. The sky was now clearing towards east and south, while over the horizon to west extending to south-west looked heavily clouded and threatening. At 2 A.M. (12th, following day) the wind was calm. This lasted till 3·45 A.M., when there was a sudden burst or strong gale of wind from south-west accompanied with rain. The rain ceased after 15 minutes, giving 0·21 inch, but the wind increased and continued to blow up to 10 A.M. at a velocity of 38·2 miles an hour. Here the wind slowly shifted to south-south-west and the velocity fell, blowing at 19·3 miles and lower and lower till 10 P.M., when the weather looked settled. The lowest barometer was 29·544 inches (corrected probably about 29·35 inches). It was taken at 2 A.M. on the 12th.”

It is hence clear from this description that the storm centre, which was accompanied by a decided calm, such as is usually experienced only in the cyclones of the transition periods, passed over Puri between 2 A.M. and 3·45 A.M. of the 12th of July. The storm having crossed the coast near Puri on the early morning of the 12th, moving in a westerly direction at 8 A.M. of that day it was some little distance to the south of Sambalpur. The storm was therefore moving rapidly in a westerly or west-north-westerly direction. It was not, however, a storm of great intensity, nor was the pressure at its centre very low, but it was accompanied by a most perfect cyclonic circulation of winds, which, particularly to the south of the storm, were decidedly strong. The storm having thus passed inland, conditions became rather more favourable for rainfall in Bengal, and on the morning of the 12th the majority of stations reported rain. The storm, however, continued to advance in an almost westerly direction at an extremely rapid rate, the average speed being about 25 miles an hour for the 24 hours from 8 A.M. of the 12th to 8 A.M. of the 13th, and on the latter date it was in Central India. On the 14th the small storm was entering Lower Sind, and on the 15th it had quite disappeared. The rapidity with which this storm therefore advanced across India is remarkable, as it covered the space between Orissa and Lower Sind in a little more than two days, or in certainly less than two days and a half, that is at the rate roughly of six hundred miles a day. By the strong indraught towards the rapidly retreating storm, the monsoon current was to a great extent deflected from Bengal, and hence much less rain was received than is usually the case after the passage of a storm through Orissa. On the 13th, also, in the rear of the storm, pressure had risen very rapidly over the whole of the west of the province, the increase equalling nearly a quarter of an inch in Orissa. On the other hand pressure had begun to fall moderately to rapidly in Burma, and there was a slight tendency for winds to set up a circulation along the Burma coast, and conditions were therefore again favourable for the commencement of another barometric depression over the east of the Bay.

At this period the fourth depression and cyclonic storm of the month formed. The storms in July also gradually increased in intensity during the month, for the fourth storm was a decidedly severe one, and much more severe than the storm which crossed over Puri on the 12th. It is also noticeable that the path of the fourth storm was more to the north than the third, and crossed the coast over Balasore to the north of Orissa.

*Severe cyclonic storm of July 14th to July 23rd.—*On the 14th, pressure continued to fall rapidly at the eastern stations and in the east of the Bay, while a smaller fall was reported over the remainder of the province, though pressure was still in considerable excess generally. Winds at the eastern stations, however, showed very distinct indraught towards the Bay, indicating the continued existence and probable slight intensification of the depression over that area. With the formation of this second storm, and by the indraught towards it, again the monsoon current blowing over Bengal began to fall off in force, and hence conditions were not very favourable for rainfall. On the 15th, pressure had fallen over the whole province, the fall being largest in the north of the Bay and at the eastern stations. Winds also showed a very decided cyclonic circulation, which extended over the whole of the north of the Bay and the greater part of Bengal. The centre of this circulation was probably to the west of the centre of the Bay in the latitude of Puri. On the 16th pressure was falling rapidly in Orissa, particularly at False Point, which reported a fall exceeding a tenth of an inch, while it was falling slowly in the west of the province and rising at the eastern stations. The small storm had apparently advanced in a north-north-westerly direction, and was at 8 A.M. of the 16th some little distance to the south-east of False Point, while it was also probably intensifying to a considerable extent. On the 17th the storm had advanced again in a north-north-westerly direction, and was within the north-west angle of the Bay, the centre being a short distance only to the south-east of Balasore. The storm had increased rapidly in intensity, and there had been a fall of pressure at Balasore of more than a fifth of an inch, while a decidedly rapid fall had occurred over the whole of the south-western districts of Bengal. A very strong cyclonic circulation of winds accompanied the storm, and it extended over the whole of Bengal and the northern half of the Bay. The centre of the small cyclonic storm then crossed the coast to the south of Balasore soon after noon of the 17th, and the exceedingly low pressure of 29.169 inches was recorded at that station at 1 P.M. This pressure is about a third of an inch below the normal of the day. Probably, also, as the centre did not actually pass over Balasore, at the actual centre of the storm a pressure of only about 29 inches existed. The pressure recorded at Balasore even is an unusually low pressure for a cyclonic storm of the rains. The storm gave very strong winds and stormy and very squally weather over a large part of the Bay, and particularly in the north-west angle, and from Balasore it is reported that during the early part of the storm at about 2 A.M. of the 17th instant, that is about 12 hours before the storm centre reached the coast, the flag-staff with the storm signals hoisted on it was blown down, and hence the signals could no longer be hoisted there.

Either immediately before crossing the coast, or as the storm advanced inland, it began to change its line of advance, and instead of moving in a north-north-westerly direction it advanced almost due west. Hence at 8 A.M. on the 18th the centre of the storm was a little to the south-east of Sambalpur in the Central Provinces, having thus advanced about 200 miles since the previous day in almost a due westerly direction. On the 19th the centre of the storm was to the south-east of Seoni, or about 240 miles to the west of its position on the 18th, while on the 20th the centre was near Pachmarhi, and on this day it had advanced in a west-by-north direction through about 120 miles. On the 21st, the centre of the storm was a little to the north-west of Indore, and had thus advanced about 200 miles in a west-north-westerly direction. On the 22nd the storm had advanced in a north-westerly direction and its centre was near Mount Abu. On the 23rd it had advanced into Lower Sind, and on the 23rd, though a depression was still indicated over that area, it was very feeble, and on the 24th the depression had entirely disappeared. Thus the storm which first formed a little to the west of the centre of the Bay about the 14th instant continued to exist quite up to the 23rd or for ten days, during which period it also advanced in directions varying in different parts of its course from north-north-westerly to westerly over a path probably seventeen or eighteen hundred miles long, giving heavy weather and abundant rain practically throughout its existence. It was therefore a storm of exceptional nature.

As the storm approached the western side of the Peninsula it created a very strong indraught of monsoon winds from the Arabian Sea towards it. It hence caused very heavy weather in the western districts of India, and probably also in the Arabian Sea, while it gave exceptionally heavy rainfall over Western and North-Western India and caused most disastrous floods in several places.

The storm therefore was a very important one, as it gave heavy weather from about the 14th or 15th, up till certainly the 22nd, in the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea and over the head of the Peninsula as well. During the passage of the storm inland through the north of Orissa, in addition to the stormy weather with very strong winds and the very low pressures which were recorded, some very heavy falls of rain were reported. Thus from 8 A.M. of the 16th to the 18th Chandbali received 12.3 inches of rain, and Bhadrak also in the Balasore district 7.7 inches. A heavy wave of monsoon winds advanced in the rear of the storm, but owing to the westerly direction taken by it, the monsoon current was mainly deflected towards the Central Provinces, and therefore away from Bengal. Hence the monsoon current affecting Bengal during the passage of the storm across the Peninsula was again rather feeble, except in the south-western districts and Orissa, which were more or less affected by the storm. The rainfall for this period was therefore in very large defect in North and East Bengal and Bihar; the defect was much smaller in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, while on the other hand the fall in Orissa was nearly twice as large as usual.

A fifth barometric depression and cyclonic storm was then formed, which gave very severe weather at the head of the Bay, and indeed caused a considerable amount of damage to the shipping at the Sandheads. The fifth storm passed further to the north than the fourth storm had done, in the same way that the fourth storm had passed further north than the third. It would also appear that the severity of the fifth storm was greater than that of the fourth, and hence the storms in question formed a kind of series of increasing intensity.

Severe cyclonic storm of July 23rd to July 28th.—While the fourth storm was still in existence conditions were again becoming disturbed in the Bay. On the 22nd pressure was falling at all except a few of the south-western stations, the fall being largest in the north-east angle of the Bay. It is probable that even on this day a small storm was forming, as the weather at Akyab on the 22nd was extremely suspicious with a falling barometer during the day, while to the south very strong winds and very squally weather were reported from Diamond Island. On the 23rd the observations indicated that a feeble storm existed partly over the head of the Bay and partly over the Sunderbans with a centre to the south of Barisal, where pressure was 0.13 inch in defect. It is uncertain whether this storm was the continuation of the disturbance indicated in the north-east angle of the Bay on the 22nd, but if it was, the disturbance must have moved in a north-westerly direction during the 24 hours from the 22nd to the 23rd. During the 23rd the storm commenced to move in a westerly direction, and up to 4 p.m. of that date it had not intensified to any extent, but remained a feeble disturbance. From that time, however, it commenced to deepen and intensify rapidly, and at 8 a.m. of the 24th it was a deep and rather severe storm, the centre being about 30 to 40 miles to the south-east of Calcutta, where a pressure of only 29.203" was recorded or 0.318" below the normal. With the rapid deepening of the storm the cyclonic circulation of winds became much stronger and extended over the whole of Bengal. The main force of the winds was to the south and south-east of the storm, and a severe gale of wind blew at Saugor Island and the Sandheads, commencing from about midnight on the 23rd, and for several hours the wind velocity at Saugor Island averaged more than 60 miles an hour. At noon of the 24th the centre of the storm was about 25 or 30 miles to the south-south-west of Calcutta, the centre having passed apparently close to Diamond Harbour, and at this time the direction of its movement must have been a little to the north of west. Its rate of advance then became very slow for some hours, and up to 10 p.m. the storm had made little further advance, and its centre was still to the south-west of Calcutta and south-east of Midnapore. This retardation appears to have been due to an alteration in the direction of its movement which was taking place, for it is always the case that storms move very slowly while recurring. After 10 p.m. it moved almost in a north-westerly direction, and at 8 a.m. on the 25th the centre was to the south of Bankura and nearer to that station than to Midnapore. The pressure at Bankura on the 25th at 8 a.m. was 29.274" or 0.211" in defect, and it is probable the storm was already commencing to fill up slightly, though it was still accompanied by strong cyclonic winds. On the 26th at 8 a.m., the storm was entering Baghelkhand, and had hence moved across Chota Nagpur during the 24 hours at an average rate of about 12 miles an hour in a west-north-westerly direction. The depression at the centre of the storm was much smaller than on the previous day, and probably did not exceed a tenth of an inch, but it was still accompanied by a fairly strong cyclonic circulation of winds. On the 27th the storm had marched nearly westwards and the centre was close to Sutna, and the storm was a shallow depression only, while on the 28th it had almost completely filled up.

During the passage of the storm, in addition to the very low pressures recorded and the very strong cyclonic circulation of winds, which gave very stormy weather with very rough sea at the head of the Bay, and rather squally or somewhat stormy weather over a large part of Bengal, the storm also gave heavy rainfall over the south-western part of the province, the falls being exceedingly heavy near the path of the centre. Thus on the morning of the 24th Contai, in the Midnapore district, reported 15.29 inches of rain, Dantoon, also in the Midnapore district, 10.31 inches, Diamond Harbour 9.90 inches, and Tamluk, Ghatal and Saugor Island each more than 7 inches. On the 25th Mohanea, Shahabad district, reported 6.65 inches, and Aurangabad, Kendrapara, Jajpur, Akhyapada, Chaudbali, Bhadrak and Balasore from four to six inches, and so on.

In the rear of the storm also a heavy wave of monsoon winds flowed over the province, but it was deflected mainly over the western and south-western districts, and the remainder of the province received comparatively little rain. On July 29th, however, a change again occurred, pressure fell moderately to briskly over the whole province and became in moderate defect, while at the same time westerly winds apparently forming part of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current began to set in over the west of the province, and to drive back the south-easterly and easterly monsoon winds coming from the Bay of Bengal. As is usually the case when such interaction occurs, very heavy rain began to fall in the western districts of Bengal and in Bihar, and on the 29th many of the stations in this district reported heavy rain, Bettiah receiving 8.50 inches, Buxar 6.14 inches, Siwan 5.17 inches, and many other stations rather heavy falls.

These conditions with winds being of more or less opposite direction, with the accompanying very heavy rainfall, again gave rise to a barometric depression, but which on this occasion was of a feeble nature.

Feeble barometric depression of July 30th to the 1st August.—On the 30th pressure had fallen over the eastern half of the province, the fall being largest at Dinajpur, while it had risen over the west and south-west of the province, and a distinct but feeble barometric depression had formed with a centre near Dinajpur, round which a very distinct circulation of winds appeared. Hence conditions had become particularly favourable for rainfall over practically the whole province, and falls exceeding five inches were reported at Atia, Fenny, Harishpur, Cox's Bazar, and Siwan, while very numerous stations reported amounts of more than three inches. On the 31st the feeble depression had moved in a westerly direction, and was lying along the foot of the hills from about Purnea westwards, and on the 1st of August it had almost disappeared, or had become merged into the monsoon trough of low pressure which at this time was lying almost along the foot of the hills.

This last depression, though meteorologically speaking a feeble one, was of great practical importance, as it gave the first general and heavy rainfall which had been received during the month in certain parts of Bihar and North Bengal, and which were very badly in want of rain, and particularly in such districts as Daibhanga, Muzaffarpur, Purnoa, Jalpaiguri Rajshahi, Rangpur, Dinajpur, &c.

Pressure.—During the first week of the month pressure was usually below the normal, the defects ranging from 0·015" to 0·035", and being usually largest at the central and south-western stations. In the second week pressure was unusually high, and was in excess by a tenth of an inch, but owing to the passage of the small cyclonic storm through the south of Orissa, the excess over that area was comparatively small. In the third week the distribution of pressure was governed by the storm which passed near Balasore, and while the mean pressure in Orissa and at the neighbouring stations in Bengal showed a decided defect, over the remainder of the province, decided excess pressures were registered. In the fourth week the mean pressure varied from an excess of 0·01" to 0·02" at the extreme northern stations to a defect of 0·08" at Calcutta and defects of 0·05" and 0·06" at Saugor Island, Jessore, Midnapore, Cuttack, &c., and hence again the pressure distribution was governed by the storm which had passed through South Bengal. The mean pressure for the whole month has therefore shown very slight defects at the extreme southern stations in South Bengal and also in Orissa, while slight excess pressures have been registered elsewhere, the excess equalling about 0·02" to 0·03" at the extreme northern stations.

Temperature.—The mean temperatures for the month have to a great extent followed the variations in the heaviness of the rainfall, and hence the whole of the north of the province has shown a mean temperature of about a degree in excess of the normal. The remainder of the province has registered slightly defective temperatures, the defects increasing towards the south-western districts, and being largest at Cuttack, where a defect of 1·6° is registered.

Rainfall.—The distribution of the rainfall throughout the month and its variation in different districts has already been described in detail in the general summary. The most noticeable feature has been the partial, and in some cases almost entire failure of the monsoon rain to reach certain districts in the north of the province in Bihar and North Bengal. This failure continued almost until the formation of the sixth depression in the last few days of the month, but fortunately this depression gave heavy and much needed rain to the districts which had been previously almost rainless.

The actual rainfall recorded in the different divisions has varied from about nineteen inches in East Bengal, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, and fourteen inches in South-West Bengal and Bihar, to only eleven inches in North Bengal. Slight to moderate excess general falls have been therefore recorded in all districts except North Bengal.

The following table gives a comparison of the falls in the various divisions during the month of July with the normal fall, the actual being given as a percentage of the normal fall. The table also shows the actual falls for each of the previous months of the year expressed in the same way, and the last column of the table shows the total of the falls of the past seven months of the year in each division expressed as a percentage of the normal fall. It will be seen that the general fall in the province in July has been 20 per cent. in excess of the normal, while in North Bengal there has been a defect of 20 per cent. Also that for the year up to the end of July the general rainfall of the province has equalled 103 per cent. of the normal, though decided defects have been registered in North Bengal:—

As indicated previously, the distribution of rainfall during July has been extremely irregular. The falls indeed have varied from 57·57 inches in parts of South-East Bengal as represented by the station Cox's Bazar and over 40 inches in parts of North Bengal as represented by a fall of 40·86 inches at Buxa in the Darjeeling district, to a fall of only 3·57 inches at Shinhari in the Muzaffarpur district, and to falls of only two inches at Sunderganj in the Rangpur district and at Dinhatta in the Kuch Bihar district, and to falls of about four inches at Rangpur itself and Peerganj also in the Rangpur district. Thus at almost neighbouring stations the falls have varied to an enormous extent.

Compared with the normal amounts for July, the actual falls also exhibit most startling discrepancies. The whole of the north of the province, north of a line from about Netrakona to the south of the Champaran district, has received a defective fall, the defect usually exceeding five inches, and at such stations as Siliguri, Kuch Bihar, and Mathabhangha exceeding fifteen inches, while the southern parts of the province have received excess falls exceeding 5 and 10 inches over a large area and ranging up to excess falls of more than fifteen inches at Cox's Bazar, Chandbali and Contai. As instances of the extraordinary irregularity of the rainfall in July at neighbouring stations, it may be mentioned that in the Saran district, while Siwan received an excess fall of more than nine inches, Gopalganj, only a few miles to the north of it, received a defective fall of three inches; in Champaran, Bettiah received an excess fall of three inches and Motihari a defective fall of four inches; and in the Bhagalpur district Banka received an excess fall of thirteen inches and Bhagalpur itself an excess of seven inches, while Supaul received a defective fall of five inches. Hence it will be seen that the fall has been exceedingly irregular even at neighbouring stations, and it is therefore impossible to give any very general and correct review of the rainfall.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past fifteen years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage; and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall:—

The mean temperature of the seven days 83.1

The average temperature of the corresponding period for 24 years, Surveyor-General's Office 83.2

The extreme variation of temperature 9.5

The maximum temperature 87.9

The highest velocity of the wind in one hour 9

The mean relative humidity 88

The total fall from 1st January to 11th August 1894 31.38

The average fall of the corresponding period for 24 years, Surveyor-General's Office 39.03

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers & thunder, P dew.

TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
DAY, THE 11TH OF AUGUST 1894.

At the close of the previous week the monsoon current blowing over the province was fairly strong, as a low pressure area, which had formed in Bengal, had advanced along the foot of the hills in the North-Western Provinces, and the monsoon winds were being drawn into the feeble depression which still remained. On the 5th of August, or the first day of the week under review, pressure had fallen briskly over the province, and had become in defect by amounts ranging up to a tenth of an inch at the western stations in Bihar. On the 6th instant pressure rose slowly except at the extreme southern stations, and became decidedly low over the centre and north of the Bay and over Orissa, while winds round the north-west angle of the Bay showed a very distinct indraught towards the sea area. It was thus clear a feeble depression had formed off the Orissa Coast on the 6th. On the 7th pressure had again fallen slowly in the south of Orissa, but had risen elsewhere, and the feeble depression which had formed in the Bay on the 6th had become more definite, and was lying off the South Orissa Coast with a centre to the south-east of Puri. It was still a feeble depression, and had not intensified since the 6th. It passed inland during the afternoon of the 7th, the centre crossing the coast near Puri, and at 8 A.M. of the 8th the centre was a little to the south of Sambalpur and had therefore moved in a west-north-westerly direction. It was still a very shallow depression, but it was of large extent and affected a large part of North-Eastern and Northern India, and a fairly heavy wave of monsoon winds advanced over Bengal in connection with it. On the 9th the feeble depression had again advanced in a west-north-westerly direction in the Central Provinces, but it had become very feeble, and had practically ceased to exist. On the 9th and 10th, however, pressure fell rather briskly over the greater part of Bengal and Assam, and on the 10th it was in defect by from 0.06" to 0.08". This again caused an increase in the strength of the monsoon winds blowing from the Bay over Bengal, and at this time very strong monsoon winds were reported. On the 11th an inrush of westerly and north-westerly winds commenced in the west of the province, partially driving back the strong southerly and south-easterly winds which were flowing in over Bengal from the Bay. By the interaction thus produced, heavy rain was precipitated over the western districts. Pressure also began to fall briskly to rapidly, the fall equalling a tenth of an inch at some of the south-eastern stations, and by the opposing north-westerly and westerly winds with the south-easterly and easterly winds a distinct cyclonic circulation began to set up over the south and south-east of the province. Hence again a feeble whirl or barometric depression had formed over Bengal on this day, and conditions became very favourable for continued general and rather heavy rainfall.

Hence throughout the greater part of the week conditions have again been favourable for good general rain over the province, and falls decidedly in excess of the normal have been received in all districts except South-West Bengal and Orissa, where the falls have been rather smaller than usual.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been very considerably below the normal, the defect usually equalling from 0.04" to 0.06". These defects have been generally largest in Orissa owing to the passage of the depression, and at Cuttack and Balasore the defect equals 0.07".

In Assam pressure has been in defect by an average amount of 0.05".

Temperature.—The mean temperature has been generally very nearly normal, and for the whole province of Bengal the average mean temperature has been above the normal by about a tenth of a degree only. In Assam, on the other hand, a defect of 0.8° has been recorded.

Rainfall.—Average falls of between about four and four and a half inches have been received in North and East Bengal and in Chota Nagpur, and of nearly four inches in Bihar. Much smaller falls averaging about two inches only have been received in Orissa and South-West Bengal.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 58 per cent., North Bengal 126 per cent., East Bengal 108 per cent., Bihar 127 per cent., Orissa 75 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 137 per cent. Taking each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 105 per cent. of the normal fall.

In the case of the smaller districts the falls have been particularly heavy in Jalpaiguri, which has received 11.92 inches against the usual fall of 6.84 inches, in Rangpur with 4.84 inches against the normal 2.99 inches, in Bogra with 5.17 inches against the normal 2.69 inches, in Shahabad with 4.96 inches against the normal 2.69 inches, in Champaran with 6.37 inches against the normal 3.49 inches, in Darbhanga with 4.58 inches against the normal 2.63 inches, and in Bhagalpur with 6.33 inches against the normal 3.01 inches.

Very heavy falls have also occurred on various days at individual stations: thus on the 5th August Khurda (Puri district) received 10.87 inches, Debiganj 5.82 inches, Siliguri 6.47 inches, Thakurgaon (Dinajpur district) 9.99 inches. On the 6th Raiganj received 4.89 inches and Bogra 4.96 inches; on the 10th Arrah received 4.50 inches and Mirsarai (Chittagong district) 5 inches, and on the 11th Bhagalpur (Jalpaiguri district) 5.38 inches, Hazaribagh 3.82 inches, and Karagdeha 4.02 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of August 1894:—

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners No. 199, dated 26th August 1893, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given the following information relating to the positions of rocks and shoals in the vicinity of Diamond Point (Jambu Ayer), derived from a recent Netherlands chart of the locality:—

1. The bank named Minjak, with a depth of 6 fathoms on it, and 15 to 19 fathoms around, lies with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. (S. 70° E.), distant $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and Pasai summit S. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. (S. 16° W.).

Approximate position, lat. $5^{\circ} 19' 20''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 21' 30''$ E.

2. The shoal named Tenga, with a depth of $2\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms on it, and 12 to 14 fathoms around, lies about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles S.E. by S. (S. 34° E.) from Minjak, or with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing E. by S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. (S. 76° E.), distant $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and Pasai summit S. by W. $\frac{2}{3}$ W. (S. 19° W.).

3. The rock Karang Timau is awash at low-water springs, with depths of 8 to 10 fathoms around, and lies with Diamond Point, north extreme, bearing East, distant 6 miles, and Pasai summit S.S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. (S. 25° W.).

Approximate position, lat. $5^{\circ} 16' 15''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 24' 15''$ E.

4. There is a general extension of shoal water to the north-westward of Diamond Point, its width within the 5 fathoms line being about 2 miles. The north-west extreme of this shoal, where there is a depth of 5 fathoms, with $3\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms immediately south-eastward and less water towards Diamond Point, lies with the north extreme of Diamond Point, bearing S.E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E. (S. 53° E.), distant $3\frac{3}{4}$ miles, and Pasai summit S.S.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. (S. 28° W.).

5. From about one mile westward of Diamond Point to 18 miles westward of that point, the high-water mark has advanced seaward as much as one mile for the greater part of the distance; and at 11 miles from Diamond Point depths of less than 3 fathoms extend 4 miles north-westward of the position of Changkul, as shown on the old charts.

Approximate position, north-west extreme of 3 fathoms, lat. $5^{\circ} 14' 30''$ N., long. $97^{\circ} 19'$ E.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 18TH OF AUGUST 1894.

At the close of the previous week ordinary monsoon conditions prevailed in Bengal except that on the 11th, or the last day of the week, there was a slight tendency for a barometric depression to form over Bengal. On the 12th, or the first day of the week under review, pressure had fallen over the eastern half of the province and at some of the central and northern stations, while it was rising in the west of the province. Hence the barometric depression which had been forming on the previous day had become more prominent, and pressure was in defect by amounts ranging up to 0·17" at Faridpur and 0·162" at Barisal and Narayanganj. A distinct circulation of winds also set up round the low pressure area, and by the indraught towards the depression, winds became rather strong at the head of the Bay. General and rather heavy rain was also being received in connection with the depression. On the 13th the feeble depression had moved in a west-north-westerly direction into West Bengal, and the centre was a little to the north of Raniganj. It had not, however, intensified in any way and was still very feeble, though it was giving good general rain over the whole province. Hence on the 13th with the movement of the depression pressure had fallen at the western and south-western stations, while it was rising at the eastern, northern and central stations. It was also accompanied by an almost perfect cyclonic circulation of winds, though the wind force was light. On the 14th the depression had again moved away in a west-north-westerly direction, and the centre was probably near Hazaribagh, but it was a very extensive and shallow depression, and was giving moderate winds only with general and fairly heavy rain. On the 15th the barometric changes in Bengal were particularly small, and the very feeble depression had continued to drift very slowly westwards and covered Bagbolkhand and part of Chota Nagpur, so that conditions in Bengal remained unchanged, and moderate general rain with a moderately strong monsoon prevailed. On the 16th pressure was rising slowly at all except a few of the eastern stations, and the feeble depression had moved slightly westwards, and was mainly over the North-Western Provinces with a centre, perhaps, to the south of Benares, so that it had practically little effect on the conditions in Bengal. A fairly strong monsoon, however, continued to blow over Bengal towards the depression, and rainfall continued general. On the 17th pressure continued to increase very slowly over the greater part of Bengal, and the feeble depression had again extended slightly in a westerly direction, but the general weather conditions in Bengal were quite unchanged. Finally, on the 18th, or the last day of the week, pressure had again risen moderately to rather briskly over Bengal, though it was falling in Assam, but notwithstanding the steadily increasing pressure, a defect usually ranging from 0·05" to 0·08" was still registered over the province. The feeble depression had again moved westwards, and the centre was near Nowgong, but it was unchanged in general character, and was a very shallow diffused depression extending over a large area and accompanied by a distinct cyclonic circulation of winds. As before, moderate monsoon winds were blowing over Bengal into the depression, and hence fairly general rain continued to be received.

Hence it will be seen that throughout the whole week a barometric depression has existed, and has moved slowly from South-East Bengal in a west-north-westerly and westerly direction to near Nowgong. The depression, however, has at no time developed in intensity, and has remained throughout as a feeble, diffused low pressure area with a moderate cyclonic circulation of winds. On the other hand, throughout its existence it has given fairly general and rather heavy rain. It is very unusual for a depression to exist for so long a period without any practical change in intensity, and hence the history of the depression has been peculiar.

Pressure.—Owing to the passage of the depression through the province, pressure has been rather largely below the normal. The defect has been smallest at the extreme eastern stations, which have not been affected by the depression, and at Sibsaigar the defect has only equalled 0·059". On the other hand, in the west of the province, where the stations have been affected for the longest time by the depression, defects exceeding a tenth of an inch are common, and at Hazaribagh the defect has equalled 0·124".

Temperature.—Owing to the good general rainfall which has been received, the mean temperature has been in defect in practically all districts. The defects have been largest in Chota Nagpur, Orissa, and South-West Bengal, where they have equalled nearly a degree and-a-half, and for the whole of Bengal the defect in the mean temperature has averaged one degree.

In Assam a defect of only 0·3° has been registered.

Rainfall.—The heavy average fall of more than five inches has been received in Chota Nagpur during the week, which is nearly twice the usual amount. In South-West Bengal, East Bengal and Bihar, the falls have averaged between three and three-and-a-half inches, while in North Bengal and Orissa they have averaged between two and two-and-a-half inches. The falls in Bihar and South-West Bengal have been in moderate excess, while they have been in defect elsewhere.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 112 per cent., North Bengal 64 per cent.,

East Bengal 84 per cent., Bihar 130 per cent., Orissa 89 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 191 per cent. Taking each division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 112 per cent. of the normal fall.

In the case of the smaller districts the falls have been decidedly heavy in Birbhum, Bankura, Shahabad, Monghyr, Munbhum, and Singhbhum, and on the other hand decidedly light falls have been reported in Howrah, Calcutta district, Darjeeling, Kuch Bihar, South Lushai Hills, and Bhagalpur.

Heavy falls exceeding seven inches during the week have been received at the following stations:—Hitampur (Birbhum district), Khatra (Bankura district), Gangajhalghati and Raipur (both in Bankura district), Garhbeta (Midnapore district), Gnatong, Noakhali, Chittagong, Bhabua, Sasaram, Mohanea, Khiri and Bassawan in the Shahabad district, Gobindpur (Munbhum district), and Chaibassa and Kalikapur in the Chaibassa district.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 18th of August 1894:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

In the weekly report from 1st to 7th July 1894 read 1.29 inches for 0.29 inch as the rain of the 4th July 1894.

FORM FOR RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS OF SUMMARY GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL.

(See Manual of Military Law.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

ACT V of 1869, known as the Indian Articles of War, has long been felt to require amendment and re-casting, as much for the many defects and redundancies contained therein as for its faulty arrangement.

In 1887, the Indian Army Bill was drafted on the basis of the Army Act with the view to extending to the Native Army, as far as the difference of circumstances would permit, the improvements in military law introduced into the British Army by the Army Act and the preceding Discipline Act; but, as that Bill did not meet with the approval of the Secretary of State, a Bill for the amendment of Act V of 1869 was ordered, and is now submitted, dealing only with the more glaring defects of the Articles of War, following very greatly the proposals of the Indian Army Bill, 1887.

A further reason for the amendment of the Act arises from the passing by Parliament of the Madras and Bombay Armies Act, abolishing, from a date to be determined by the Governor General in Council, the Presidential system.

It has been deemed expedient to confer on the General Officers Commanding the Forces in the four Commands into which the Army of India is to be divided under the new system all the powers now held by the Commanders-in-Chief of Madras and Bombay.

The powers now held by the Governors of Madras and Bombay have been entirely rescinded.

In explaining some of the more important of the proposed amendments the order of the sections will, as far as possible, be adhered to.

1. Section 3 specifies the different classes of persons subject to military law. It will be observed that persons who are not gazetted, attested or enrolled, and who are included merely on the ground of their being servants or followers, are subject to the law only when on active service, in camp, on the march, or at a frontier post at which the Governor General in Council may direct that they shall be so subject.

It follows that all persons attached to the Native Army, whom it is desired to subject to military law in cantonments, must be either attested or enrolled, and it is left to executive action to determine what classes of persons shall be enrolled and what classes attested.

2. Section 6 provides that the Governor General in Council may declare what persons are to be enrolled only or be both enrolled and attested. It is apprehended that the distinction between attestation and enrolment has not been always attended to, and that persons may thus have been attested who ought to have been enrolled, and vice versa; and, as the amendment makes certain substantial distinctions between attested and enrolled persons, it has been thought well to empower the Commander-in-Chief in India, and General Officers Commanding the Forces in the four Commands, subject to any rules which may be prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to direct that any persons who have been attested under the old law shall be deemed to be enrolled under the new law, and vice versa.

Sub-section (3) provides that, except in the case of a recruit, who will be attested when reported fit for duty, the form of attestation should be gone through as soon as possible upon enlistment or enrolment before a civil or military officer; and it should be stated that the intention is that the officer should ordinarily be an officer invested with magisterial powers.

3. In connection with this amendment a question of some importance presents itself as to the mode of dealing with classes of Natives serving with British corps.

The persons in question may, in some cases, be mere servants, as, for example, the grass-cutters attached to a British cavalry regiment; but in other cases, like that of the mahouts attached to a British heavy battery, they may be said to constitute an integral part of the corps.

The necessity of subjecting some persons of those classes to military law appears to be recognized; and it seems clear and is further in accordance with the general intention shown in the Mutiny Acts and in the Army Act, and by the recent action of the Government of India in bringing native drivers of British mountain batteries and the men of the Transport Corps under the Indian Articles of War, that they should, if subject to military law, be subject to that form of it provided for the Native Army.

The Army Act, in so far as it applies Indian military law to any persons of these classes, applies it only to them in certain cases where they are on active service—see section 176 (10); and it is understood that the usual practice has been to enrol them or attest them in some manner under the Indian Articles and then treat them as persons who, though their services are placed at the disposal of the British corps, belong to the Native Army and are subject to the Indian Articles. The amendment will admit of this practice being continued, but with a slight additional formality, in the case of persons who are merely enrolled and not attested. In the case of these persons it would be impracticable to prescribe any more elaborate process for subjecting them to military law than the mere entry of their names on a list with their consent. This being so, the list on which they are entered ought to become specially appropriated to this purpose. If, for example, they were merely entered on the pay list of a British corps which might contain the names of other classes of Native servants whom it is not proposed to subject to military law, there would be nothing to distinguish their position from that of those other servants, and, as has occasionally happened, a doubt might arise on the important point as to whether they were or were not subject to military law. To prevent this the amendment provides that the name of a person to be enrolled must be entered on the list of some corps or department of Her Majesty's Indian Forces. Special lists will therefore have to be kept in such British corps in which Natives attached to the corps, and whom it is desired to subject to Indian military law, will be entered as belonging to some sort of servants, corps or department of Her Majesty's Indian Forces. This, it is believed, will not give much trouble, and it will put an end to the difficulties which now from time to time arise regarding the position of these persons.

4. Article 2 (1), (2), (3) and (4) empower certain authorities to confer upon servants and followers subject to military law a status higher than that of a soldier for the purposes of any provision of the law, and has been suggested by section 175 (8) of the Army Act; but, having regard to the great diversities of position among the numerous persons who accompany an army in this country in connection with the furnishing of supplies, for the performance of clerical work, as private traders, and otherwise, it has been thought well to give a wider discretion and to allow not merely the status of an officer but also that of a warrant officer or non-commissioned officer to be thus conferred.

5. Article 2 (5) empowers the Governor General in Council to determine in cases of doubt any question as to the rank of any person, or as to whether he is above or below a specified rank, and has been introduced with reference to those Articles which apply, e.g., to persons "below the rank of warrant officer" or "below the rank of non-commissioned officer." It is believed that, as a rule, there will be no difficulty in determining the rank of a person subject to the Articles of War; but, as in the case of some enrolled persons a doubt might arise, it has been deemed advisable to provide for its removal.

6. Articles 3 and 4.—Under the existing law, the discharge, as distinguished from the dismissal, of a commissioned officer or other person has been practically impossible. Dismissal carries with it forfeiture of all claim to pension. This has not unfrequently been found to be inconvenient. It may often be desirable to discharge a commissioned officer or soldier under conditions which do not call for a forfeiture of pension earned.

The proposed amendment will effect this end without injustice to the discharged person.

The further amendment in article 4, giving power to General Officers Commanding divisions or districts to dismiss or discharge, is thought to be very desirable. This power is exercised by the General Officers Commanding the Punjab Frontier Force and the Hyderabad Contingent under the existing law, and has worked well.

Courts-martial.

7. An effort, which necessarily leads to the repealing of a large number of the existing Articles, has been made to effect a considerable simplification. At present there are no less than ten different kinds of Courts-martial. The formal list in article 72 mentions only eight, but the headings "General Courts-martial" and "District Courts-martial" in that list each comprise two sub-divisions, General and District Courts-martial being practically different Courts when they are convened under the authority of an Order in Council from what they are when otherwise convened.

The amendment provides for only five descriptions of Courts-martial, namely:

General Courts-martial, District Courts-martial, and Regimental Courts-martial, and	} which are called ordinary Courts-martial.
--	---

Summary General Courts-martial, and Summary Courts-martial,	} which are called extraordinary Courts-martial.

8. The General Court-martial corresponds to the General Court-martial of the Army Act and the present Articles, and will consist of seven officers instead of nine; but, if the full complement of seven officers is not available, it may consist of any number not less than five.

The District Court-martial corresponds to the District and Garrison Courts-martial of the present Articles, but differs therefrom in the following particulars, that it is to consist of not less than five officers instead of seven, but, if so many as five are not available, it may consist of any number not less than three: that it is competent to try any offence under the Articles, and its power of awarding imprisonment is extended from one to two years. It will be observed that, as to this last particular, its powers have been put on the same footing as those of a District Court-martial under the Army Act.

The Regimental Court-martial corresponds to the Regimental Court-martial, Regimental Detachment Court-martial and Detachment Court-martial of the present Articles. Its powers remain the same, but it is to consist of three—instead of five—officers.

It is debarred from trying a considerable number of the more serious military offences and any civil offence without the permission of superior authority. It can try any person subject to the Articles and not above the rank of non-commissioned officer who is under the command of the convening officer.

9. Article 89.—Every finding and sentence of an ordinary Court-martial requires confirmation and will be valid only in so far as it is confirmed. This is in substantial accordance with the existing law, but an important change is proposed in article 89A, sub-section (1), which, except on active service or beyond the limits of India, makes sentences of death, transportation or imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years confirmable only by the Commander-in-Chief in India, the General Officer of a Command or an officer commanding a force not attached to a Command.

10. Of the extraordinary Courts-martial the Summary General Court-martial corresponds to the Field General Court-martial of the Army Act and to the Detachment General Court-martial of the present Articles. It is intended also to replace to some extent the General Court-martial which the present Articles allow to be convened under an Order in Council, but which has, as a matter of fact, now fallen into disuse. It may be convened by an officer specially empowered by the Government of India or by the Commander-in-Chief in India, or the General Officer of a Command, or by an Officer Commanding any detached portion of Her Majesty's troops on active service, when, in his opinion, it is not practicable, with due regard to discipline and the exigencies of the service, that an offence should be tried by an ordinary General Court-martial.

It has the same powers as a General Court-martial, and differs from a General Court-martial chiefly in this, that it may consist of any number of officers not less than three, that these officers may be either British officers or Native officers, or both combined, as the convening officer thinks fit, that it may be convened and the proceedings may be recorded in the form in which a Field General Court-Martial under the Army Act is convened and records its proceedings, that is, without recording the evidence, unless the convening officer specially directs the evidence together with the prisoner's statement in defence to be fully recorded; and that a sentence passed by it, and not exceeding that which might be passed by a District Court-martial, is valid without confirmation, while more severe sentences passed by it are confirmed by the convening officer.

11. The Summary Court-martial corresponds to the Summary Court-martial of the present Articles. It is an institution peculiar to Indian military law. It may be held by the Commanding Officer, being a combatant officer, of any corps or department of Her Majesty's Indian Forces or of any detachment thereof, or by the Commanding Officer of any British corps or detachment to which Native combatant details are attached. It consists of the Commanding Officer sitting with two other officers, who attend to watch the trial and sign the proceedings. Its ordinary functions are restricted to the trial of any person under the command of the officer holding the trial, except an officer, medical subordinate or warrant officer, but a member of an Army Hospital Corps may be tried by Summary Court-martial by any officer authorized in this behalf by the Officer Commanding the district. It can take cognizance of any of the less serious offences punishable under the Articles where they do not happen to be offences committed against the officer holding the trial, and when there is grave reason for immediate action, or reference cannot, without detriment to discipline, be made to superior authority, of any offence whatever. When held by an Officer Commanding a corps or department, it can pass any sentence except one of death, transportation or imprisonment for a term exceeding one year, but when held by an Officer Commanding a detachment it cannot pass a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding six months.

A sentence of a Summary Court-martial, except when it is a sentence passed by an officer of less than five years' service, will not require confirmation, but the proceedings in all cases must, without delay, be submitted to the Commander-in-Chief or some other superior officer, who is empowered, if he thinks fit, to set aside the trial on the merits of the case, but not on merely technical grounds.

12. Article 117A allows the Governor General in Council to modify the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act as applied to Courts-martial.

13. Article 120.—This provision, differing from the corresponding provision of the Army Act, will empower the officer to whom the proceedings of a Court-martial are submitted for confirmation to direct, when the proceedings are sent back for revision, additional evidence to be taken when necessary.

This seems desirable in order to avoid the necessity for ordering a fresh trial in cases where, as may happen in outlying stations in this country, irregularities and omissions are apt to occur.

Miscellaneous.

14. Article 132.—Following on the principles of the Army Act, it will now be possible for a Court-martial to reduce a non-commissioned officer to a junior grade instead of necessarily being compelled to reduce him to the ranks; and further, a Court-martial will be in a position to award, on occasion, a duplicate punishment, as, for example, dismissal coupled with one of the other punishments awardable under the article.

15. Article 151.—This proviso is intended to do away with the anomaly of a sentence of less than three months' hard labour imprisonment having either to be commuted to simple imprisonment, or, if not commuted, losing the services of a soldier for perhaps a comparatively venial offence, as it is held to be prejudicial to the interests of a regiment to receive back into the ranks a person who has been an inmate for any time of a civil jail.

16. Article 155 provides a necessary safeguard to the soldier who, having been convicted by the civil power in a Court of first instance, is acquitted on appeal.

It further provides for the temporary retention in the ranks of a soldier who, on active service, has been sentenced to transportation or imprisonment, and declares the time the soldier is so retained shall be reckoned as part of his term of transportation or imprisonment.

17. Article 161A, following generally on the provisions of the Army Act, makes due provision for the preservation of the proceedings of Courts martial, and the means by which these records will be available to persons interested.

18. Article 162.—The amendments will empower the Court of Enquiry not only to declare the unauthorised absence and the period thereof, but also to take evidence upon oath as to any deficiency of Government property which had been entrusted to the absentee, and the recorded declaration thereof will be, at any subsequent trial, presumptive evidence of that deficiency.

19. Article 164.—Power is given to a General Officer Commanding a District to summarily reduce a non-commissioned officer to a lower grade or to the ranks.

The want of this power has been greatly felt and is considered to be a very desirable power to grant to General Officers Commanding Districts.

20. Articles 171 to 175.—Civil offences committed beyond British India, or on active service within British India. These articles will entirely remove the difficulties which have not unfrequently been experienced in dealing with civil offences of the graver classes committed by soldiers when serving beyond the limits of British India.

The Criminal Courts are given concurrent jurisdiction with Courts-martial over such offences. Conflicts may at times arise, but, to prevent any difficulty from this, it is provided that when the two classes of Courts have concurrent jurisdiction it will be for the military authorities to decide in the first instance on the tribunal to which the case is to be submitted; but that, if the ordinary Criminal Court having jurisdiction is of opinion that the case ought to be tried before itself, it may require the military authorities to stop their proceedings pending a reference to the Governor General in Council.

Article 173 is quite a new provision, but it is in accordance with the practice which has to some extent at least prevailed under the existing law when violence or threats have been made against a superior officer.

It provides that certain grave offences involving violence or threats against any person subject to military law shall, though committed in British India, be cognizable by a Court-martial.

The British soldier is, throughout the greater part of British India, triable by a Court-martial for a civil offence.

The Native soldier, on the contrary, is triable by Court-martial only for military offences, and the Indian Articles in defining these offences do not provide expressly for the case of a soldier killing, or inflicting some serious injury on, his superior officer. In such a case, therefore, the Native soldier ought, strictly speaking, to be made over for trial to the ordinary Criminal Court; but it is thought sometimes desirable that he should be tried by a Court-martial, which would dispose of the case rapidly and with a due regard to the interests of discipline; and he is accordingly put on his trial before a Court-martial "for assaulting his superior officer"—an offence punishable with death or any less penalty under the existing Articles, and thus substantial justice is done and the ends of discipline are secured, though by a procedure which must be allowed to be somewhat irregular. It should be observed that, apart from the irregularity of trying for a mere assault a man who is guilty perhaps of murder, this mode of dealing with such cases is practicable only under a law which, like the present Articles, makes all assaults on a superior officer indiscriminately punishable with death without taking account, as the Army Act does, of circumstances so important as that of the officer being in the execution of his duty or otherwise, or that of the offence being committed on active service or in a cantonment; and such a law it seems difficult to maintain.

It has accordingly been thought better to recognize the fact that it is desirable in the interests of discipline that certain civil offences whether against a superior officer or other person subject to military law should be triable by a Court-martial instead of, exclusively, by an ordinary Criminal Court, and to make them triable by a Court-martial in the same way as civil offences committed by a British soldier.

21. The concluding section gives the Governor General in Council power to apply all or any of the provisions of the Articles as amended by this Bill to any force raised in India under the authority of the Governor General in Council, with respect to which there may be doubt whether it forms part of Her Majesty's Indian Army. It will, it is thought, be found useful as affording a means of removing the difficulties which have occasionally been felt regarding the application of any form of military law to certain forces which are maintained chiefly for local purposes under the control of the Governor General's Agents in Native Territory, and which are entirely distinct from the forces of Native States known as Imperial Service Troops.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892.

THE Council met at the Council Chamber on Saturday, the 25th August, 1894.

Present:

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES ALFRED ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES PAUL, K.C.I.E., Advocate-General.

The HON'BLE H. J. S. COTTON, C.S.I.

The HON'BLE SIR JOHN LAMBERT, K.C.I.E.

The HON'BLE MAULVI ABDUL JUBBAR KHAN BAHADUR.

The HON'BLE F. R. S. COLLIER.

The HON'BLE C. E. BUCKLAND.

The HON'BLE C. A. WILKINS.

The HON'BLE MAULVI SYED FAZL IMAM KHAN BAHADUR.

The HON'BLE SURENDRANATH BANERJEE.

The HON'BLE L. GHOSE.

The HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR.

The HON'BLE W. C. BONNERJEE.

THE BENGAL POLICE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state the reasons why, under the Notification dated the 16th July, 1894, which appeared in the Calcutta Gazette of the 18th July last, announcing that an examination of candidates for recruiting the staff of the superior Police Officers in Bengal will be held in December next, it has been laid down by implication that Native Indian candidates will be excluded, and that only such European candidates as have been nominated by the Lieutenant-Governor will be permitted to present themselves for examination? Whether the Government is prepared to reconsider this part of the notification?

Will the Government state (1) the number of Assistant and District Superintendents of Police in the Bengal Police Force, (2) the number of native gentlemen who are Assistant and District Superintendents of Police, (3) the number of Assistant Superintendents who have been selected from among Inspectors in accordance with the recommendation of the Public Service Commission?

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON replied :—

“The result of a long discussion which followed on the Report of the Public Service Commission has been that the strength of the Police Department for Bengal and Assam has been fixed at 94 officers, of whom 2 are Deputy Inspectors-General of Police, 55 are District Superintendents, 29 are Assistants, and 8 Probationers. The average annual recruitment required to keep up this force is about $4\frac{1}{2}$. It has been decided that two officers should be appointed annually by competitive examination in England and two by competitive examination in India, these being officers of European parentage. The examination referred to in the Hon'ble Member's question is the second of these, or the Indian one. It has been decided to appoint for the present two Natives of India to the police in every three years, but it has not been thought desirable to appoint them by competitive examination, and they will, as a rule, be promoted by selection from among Inspectors in accordance with the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission.

“The number of Native District Superintendents now in the Department is two: the number of Native Assistant Superintendents is three. The number of Assistant Superintendents who have been selected from Inspectors is three, viz., Babu Ras Behary Biswas, on the 19th January, 1891; Maulvi Zinnat Hosain Khan; on the 23rd June, 1892, and Babu Girindro Chunder Mukherjea, on the 21st May, 1894.”

GOVERNMENT AND HIGH EDUCATION.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to the comments which have appeared in the newspapers on the Resolution of Government on the subject of Local Self-Government, and the evident sense of alarm in regard to the question of high education, which the Resolution has created? Is it the intention of the Government that local funds at the disposal of the District Boards should not be devoted to the support of education of a higher kind until full provision has been made for primary education? Is the Government aware that such an order, if given effect to, would mean the virtual closing of a large number of grant-in-aid schools, which impart secondary education?

Will the Government state the percentage of educational grant that used to be spent upon primary education by the Government before the creation of the local bodies? If the percentage varied from time to time, will the Government state the percentage for the five years preceding the establishment of the District Boards under the Local Self-Government Act?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The Hon'ble Member's question refers to a passage which occurs in the preamble to the Resolution of the 28th June, 1894, and which was itself a quotation from a previous order. The bearing of this passage must be ascertained from a consideration of the drift of the Resolution itself.

"The object of the Resolution was to point out that while the income of District Boards had increased considerably since 1888-89, their contributions to education had scarcely increased at all. The sum spent by Government on the educational establishments made over to District Boards was Rs. 10,09,657, or, including scholarships, which were afterwards transferred to them, Rs. 10,39,177; and this amount was placed at the disposal of the District Boards in addition to the Road Cess and other funds with which they dealt. In the year 1888-89 their expenditure on education was Rs. 10,30,809, and on primary education alone Rs. 6,84,547. In the year 1892-93 their outlay on education had risen only to Rs. 10,54,477, and that on primary teaching to Rs. 7,07,785. Meanwhile their total income had risen from Rs. 51,24,896 to Rs. 59,55,285. The Lieutenant-Governor urged upon the District Boards the importance of devoting a portion of their growing resources to education, and more particularly to primary instruction. No suggestion was made that primary schools should be fostered at the expense of secondary schools by diverting funds from the one class to the other. The importance of fostering all sorts of schools was insisted on, and it was urged that especial attention should be given to the spread of primary education. During the present year an additional sum of Rs. 31,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Director of Public Instruction from Provincial Revenues to be expended on primary teaching in the districts where that class of education is most backward.

"In the latter part of the Hon'ble Member's question he is understood to enquire what percentage the total expenditure on primary education bore to the total expenditure on education in the Province before the District Boards were created. The figures obtained from the information before Government are as follows:—The percentage was in 1882-83, 25·5; in 1883-84, 25·3; in 1884-85, 28; in 1885-86, 27·4; in 1886-87, 26·4. These figures, however, are believed to be somewhat lower than the true percentages, as some portions of the expenditure under general heads, such as Inspection, Buildings, &c., which are debitable to primary education, cannot be detached without detailed enquiry and calculation, which there has not been time to make."

THE MUHARRAM DISTURBANCES AT RAJSHAHI.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to the muharram disturbances at Rajshahi? Is it true, as reported in the newspapers, that the police fired upon the people without any orders from their superior officers, although no resistance had been offered by the Muhammadans when the lathis were being taken away from them by the police? Did the constables fire in the presence of their superior officers? If so, why did they not interfere with a view to stop the firing?

Whether any enquiry was held into the matter by the Magistrate and the Inspector-General of Railway Police, and will the Government lay on the table the reports, if any, of these officers? Will the Government state what steps it proposes to take to prevent the recurrence of such proceedings on the part of the police?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The attention of Government has been drawn to the disturbances referred to. Special enquiries have been made into them by the Inspector-General of Police, and also by the Commissioner of the Division, and the reports received from those officers, which have just been placed in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor, are now under consideration. It has been shown that five police constables fired once each, three with blank cartridge and two with buckshot, not with ball, as has been stated in some newspapers, without any orders to do so from their superior officers, and they have each of them been convicted under section 29 of Act V of 1861, and sentenced to simple imprisonment for one month and one day. They were rushed by the mob, and two of them having already received rough treatment from the rioters, they were panic-stricken and fired without orders.

"The reports received and the orders passed thereon will be made public in due course."

THE MEA CHAPRA CASE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to a letter from its Muzaffarpur correspondent, which appeared in the Bihar Herald of the 14th July last?

Is it the case, as stated in the letter, that the raiyats of Shapur Buzurg, in the subdivision of Hajipur, having complained against some of the factory people employed in the Mea Chapra Indigo concern, the petition was referred by the Subdivisional Officer, Mr. Konstam, to the Manager of the Factory, whose servants were complained against, "for favour of enquiry and report?" Does the Government approve of such a proceeding, in which a person directly interested in the prosecution is allowed to have a voice in the decision of the case? Will the Government take steps to prevent its recurrence?

Whether it is the case that the Manager in replying to the communication of the Subdivisional Officer addressed him as "My dear Konstam?"

Whether it is true that the Magistrate, without passing any orders upon the complaint of the raiyats, proceeded with the case in which the factory people were the complainants, and convicted seven raiyats and sentenced them to one month's rigorous imprisonment and to a fine of Rs. 10 each?

Whether it is the case, as stated in the letter referred to above, that there was a complaint by the factory servants against some raiyats pending in the file of the Native Sub-Deputy, and that this case was transferred to the file of Mr. Morshed, the then Subdivisional Officer of Hajipur, the Manager having written to Mr. Morshed that the factory case was a true one, and that it should be withdrawn from the file of the Native Sub-Deputy to his own file?

Will the Government lay on the table a statement showing the number of cases instituted from April, 1893, to June, 1894, within the jurisdiction of the Subdivisional Magistrate of Hajipur (1) by the raiyats against people employed in the factories, (2) by the factory people against the raiyats; (b) the number of such cases tried by the Subdivisional Officer and the number of such cases tried by Native Deputy and Sub-Deputy Magistrates; (c) the result in each case; (d) the number of such cases, if any, transferred to the file of the Subdivisional Officer from the file of Deputy and Sub-Deputy Magistrates, together with the reasons for such transfer?

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor understands that the case referred to in the Hon'ble Member's question has been brought before the High Court, and is still pending before that Court. In these circumstances, it would not be proper for Government to express any opinion in regard to it.

"The Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it necessary to obtain the information asked for in paragraph 5 of the Hon'ble Member's question. In the opinion of Government all cases of importance—and cases in which a factory is concerned generally come within this category—should be heard by the Subdivisional Officer himself, and should not be referred for trial to a Sub-Deputy."

TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE FOR POLICE OFFICERS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state the system that is followed in giving travelling allowance to Inspectors belonging to the Calcutta Police Force? Is it true that European Inspectors get travelling allowance when they are transferred from one thana to another, but that the same indulgence is not shown to the Indian Inspectors of Police?

The Hon'ble SIR JOHN LAMBERT replied :—

"The allowance granted to European Inspectors and Constables of the Calcutta Police Force to cover the actual cost of moving their luggage on transfer from one police-station to another is regulated by clause (1), article 1189 of the Civil Service Regulations, which runs as follows :—

'(1) European Inspectors and Constables of the Bombay City Police and of the Calcutta Town and Suburban Police may charge the actual cost of moving their luggage on transfer from one station to another in the city, provided that the charge shall not exceed Rs. 8 in the case of an Inspector and Rs. 5 in the case of a Constable.'

"It will be seen that this rule does not apply to the case of Native Indian Inspectors."

MUHAMMADANS IN GOVERNMENT EMPLOY.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

Will the Government be pleased to prepare tables showing (a) the population of Muhammadans and the number of non-gazetted appointments with salaries ranging from Rs. 15 per month and upwards held by them in the Bengal, Bihar and Orissa districts, (b) the population of Hindus and the number of non-gazetted appointments with the same salaries as in (a) held by them in those districts, (c) the number of non-gazetted Hindu and Muhammadan employes on the same salaries as in (a) in—

- I.—The Bengal Secretariat.
- II.—The Board of Revenue.
- III.—The Office of the Inspector-General of Police.
- IV.—The Postmaster-General's Department.
- V.—The Excise and Customs Department.
- VI.—The Divisional Commissioner's Office.
- VII.—The Court of Small Causes, Calcutta.
- VIII.—The Office of the Inspector-General of Registration.

Will the Government also prepare lists showing (a) the total number of appointments in the Subordinate Executive Service and the number of appointments held by the Hindus and the Muhammadans respectively, (b) the total number of appointments in the Subordinate Judicial Service, and the number of appointments held by the Hindus and the Muhammadans respectively?

Regard being had to the disproportion of Muhammadans to that of Hindus in Government service, will the Lieutenant-Governor be pleased to pass such orders as will secure for them a certain number of appointments both in the districts and the departments mentioned in question I (c), and thus satisfy their claims to share Government appointments with the Hindus?

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON replied :—

"The Government are not prepared to undertake the collection of the statistics called for by the Hon'ble Member or to institute any elaborate comparison between the total number of Muhammadans in each district and the number employed in service under Government. To do so would serve no useful purpose. It is well known that the number of Muhammadans in Government service is very small in comparison with the total number of the Muhammadan population in these provinces, and the reasons for this disproportion are also well known to the Hon'ble Member and to the public. It is the policy of Government to encourage the employment of Muhammadans consistently with the welfare of the public service, and the Lieutenant-Governor has lost no opportunity of giving effect to this policy whenever properly-qualified Muhammadan candidates are available. The number of such candidates, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to be able to say, is steadily increasing. Certain statistics are furnished every year in the Annual Administration Report of Commissioners of Divisions regarding the number of Muhammadans employed in Government service in every district, and these statistics for the past year will be supplied to the Hon'ble Member, but it is not considered necessary to lay them before the Council."

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1894, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Bengal Act IV of 1894. He said:—

"In section 37 of Act IV of 1894, certain words are inserted in amendment of section 89 of Bengal Act III of 1884, which enable buildings, the property of Railway Administrations and of local authorities, to be assessed in the same manner as buildings the property of the Government. This provision was introduced in the Bill by the Select Committee, and was passed by this Council without comment. It escaped notice that by the Indian Railways Act of 1890, an Act passed by the Imperial Council, a provision is made in section 135, which exclusively regulates by rules contained in that section the levy of taxes in respect of railways and from Railway Administrations in aid of the funds of local authorities. In these circumstances it is undesirable for this Council to make any reference in any law passed by it to the assessment of railway buildings; and in order that there may be no possible conflict between any legislation passed by this Council and by the Council of the Government of India, it has been considered necessary to introduce this amending Bill, which eliminates from section 37 of Bengal Act IV of 1894, any reference to buildings belonging to Railway Administrations."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON said:—"This measure, Sir, being of a very technical character, it appears unnecessary to postpone its consideration to a future meeting of the Council or to refer it to a Select Committee, and with your permission, Sir, I will ask you to suspend the Rules of Business and to allow me to introduce the Bill and to move that it be read in Council."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT having declared the Rules of Business suspended—

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON introduced the Bill, and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON said:—"I have nothing to add regarding the little Bill I have in my hands. It speaks for itself, and calls for no further explanation. I apprehend that the Council will be willing to accept without objection or comment the motion that the clauses of the Bill be taken into consideration by the Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. COTTON also moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE CHITTAGONG DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1893-94.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 27th August 1894.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Chittagong Division for the year 1893-94.

Mr. Waller only took charge of the Chittagong Division in the end of February, replacing Mr. Oldham who went on leave to England. He was therefore under much disadvantage in drawing up his report of the year 1893-94, but he has wisely made considerable use of the notes left for him by Mr. Oldham regarding the events of the year.

2. All the districts of the Division suffered from changes. Putting aside short privilege leave intervals, Tippera had three Magistrate-Collectors and Chittagong had three. Noakhali kept its Magistrate till nearly the end of the year. The Lieutenant-Governor saw with regret the severance of Mr. Slack's long connection with the Chittagong district, in which as Settlement Officer and as Collector he has done excellent service, but his health required, and his standing entitled him to, a more favourite and salubrious district. Of the four sub-divisions, three kept their officers throughout the year, but Cox's Bazar was subjected to numerous changes.

3. Mr. Waller is right in holding (paragraph 27 of the report) that, if money is distributed for the relief of famine under the rules of the Famine Code, whether it be in the form of wages on relief works, or of gratuitous relief to distressed people in their homes, a report should be submitted to Government stating the facts of the case, and the periodical return prescribed by the Code should be furnished.

4. The Commissioner is requested to submit a separate report elucidating Mr. Oldham's opinion (in paragraph 42) that there has been a loss of efficiency through the transfer of the charge of Provincial and Imperial public buildings from Executive to District Engineers. The attention of the Inspector of Local Works is specially called to these remarks.

5. Paragraph 65.—Mr. Oldham has found that it is the practice of junior Magistrates in trying summons cases to record evidence at full length, instead of recording only a memorandum of the evidence, which is permitted by the law and tends to expedition in the disposal of cases. Commissioners of other Divisions may think it desirable to call the attention of Magistrates of districts to this remark.

6. Paragraph 92.—The Commissioner's remarks on the Wards' Estates in the Noakhali district are of much importance, and indicate the rules which should generally govern the consent of Court of Wards to undertake the management of private estates, and the principles on which they should be administered. These remarks were before the Lieutenant-Governor on the occasion of his recent inspection of Noakhali, and have been fully dealt with in his Inspection Note.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

II.—TOURS AND INSPECTIONS.

2. Mr. Oldham was on tour for 121 days, and made all the inspections except Cox's Bazar, which he could not visit because the Chaffinch, which was expected to return

(a) Tour of Commissioner. from the docks on the 31st January, did not arrive till 17th February. I was out for three days in March, and finished the inspection of Cox's Bazar. Mr. Oldham visited Tippera thrice and the district of Noakhali twice. In July he held the annual conference with the Princes of Hill Tippera, the Maharaja being unable to go to Comilla owing to illness. In November he visited Noakhali and the islands to enquire into the effects of the cyclone of the 22nd October, and again in January to examine the progress of land acquisition work on the Assam-Bengal Railway. He went as far as Chaudagram in Tippera to meet Mr. Carlyle.

Rangamati was visited by Mr. Oldham five times during the year. In May he was there to instal the Mong Raja and confer with Captain Shakespear, who had been called down for the purpose. He was again there in September to devise new registers and forms to suit a simple system of procedure, the old registers having been destroyed by fire. In November he went there to hold an examination in the Lushai language, and on his way back he inspected the khas tahsil office at Thandaehari. In December he started by land for his annual tour in the South Lushai Hills. He was in those parts from the 17th December to 1st January inclusive; on his way back he inspected the Raojan tahsil office. He was at Fenny on the 23rd and 28th January 1894, Chandpur on the 7th November, and Brahmanbaria on the 9th November, and inspected those subdivisional offices.

3. In Tippera the district officers were on tour for 155 days; Messrs. Greer, Geake, Mittra and Carlyle making 19, 24, 39 and 73 days respectively; 28 days were spent in Hill Tippera. Mr. Geake as Joint-Magistrate spent 17 days in camp.

Between them they visited every portion of the district and took note of all matters of interest, besides making all the inspections that fell on their way. Mr. Carlyle made a special tour to supervise survey and settlement work in Chakla Roshnabad belonging to the Maharaja of Hill Tippera and the progress of acquisition on the Assam-Bengal Railway.

4. In Noakhali Mr. Nanda Krishna Bose was out for 81 days. During the rainy season he made a special tour through the parts where the crops had suffered to get correct information about the state of the people. His cold-weather tour included the usual inspections and the trial of bad-livelihood cases in situ. He visited Char Parbati to overcome the opposition of the tenantry to a survey under the Tenancy Act, and he succeeded in doing so. He inspected all but one thana, all but one khas tahsil office, and 11 sub-registry offices out of 15 in the district. Mr. Surjya Kumar Agasti, who joined at the close of the year, filled up nine days by a short excursion into the mufassal to supervise the working of the Chankidari Act.

5. In Chittagong Mr. Slack was out for 48 days, doing the usual inspections. Mr. Stevenson-Moore added 34 days, making in addition to inspections special enquiries into complaints against a Rural Sub-Registrar and the rates of compensation for lands acquired for the Assam-Bengal Railway. Mr. Caspersz was out for 24 days visiting different parts of the district.

6. In Brahmanbaria Babu Govinda Chandra Basak was on tour for 91 days, and the second officer, Babu Krishna Dayal Paramanik, on miscellaneous duties for 27 days. In Chandpur Babu Prakash Chandra Sinha was out for 125 days. These two Subdivisional Officers made special enquiries into the state of the crops and the condition of the people, scarcity being anticipated.

7. In the Fenny subdivision Babu Bagala Prasanna Mazumdar spent 101 days on his usual tour, exclusive of his journeys to attend the meetings of the District Board at head-quarters.

8. In Cox's Bazar Messrs. Swinden, Rankin and Fraser made between them 90 days' tour, distributed evenly through the year. Mr. Delevingne did not go out while he was in charge from May to July.

9. The tours of the Assistant Commissioner of the Chittagong Hill Tracts and his assistants will be found in the Political section of the report.

10. Mr. Oldham inspected the district offices at Comilla, Noakhali, Chittagong and Lungleh.

11. He inspected the Tippera, Chittagong and Rangamati treasuries. The prescribed form does not apply to the Lungleh treasure-chest, which he inspected minutely. Four sub-treasuries he inspected also.

12. In Tippera the district offices and the treasury were inspected by the Collector twice in the year. In Noakhali Mr. Nanda Krishna Bose inspected them in September and in March.

In Chittagong, beginning in July, Messrs. Slack, Stevenson-Moore and Caspersz finished the necessary inspections of the offices and the treasury twice within the year; but from an explanation received from the Collector it seems that the answers to the prescribed questions were, in one department at least, done by the sarishtadar, which was irregular.

13. Mr. Oldham inspected the subdivisional offices at Fenny, Chandpur, Brahmanbaria and Rangamati, and the sub-treasuries as stated above, leaving Cox's Bazar for me; and I inspected in March the subdivisional office and sub-treasury, as also the khas tahsil office there.

14. Brahmanbaria was inspected by the district officer in September and again in January, and Chandpur in October and in February.

The Fenny office and treasury were inspected by the Collector in August and in January. The Cox's Bazar subdivision was inspected by Mr. Stevenson-Moore in October, and by Mr. Caspersz in February.

III.—WEATHER AND CROPS.

15. The rainfall in the Division was 131·11 inches against 94·02 the year before. The rainfall of May and June was terrific in Chittagong and in both the hill charges, and did much damage. It was extraordinary elsewhere. The rainfall of July, and again of August, was terrific in Tippera and Noakhali, where it was followed by two sets of inundations, those of August being the highest on record. Elsewhere it was extraordinary, but the floods in the hills did not quite attain the height of those of 1877. A storm swept over the Division on the 22nd October 1893, doing damage everywhere. In Noakhali it was a cyclone, and in the Bay and river over 200 lives were lost. The damage to Government property alone was Rs. 20,000.

Except in Chittagong, where they were not very good, and in the South Lushai hills, the main crops were poor. In Tippera and Noakhali insects did much damage after the cyclone.

The cotton crop in the Chittagong Hill Tracts was a failure, and the rice was not up to the average. Mr. Oldham says he noticed a great increase in hemp cultivation in Chittagong.

16. In Tippera there was great mortality among cattle for want of fodder. About 25,000 are reported to have died.

The Collector of Noakhali reports that the whole district was for some time under water, and the tract of land in the Chagalnya station, lying between the hills streams Matamori and Silonia, was flooded thrice by the overflow from those rivers.

IV.—PUBLIC HEALTH.

17. The health of the Chittagong Hill Tracts and South Lushai Hills was decidedly good. Mr. Oldham says that in the absence of figures his impression was that it was very unusually good elsewhere, and that although the cyclone was followed by the usual cholera, and that cholera and small-pox were constant throughout Chittagong during the year.

According to the Sanitary Commissioner, and, what is more to the point, according to the dispensary figures, Chittagong is the healthiest Division in Bengal, and Mr. Oldham's impression coincides with these deductions. He says perhaps the exposure of the Division for several months to the full force of the south-west monsoon, coming up pure and cool from the Bay of Bengal, may, in part account for this, for parts of Tippera and the submontane parts of Noakhali and Chittagong have the conditions for engendering malaria. The physique of the people is generally good, and in some classes and races very fine. The jail population are not fair samples. Except in riot cases, only the physically and morally depraved are found in jails in this Division. Dr. Calvert the late Civil Surgeon, is reported to have said that from his observations in jail, the skull of an ordinary Chittagong Muhammadan was thinner than that of a European. Mr. Oldham says he had heard the same said of the Backergunge people, and remarks:—"The point is so curious that it deserves investigation. The tropical Asiatic skull is generally believed to be half as thick again as the European's."

18. The figures for Tippera are—

	1893.	1892.	1891.
1	2	3	4
Cholera ...	7,206	3,038	3,796
Small-pox ...	152	72	48
Fever ...	27,579	26,763	22,481
Other diseases ...	7,110	6,444	5,697
Total ...	42,047	36,317	32,022

19. It was an unhealthy year in Tippera. The death-rate according to available statistics, which are, however, by no means unimpeachable, was 25·9 per thousand against 18·6 the year before and 18·5 in 1891-92. The figures for these three years certainly leave an impression on the mind that the last year was more than usually bad, though it may not be possible to rely upon the percentages as accurate. Inundation and high prices of food caused damp, exposure, short and unwholesome diet, which naturally gave an impetus to cholera, fever, and bowel-complaints. Cholera started from Chandpur, spread over the whole district, and was most severe in Brahmanbaria, where the District Board had to depute three doctors on special work. Small-pox also broke out in an epidemic form in thana Daudkandi.

20. In paragraph 18 of Mr. Oldham's Divisional Report for 1892-93 a report was promised to be made this year on Mr. Greer's scheme, which is there noticed. The scheme, it seems, was worked by the Civil Surgeon, and met with partial success. Rupees 176 was contributed by the Nawab of Dacca, Maharaja Durga Charan Law of Calcutta, and the manager of the Sarail estate, and five vaccinators were sent out, who performed 2,779 primary operations. This was a fair beginning, and it will depend upon the Civil Surgeon and the Magistrate to still further develop it.

21. The figures for Noakhali are given below:—

	1893.	1892.	1891.
1	2	3	4
Cholera	5,682	3,506	666
Small-pox	58	7	27
Fever	22,577	23,818	20,178
Other diseases	4,061	3,901	2,559
Total	32,378	31,232	23,430

22. The health of the town was unusually good up to October, but a heavy mortality dates from that month after the cyclone and the storm-wave. A cholera epidemic broke out, and medical aid had to be sent promptly to the parts most severely affected. Small-pox is uncommon in Noakhali, and correspondence is going on with the Medical Department as to a proposal emanating from the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner to get Government to extend the law making vaccination compulsory to the whole district. The Ferazi Muhammadans of the district oppose arm-to-arm vaccination on religious grounds, and the majority are unwilling to pay vaccination fees. In some instances the vaccinator had to sue people in the Civil Court for his two-anna fees. The late Magistrate, Mr. Nanda Krishna Bose, was for bovine lymph and gradual introduction of vaccination through the District Board dispensaries. This latter proposal, however, is not feasible. The Magistrate does not seem to have tried to overcome prejudice by his personal influence, as I know from previous experience as Magistrate of Noakhali in 1886 can be done. There is, I believe, a verse in the Koran which some fanatics read as making arm-to-arm vaccination contrary to divine command, but the opinion of the most learned Maulvis is not to this effect. But no one can on the ground of the verse alluded to object to vaccination from bovine lymph. I directed the Magistrate to warn those who oppose vaccination in the villages reported as refractory that if they continued to unreasonably refuse to be vaccinated, it would be necessary to represent their attitude to Government with a view to compulsion. The Magistrate is to report the result of this action after a few months.

23. The Chittagong figures are:—

	1893.	1892.	1891.
1	2	3	4
Cholera ...	705	6,783	526
Small-pox ...	105	353	694
Fever ...	27,465	26,976	22,375
Other diseases ...	4,311	5,206	4,117
Total ...	32,586	39,318	27,712

24. The general health of the town and the district was better than in the previous year. There was less cholera and small-pox and there was no epidemic of these diseases. Fever claimed the largest number of victims; but the Civil Surgeon thinks that it is difficult to come to any conclusion in this matter, as nearly everything except cholera and small-pox is, by those who report the deaths, called fever. In the town of Chittagong mortality from fever is annually increasing. The figures for 1891, 1892 and 1893 show in each of those years 153, 533, and 431 deaths respectively. Cox's Bazar was generally healthy, and there was no epidemic there.

V.—MATERIAL CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.

25. Mr Oldham remarks:—

“There is not much to be said under this head with regard to a Division which has been excluded from the purview of the Famine Code. But the year under report was an exceptional one. The natural calamities referred to above diminished the usual prosperity and comfort of the people to no small extent, and petty agriculturists; men with fixed incomes, and the helpless and the widow, felt the pinch in Noakhali, and more acutely in Tippera.”

Mr. Carlyle, Magistrate of Tippera, reports that, “owing to the high floods which prevailed, serious damage was done to the aman, with the result that the average outturn for the district was reckoned at $10\frac{1}{2}$ annas, varying from 12 annas in Sadar to 11 annas in the Chandpur and 8 annas in the Brahmanbaria subdivision, according to the official reports. The partial failure of the main food-crop of the district (it is estimated to give nearly 60 per cent. of the food-supply) followed a very poor aus crop (about 10 annas for the whole district). Prices have ranged high, rising, according to the prices-current returns, as high as Rs. 5 per maund of rice in August. They have now fallen to about Rs. 3-4 to Rs. 3-8 per maund.

“The result of the poor crops is that the grain-stocks are very much lower than usual. The aus usually supplies a large part of the home consumption, and a considerable part of aman is exported. This year, on the other hand, rice has been imported in considerable quantities, and the exports have been much smaller than usual.

“Owing to the combination of poor crops and high prices which have not benefited the raiyats generally, as they have had little rice to sell, a good deal of distress has been caused in the part of the district most affected by the floods. The distress does not approach the dimensions of a famine.

“The worst time of the year, however, will be in May and June. The supplies of grain in store after the aman was cut are now running out, and there will be a certain amount of suffering among the more helpless classes till the raiyats commence to harvest the aus some time in June.

“The area affected coincides almost exactly with the Brahmanbaria subdivision and the Muradnagar thana in the Sadar subdivision, covering altogether an area of 994 square miles. The whole of this tract is not uniformly affected; for instance, in Muradnagar the worst portions lie north of the Gumti, especially in the north and north-east of the thana. In Brahmanbaria, again, one of the tracts most affected is the southern portion of Nabinagar thana adjoining the Muradnagar thana. Another specially affected portion lies in the north-east of the Brahmanbaria subdivision. Probably the majority of the population are very badly off and living from hand-to-mouth; but by far the larger portion have managed by mortgaging their lands, selling some property, or borrowing, to get enough to carry them on till the aus paddy and jute is cut."

26. As evidence of the usual prosperity of this Division, Mr. Oldham has left the following on record:—"In Tippera out of Rs. 6,500 or more subscribed to relieve distress from the inundation, three successive Collectors found themselves unable to spend a single pice up to the 10th September 1893, when I insisted on the money being distributed. In Noakhali similar contributions were only expended on the occurrence of the cyclone and under my direct pressure on the spot." It seems that gratuitous relief, defrayed in part from the funds of the District Board, and in part from private subscriptions to the amount of Rs. 700, was distributed in the Chandpur subdivision in Tippera during the month of November 1893.

27. By oversight, apparently, no report as prescribed in the Famine Code was sent to Government, but I presume that where famine relief becomes necessary, the rules of the Code apply, whether the tracts have been previously considered proof against famine or not.

VI.—EMIGRATION AND IMMIGRATION.

28. The temporary efflux from Noakhali and Chittagong to Arakan for high wages took place as usual. As anticipated, a large number of people from Bihar and Oudh, as also from Ganjam, came to work on the Assam-Bengal Railway.

From Tippera fishermen are reported to go over to Sylhet and Mymensingh to cure fish annually after the rains.

VII.—PRICES OF FOOD AND LABOUR.

29. Labour commands a high price everywhere in the Division, though in Noakhali it is comparatively cheap. The figures for the Chittagong Hill Tracts have been embodied in the statement. Mr. Oldham remarks:—"Mr. Carstairs' Sonthals now come to us for Rs. 6 and rations. In Chittagong a good whole-time labourer cannot be had for less than Rs. 10 a month. If men are found working for less, it is either because they are feeble and below par, or because they do not work whole-time, and attend to cultivation of their own or even do jobs for hire elsewhere."

VIII.—MANUFACTURES AND MINES.

30. There are no mines in the Division.

Articles made of brass and bamboo are manufactured in Tippera. Tea, and coffee as an experiment, are manufactured in Chittagong. The quantity of tobacco exported was 4,140lbs only this year. The rice mill of Messrs. Bulloch Brothers and Company did very little business. The ship-building industry was almost at a standstill. The comparative table below gives the exact information:—

ARTICLES.	1893-94.	1892-93.	1891-92.
Tea	lbs. 1,119,426	lbs. 1,078,457	lbs. 1,262,174
Rice (milled) ...	Mds. 70,638	Mds. 1,82,540	Mds. 1,78,810
Sea-going vessels (built)	1 vessel.	4 vessels.	8 vessels.

The year was not good for tea, and the quality was not up to the mark.

IX.—TRADE AND COMMERCE.

31. The trade of this Division is water-borne; but the Assam-Bengal Railway under construction will undoubtedly create a more popular, if not cheaper, route. Cart traffic has not passed its initial stage, but extended, and better road communication may in the future establish it. The record of the transactions at the port of Chittagong is the index of the volume of trade in this Division. As reported before, the staples for export are rice, oilseeds, hides, jute, cotton, betel and cocoanuts, chillies, tobacco, tea, and dried fish. The imports are mineral oils, piece-goods, salt and yarn twist. Railway materials imported in large quantities form an abnormal item. Steamer Companies provided as usual for the goods and passenger traffic of the Tippera and Noakhali districts. Communication with the islands south of Noakhali is still uncertain and intermittent, and the question is annually revived and dropped for want of funds.

32. The following is a comparative table of the foreign vessels that visited Chittagong:—

	NUMBER OF VESSELS.			TONNAGE.
	Entered.	Cleared.	Total.	Entered.	Cleared.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
1892-93 ...	37	29	66	41,751	41,215	82,966
1893-94 ...	34	15	49	32,844	26,691	59,535
	—3	—14	—17	—8,907	—14,521	—23,428

The jute and rice trade being dull, fewer vessels were chartered: hence the decrease.

33. The amount of interportal trade as denoted by the number and tonnage of vessels is given below:—

	NUMBER OF VESSELS.			TONNAGE.
	Entered.	Cleared.	Total.	Entered.	Cleared.	Total.
		3	4	5	6	7
1892-93 ...	734	762	1,496	211,362	213,357	424,719
1893-94 ...	626	617	1,243	202,030	208,885	410,915
	—108	—145	—253	—9,332	—4,472	—13,804

It is said fewer vessels brought jute from Narayanganj for shipment to Europe, and this accounts for the decrease.

34. The value of the sea-borne traffic is tabulated below:—

	VALUE OF TRADE WITH—
	Foreign ports.	British ports in other Presidencies.	British ports within the Presidency.	Indian ports not British.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.

1893-94 ...	90,14,097	16,47,317	1,31,22,473	4,170	2,37,88,957
Difference ...	+1,83,608	+40,443	+11,99,621	+4,170	+14,27,847

The net increase is Rs. 14,27,847, due to the importation of railway materials and kerosine oil from the United Kingdom and America, and of railway sleepers, chillies, and cotton goods from Rangoon and Calcutta.

35. The value and quantity of exports are tabulated below:—

Total	1,30,88,736	1,08,97,447	11,91,289

The net decrease in value is Rs. 11,91,289. As was to be expected, there were diminished exports of rice, jute, cotton, and tea (interportal).

36. The value and quantity of imports are tabulated below:—

	1892-93.		1893-94.		INCREASE.		DECREASE.

The net increase in value is Rs. 26,19,136, contributed chiefly by large consignments of railway materials and oil—about six times more than what was imported in 1892-93. It is chiefly kerosine oil imported for local consumption. The increase is said to be due to smaller importation in the previous year.

37. The constitution of the Port Trust remained unchanged. There was one election and three appointments owing to death and resignation. The European electors did not, it seems, know that plumping had been permitted, and so did not plump for a European candidate, which would have, had they done so, secured the election of a European. The Commissioners held 12 ordinary and 1 special meeting, and the average attendance was over 5 per cent.

During the year the Commissioners had to consider the question of acquiring a large area of the river foreshore for future trade requirements. The efforts of the Assam-Bengal Railway to obtain a portion of the river frontage for landing their materials brought this matter prominently to the front. A Committee was appointed by Government in November last to make enquiries, and it came to the conclusion that it was inexpedient for the Port Trust now to acquire the land for a port line, and that the Railway Company might be allowed to acquire the land and construct a wharf; the former reserving the power of revoking the grant on payment of costs. The Government of India, however, overruling this decision, held that the Port Trust, and not the Railway Company, should carry out all the work of landing and shipping and should construct piers and jetties for general traffic, the Railway Company being permitted to construct only temporary jetties absolutely necessary for landing their material. This policy the Port Commissioners will not be able to carry out without raising a further large sum by way of loan; while a debt of Rs. 1,75,000 for the tug-steamer Gekko, and of Rs. 25,000 promised as a contribution to the proposed Seamen's Hospital on the Rungmahal and Flagstaff hills, is already pressing upon them.

38. The Gekko is another difficulty with the Commissioners. Though the debt for the tug was reduced during the year from Rs. 2,00,000 to Rs. 1,75,000, her earnings fell very much short of the cost of her up-keep. She earned only Rs. 7,046 against an expenditure of Rs. 38,291, inclusive of interest and repayment of loan on her account. She is very serviceable in the way of carrying stores and affording means for frequent visits to light-houses, &c., but she cannot compete with the Bassein Company's tug Mary in towing up vessels, because the latter pays a heavy commission to ship-masters visiting the port for using her, and she only remains here during the busy season when she is frequently employed. A proposal has been made to amalgamate towage charges with port dues to meet this difficulty, and this seems to be the only way out of it.

39. The buoys, tidal gauge, signal flagstaffs, moorings, and jetties had their usual annual fittings and repairs done. The light at Norman's Point worked very well, the clockwork giving no trouble. The Kutubdia light was also satisfactory, though the clockwork gave a little trouble and the revolutions were not quite correct at times.

The Pilot Service was revised during the year, and on the recommendation of the Port Commissioners, Government sanctioned a charge of Rs. 2 per day on all vessels visiting the Moiscally creek for repairs.

40. The scheme for a great central hospital for the benefit of the port, as well as of the municipality and the district generally, referred to in the last report, is approaching completion. The question of funds has been settled, and the plan and estimate are under preparation. As expected, there was some opposition when it was known that the municipality and the District Board would co-operate. But the reasons advanced were unsound and based on imperfect information, and the protests sent up were in consequence rejected.

The health of the port was good throughout the year. There were only three fatal cases of cholera and none of scurvy. The seamen's resort continued to be carried on under the superintendence of Brother Stephen for the benefit of sailors visiting the port, receiving the usual donation of Rs. 500 from the Port Commissioners.

41. The following figures show the financial position of the Port Trust:—

	Receipts.
	1892-93.	1893-94.	Increase.	Decrease.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Port Fund	... 70,183	77,584	7,401	...
Pilotage Fund	... 15,040	14,842	...	198
Expenditure.
Port Fund	... 1,09,024	60,516	...	48,508
Pilotage Fund	... 9,551	11,463	1,912	...

The port dues show decreased receipts, amounting to Rs. 3,590, on account of the dullness of the jute and rice trade during the year.

There were increased receipts under the head Hospital Port Dues. The increased expenditure was incurred chiefly for the establishment of the Gekko and the pay of the Surgeon to the Port Fund at the rate of Rs. 125 per month, sanctioned by Government in February 1893.

X.—ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES.

42. The chief change has been the creation of the Ramgarh-Sitakand Forest Reserve with an area of 130 square miles, and the publication of notifications of several other large areas in Chittagong to be similarly treated.. This measure was much needed. Private talukdars were found actively exploiting these Government forests by a system of tolls and farms. Mr. Oldham says: "I repeat with force my remarks of last year about the transfer to District Boards of the Executive Engineer's duties. There have been prominent instances of loss of efficiency in Chittagong and Noakhali. In Chittagong one case (the collapse of the jail wall) was attended with serious loss of life, and Government could hold no one responsible. In a separate order it was held that these District Engineers are not Government servants.

"In Noakhali the District Engineer was refused an allowance (which would not have been pensionable) for the extra work. So the District Board have given it to him by increasing his pay; and in this respect there has been no saving of public funds. The Chittagong District Board, who think the allowance granted to their District Engineer insufficient, contemplate doing the same, and I intended to resist this."

43. The resolution of the Police Redistribution Committee was received towards the close of the year, reorganizing the local force and stations. The changes in the force will be noticed under the head Police. The outposts at Farashganj and Silonia in Noakhali and at Parki in Chittagong have been abolished under these orders.

The collection of the zamindari dák cess has been transferred to the collectorate, and of processes in cognizable cases to the amalgamated staff under the Collector's nazir, thus giving further relief to the Court Sub-Inspector.

44. Among local changes may be noticed the abolition of the Balammara salt pass-station in Noakhali, and the extension of section 34 of Act V of 1861 to Chandpur where there is no municipality.

XI.—STATISTICAL ENQUIRIES.

45. Except the collection of vital statistics, which is closely supervised by the District Officers, and the enumeration of date and Palmyra palm trees for excise purposes reported to have been concluded, no statistical enquiry was undertaken.

Information about hail-storms was called for by the Government of India, but nowhere had any sufficient record been kept.

XII.—CIVIL JUSTICE.

46. Details of the work of the Civil Courts have been given in the prescribed statements appended.

Rent suits at munsifis increased from 31,237 to 32,269. Tippera shows a slight falling off in this respect, but Noakhali and Chittagong show the largest increase. The Judge of Noakhali attributes the increase of litigation to excessive subinfeudation generally; and two of his Munsifs, whom he quotes with approbation, add the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act as one of the causes of increase in the number of rent suits. Their remarks, as they illustrate the state of things common throughout the Division, are quoted below. One writes: "The increase is due particularly to the operation of the Bengal Tenancy Act, which has given the raiyats greater security of tenure, and consequently made them indifferent to the punctual payment of their rent. The landlords, on the other hand, bring as many rent suits as possible, so as to harass their tenants and compel them to agree to their terms." The other Munsif attributes the increase in his court partly to the same causes and other effects of the Tenancy Act, such as the limitation of the power to enhance rent and to demand excessive interest on arrears, and partly to the excessive subinfeudation of the land which prevails in the district, and the Muhammadan law of inheritance which divides small holdings among a number of co-heirs. "Such leases in this part of the country," he says, "have given rise to a class of speculators in land, and while the landlord of this type on the one hand makes every attempt to evade the limitation of enhancement and of interest proscribed by the Bengal Tenancy Act, the tenant naturally, on the other hand, takes shelter under the provisions of the above Act and repudiates his own agreement as having been made under coercion. The habit of opposing such a landlord gives so great a zest that it not unfrequently happens that the tenant resorts to the contrivance of forged receipts in print purporting to be an acquittance in full of all demands for rent." The wealth and litigiousness of the tenantry might have been added, and the large needy and greedy class of low unprincipled touters and mukhtears.

47. With regard to the number of witnesses examined and their detention, the statements referred to give the following information:—

The Judges and Sub-Judges examined 1,684 witnesses during the year, 406 of whom, or 24·1 per cent., were detained over two days.

One hundred and one thousand six hundred and eighty witnesses, against 97,741 the year before, were examined by the Munsifs, and 15,935 witnesses, or 15·6 per cent, were detained over two days. The percentage last year was 16·7. The percentage in Tippera and Noakhali was 13·4, but in Chittagong it was 20·4.

48. It may be interesting to give here figures showing the action of the Divisional Magistracy in this important matter.

Thirty-six thousand two hundred and ninety-five witnesses were examined by them, of whom 1,402 were detained over two days, the average percentage being 3·8. No doubt civil cases are usually more intricate than the average criminal case is, and witnesses in them have to be examined more exhaustively, and thus more time is required for the examination of each individual witness; but by proper foresight this being known, witnesses might be detained no longer in civil than in criminal cases.

XIII.—CRIME.

49. In this Division there are no distinct criminal classes, and the crime reported is always the work of the evil proportion of the ordinary rural population, which is found to exist everywhere. Riots are not uncommon, originating in sudden quarrels about rights to property, occasionally ending in loss of life or grievous hurt. The offences of counterfeiting coin and of incendiarism are also features of the crime of this Division. The cessation of all crime in the inundated tracts of Tippera and Noakhali during the inundation was remarkable.

50. The figures under the main divisions of cognizable and non-cognizable crime for the past two years are given below:—

DISTRICT.	COGNIZABLE.		NON-COONIZABLE.		COGNIZABLE.		NON-COGNIZABLE.
	1892.	1893.	1892.	1893.	Increase.	Decrease.	Increase.	Decrease.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Tippera ...	2,143	1,985	7,708	6,936	...	158	...	772
Noakhali ...	977	1,127	3,272	3,081	150	191
Chittagong ...	2,279	1,708	3,103	3,106	...	571	2	...
Total ...	5,399	4,820	14,083	13,123	...	579	...	961

51. In Tippera the decrease in cognizable cases falls chiefly under the heads counterfeiting coins, house-trespass, Arms Act, public and local nuisances, and section 110, Code of Criminal Procedure. Only three coining cases were detected, against eight the year before. Cases under the Arms Act dropped from 64 to 10; the Magistrate says the large number of prosecutions the year before made the people more careful. Nuisance cases dropped from 309 to 136, which the Magistrate says was owing to an adverse ruling of the High Court as to what constitutes an offence under section 283, Indian Penal Code, in the obstruction of waterways. The fluctuations under the other heads are slight.

The number of murder cases was nearly the same as in 1892-93, while that of culpable homicide fell from 9 to 5; petty riots and thefts of crops and fodder increased to some extent, as was to be expected in a year of damage by flood and storm.

There was a decrease of non-cognizable cases under all heads except "cattle trespass," probably owing to the people not having money to spend on such cases owing to loss of crops. The Tippera Magistrate thinks that the use of section 106 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has resulted in a decrease of assaults and the like. No doubt it might be more generally had recourse to, not in petty assault cases, but in all cases where the cause of quarrel remains, and is likely to remain, in existence.

52. In Noakhali there was an increase in the number of cognizable and a decrease of non-cognizable cases. Petty thefts, owing to high prices brought about by the inundation and the cyclone, rose from 202 to 318. There was a rise also in the offences of murder and arson from 1 to 4 and 13 to 18 respectively.

The system of referring cases of non-cognizable crime to panchayats, fully reported in last year's report, accounts for the further reduction of offences of this class. This procedure is, I find, not at all novel. It was introduced by Mr. Skrine in Tippera in 1886 while acting as Magistrate there.

53. In Chittagong there was a decrease in the number of cognizable offences, chiefly rioting, trespass, and burglary. It is reported that the enforcement of the preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, and the completion of the general survey of the district, which previously was a fruitful source of agrarian quarrels, have brought about this result. It is also added that trespass in the shape of jooming on Government hills by the people of the Hill Tracts has been effectually stopped. The contraband trade in opium with Arrakan was renewed with fresh vigour last year. A man with a consignment of 7 seers of opium was caught and punished.

Non-cognizable crime was stationary.

XIV.—POLICE.

54. The following changes took place in the police force and outposts in the Division, according to the suggestion of the Police Redistribution Committee, after the close of the year:—

In Noakhali the outposts at Silonia and Farashganj were abolished, and that at Parki in Chittagong. The redistribution of the force is given below:—

DISTRICT.	INCREASE.				DECREASE.				RE:
	Inspector.	Sub-Inspector.	Head-constable.	Constable.	Inspector.	Sub-Inspector.	Head-constable.	Constable.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Tippera	16	13	2
Noakhali	1	...	19
Chittagong	12	16	17

55. The following remarks have been left by my predecessor, Mr. Odham, on the police:—

"Tippera and Noakhali did the best police work. Tippera was again distinguished by its hearty co-operation with the Magistrates in contrast with the state of affairs in 1891. The superiority of the chaukidars in Noakhali, so often noticed, I find to be due to the efforts made for their organization and improvement by Mr. Westmacott about 12 years ago."

56. The appended Statement X shows the work of the police during the year under report. The percentage of convictions obtained by the police in cases disposed of during the year was 74.9, 78.7 and 83.8 in Tippera, Noakhali and Chittagong respectively, against 53·6, 81·6 and 70 per cent. in 1892-93. In Chittagong the success gained was principally in the minor cases. With regard to the falling off in the percentage in Noakhali, Mr. Nanda Krishna Bose, the late Magistrate, remarks: "The detective and judicial results this year show a falling off as compared with those of the year 1892, and this is due mainly, if not solely, to the fact that the subordinate police officers could not be so well supervised and controlled. First there was a change of officers at the head of the police; secondly, for some time in the year very junior officers, new to the work, officiated as inspectors; and thirdly, one of the best prosecuting court sub-inspectors was taken away from the district for some time."

57. In coining cases the police of Tippera and Noakhali secured in each of those districts 100 per cent. conviction, and 50 per cent. were convicted in Chittagong. In rioting cases there were convictions in 79·01 per cent. in Tippera, in 90·7 in Noakhali, and in 53·3 per cent. in Chittagong. In "other murder cases" there was no conviction in Tippera in the 2 cases disposed of, though the percentage of convictions in Noakhali was 100, and 80 in Chittagong. There was no real dacoity in Tippera, Noakhali or Chittagong.

58. In Tippera two cases of torture were brought against the police. One case fell through, and in the other four constables were convicted and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment by the Sessions Judge, three for two years and one for one year. In this case the High Court, while upholding the convictions on appeal, reflected unfavourably on the proceedings of the local officials.

In Chittagong a charge of misappropriation of the sale proceeds of an unclaimed boat brought against a sub-inspector fell through. But the man was departmentally punished with dismissal.

In Noakhali two constables were judicially punished, but it is not reported for what offence.

59. In Tippera a special police force had to be quartered at Sonarchur to quell disturbances fomented by the Nag Babus of Barudi; 25 special constables had to be enlisted, 9 at Sonarchur and 16 at Durgapur, the village where an Engineer of the Assam-Bengal Railway was severely wounded in a riot.

60. The new police patrol boat in Tippera was run over by a steamer of the India General Steam Navigation Company, and damaged. Some of the crew were injured, and one died. The serang of the vessel was tried, and acquitted, because it was not proved that the collision was due to his negligence.

61. In Tippera the new Chaukidari Act was in force, pargana Dollie excepted, where the sole liability of the zamindar to maintain the rural police was under consideration. The question has since been settled. The Magistrate reports that the village police in Tippera as a body were not very efficient and were not of as much help to the regular force as should be the case, but he has not given any details justifying his views.

In Noakhali the chaukidars are recruited from the better class of cultivators, and all of them are said to have a high idea of their position. The Magistrate reports that the improvement in their pay and status has not raised their efficiency in their watch-and-ward duties, which they neglect. I have lately called the attention of the Magistrates to the proper supervision of this important duty of the rural police. Twenty-five chaukidars were rewarded for giving assistance in arresting absconders and recovering stolen property.

In Chittagong the rural police are reported to have worked fairly well. Their minimum rate of pay was raised from Rs. 3 to Rs. 4. The maximum is Rs. 6. Wages being very high in this district, the remuneration offered to chaukidars does not attract sufficiently competent and trustworthy men.

62. The Chaukidari Reward Fund was started at different dates in the districts in this Division. There is no proscribed form for keeping the accounts of this fund. The following figures show the receipts and disbursements in 1893:—

	Receipts.			Disbursements
	Rs.	A.	P.	Rs.	A.	P.
Noakhali	255	12	0	123	0	0
Chittagong	1,581	4	3	58	0	0

A more liberal expenditure in rewards is desirable in Tippera and Chittagong.

No case of employment of chaukidars on menial duties has been reported.

XV.—CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

63. The prescribed statements XI to XV give details of 9,091 cases with 13,199 persons disposed of during the year, of which the Honorary Magistrates singly or on benches tried 1,393, or 15 per cent. The figures for the previous year are 9,157 cases with 13,237 persons, of which the Honorary Magistrates disposed of 1,439. The fluctuation in the statistics for the two years is small; on the average each Stipendiary Magistrate disposed of 290·4 cases with 4·7 witnesses per case. Chittagong, however, shows the highest figure, 310 cases on the average per Magistrate against 252·5 in Noakhali, the lowest figure in the Division. Among subdivisions the largest outturn of work is shown by Chandpur, the Subdivisional Officer there having disposed of 621 cases against 232·5, the average disposal at Cox's Bazar.

The average number of witnesses per case is highest in Noakhali, being 7·7 against 3·3 in Chittagong. For Honorary Magistrates the average disposal was 96·6 cases with 2·7 witnesses per case.

64. All the District Officers have recorded their appreciation of the substantial help rendered by Honorary Magistrates. Mr. Carlyle, Magistrate of Tippera, writes: "Some of the Honorary Magistrates tried a large number of cases, and tried them very well. A few, on the other hand, were very irregular in their attendance."

Mr. Anderson, Magistrate of Chittagong, brings prominently to notice the good work done by Babu Kherod Chandra Das, Honorary Magistrate, who attended eighty times and helped much in the disposal of work coming before the bench. The Magistrate of Noakhali reports that the Honorary Magistrates continued to afford appreciable assistance to the administration of criminal justice.

65. My predecessor, Mr. Oldham, has left the following record of his opinion about the work of Honorary Magistrates and criminal justice in general:—

"Work is most expeditiously done in Tippera and most slowly in Noakhali, but taken all round the Noakhali Bench is the best.

"Messrs. McMinn and Weatherall in Tippera were appointed to act as Justices of the Peace, and were given powers of first class Magistrates empowered to sit alone.

"While casually enquiring into bench work, I found that nearly all junior Magistrates in the district, Stipendiary and Honorary, were in the habit of using the form of procedure, prescribed for warrant cases, in summons cases, instead of the summary procedure, which is more like that in a Small Cause Court. I suspect this error is general throughout the Province, and is answerable in no small degree for delays in petty cases.

"The most dilatory Magistrate in the Division was Babu Avinash Chandra Mukerji at Noakhali."

66. The territorial system of jurisdiction for the subordinate magistracy continues to work well in Tippera, and it is necessarily followed in the islands. It is reported that in the island of Sandwip the deputation of a Sub-Deputy Magistrate during the year produced the doubtful benefit of raising the number of cases from 246 in 1892 to 824 in 1893. In Chittagong it was in abeyance during the latter portion of the year.

67. In Tippera there were 34 Honorary Magistrates and three benches at Comilla and the subdivision, all exercising second class powers. Eight Honorary Magistrates sit singly, two exercising first class, four second class, and two third class powers.

The Comilla Bench has got original jurisdiction over a fixed area.

The Honorary Magistrates in Tippera disposed of, between them, 809 cases against 666 cases in 1892. The average success in appeal was 71·4 per cent. against 36 the year before.

In Noakhali there are 22 Honorary Magistrates forming one Bench at headquarters, who disposed of 269 cases against 264 cases in 1892. There were no appeals against the orders of the Honorary Magistrates—a fact which can be interpreted either as a sign of undue leniency or of efficiency.

In Chittagong the obsolete Municipal Bench, most of the members of which were Magistrates on the regular Bench, was abolished during the year as superfluous.

Of the 22 Magistrates, one with second class powers sits singly. They disposed of 315 cases against 509 cases in 1892. The absence of Babu Nitya Nandy Roy, the Magistrate who sits singly, for more than six months from the town, accounts partly for the decrease. He had disposed of 145 cases in 1892, while in 1893 he dealt with 61 cases only. From the result of appeals, the decisions of the Chittagong Bench show deterioration, the average percentage upheld being 50·0 against 65·5 the year before.

68. The Noakhali Bench shows the most regular attendance. Tippera comes last with 68·6 as the average percentage of attendances to calls.

Chittagong owes its high percentage of 84·1 to the frequent attendances, without call, of two Honorary Magistrates.

Munshi Johuruddin, of the Brahmanbaria Bench, whose irregular attendance was noticed in my last report, has resigned. I have picked out the following as extreme cases of neglect:—Munshi Arfar Rahman, of the Comilla Bench, attended only thrice out of twenty days on which his attendance was due; Babu Gopi Mohan Roy Chaudhry, of Nabinagar, and a gentleman of the same name of Boidyakote, Brahmanbaria Bench, attended only twice and thrice out of thirteen and twelve calls respectively.

The extreme cases in Chittagong are those of Maulvi Zulfikar Ali, who attended only 4 out of 24 occasions, and of Babu Prosonno Kumar Roy, who attended on only 2 out of 14.

Results of prosecutions. 69. The results of prosecutions for the last two years are :—

The results in Tippera comparatively are the best. In Noakhali the decrease in the percentage of convictions was due to the large increase of petty offences which were, under Mr. Bose's system of reference to panchayets for enquiry under section 202, Code of Criminal Procedure, settled out of court or compromised. In Chittagong the results of trials before Honorary Magistrates show some improvement. In the case of those before the Stipendiary Magistrates the falling off was in non-cognizable cases, this being due to the number withdrawn compromised.

70. The quality of the work of Honorary Magistrates has been referred to above. For Stipendiary Magistrates the record is generally satisfactory. The divisional percentage has risen from 69·1 to 72·6, and the improvement appears in the figures for all the districts, but chiefly in those of Noakhali, where the figures show an improvement from 68·1 to 79·3 per cent. Taking into consideration the number of disposals as well as of appeals, marked individual success was achieved by the two Subdivisional Magistrates of Brahmanbaria and the officer at Chandpur. For one Deputy Magistrate the percentage was as low as 20, 37·5 and 50.

71. The figures for this year show an improvement in all the districts.

The percentage of convictions for the Division was 73·7 against 68·5. In Tippera it was 83·8. The Subdivisional Magistrates of Brahmanbaria were successful at the sessions in all the cases they sent up. In Tippera and Noakhali the records are said to have been carefully scrutinized by the District Magistrate before they were sent for trial by the Sessions Judge.

72. The tabulated statement below shows that out of 36,295 witnesses examined in the year, 1,402, or 3·8 per cent., were detained over two days. The percentage for 1892 was 5·6. Individual offenders in this important matter have badly affected the general average. In Tippera, for instance, where all the Magistrates appear to have kept in view this part of their duty, the percentage was 9 only, while in Noakhali it was 6·5, because the percentage in the cases of Deputy Magistrates Akhay Kumar Bose and Avinas Chandra Mookerjee went up as high as 15·7 and 12·9 respectively. For the same reason the percentage in Chittagong is not as good as it should have been but for the dilatoriness of Babu Hridoy Nath Majumdar, ex-officio Deputy Magistrate, Cox's Bazar, whose percentage went up as high as 19·2. The percentage for Mr. J. T. Rankin, Assistant Magistrate, and Mr. D. N. Mukerji, Deputy Magistrate, at head-quarters, was also 13·5 and 13·1 respectively. The lowest percentage in the Division was 4·5, a result obtained by Babu Homendra Lal Kastagir, who examined 1,104 witnesses.

73. The figures below show the action of the Honorary Magistrates. Of the 3,843 witnesses examined by them, 309, or 8·04 per cent, were detained over two days. Their percentage for the year before was 12·6. The Chittagong Bench shows marked improvement, the percentage dropping from 46·8 to 17·4. The percentage for Babu Nitya Nanda Roy, the only Honorary Magistrate who sits singly, is 3·4, which is creditable.

74. In Tippera and in Chittagong more than half the number of A cases were disposed at the first and second hearing, and in Noakhali a little less than half. The percentage of cases remanded six times and over dropped from 3·1 in 1892 to 2·3 in the year under report. In Tippera it was 6 against 1·6. In Noakhali only one case was remanded six times, and the percentage was 7 against 1·1, and in Chittagong the percentage was 4 against 5·01. Out of 22 cases disposed of, 5 cases were remanded more than five times by the ex-officio Deputy Magistrate at Cox's Bazar, and one Magistrate at head-quarters remanded 6 cases in this way out of 35 he tried. These high percentages have affected the district total.

75. This branch of criminal work is sufficiently illustrated by the figures in the statement. The total demand, collection, and balance are very much the same as in 1892. The Fines. balances in Chittagong and in Tippera are comparatively heavy.

XVI.—REGISTRATION OF DEEDS.

76. The prescribed Statement XVII shows the details of the working of this department.

There was an increase in the number of registered deeds in Tippera and in Chittagong, and a slight falling off in Noakhali.

In Tippera there was a rise in the number of deeds of sale, mortgages, and leases, probably due to the distress in the district. For the same cause in Noakhali the number of deeds of sale registered is said to have increased.

In Chittagong the number of deeds increased because people whose lands had been taken by the Assam-Bengal Railway had to purchase land elsewhere before receipt of their compensation, and also on account of the growing confidence of the people in registration. The minimum ad-valorem fee was reduced during the year from 12 annas to 8 annas. This has affected prejudicially the receipts everywhere.

77. In Noakhali there was, in cases of optional registration, an increase of about 15 per cent., indicating the growing popularity of the system. Three new offices were opened there during the year, and four more have been proposed.

The Tippera offices had the lightest work. The largest number of deeds was registered at the Noakhali Special Sub-Registrar's office, and among rural offices those at Chittagong had the largest share of business. Two new rural offices have been proposed for the district.

In Tippera two persons were convicted for false statements and false personation before Sub-Registrars.

No other offences under the Act were reported as having come to light during the year.

The two matters calling for reform in the registration of deeds are, in my experience, (1) the impunity with which persons can avoid obedience to processes issued to secure their attendance to be examined by Sub-Registrars as to deeds alleged to have been executed by them, in many cases until the eight months has expired after the date of the deed. The procedure under the Code of Civil Procedure after summons has been ineffective is often not known, and no further action is taken. A criminal prosecution under section 174, Indian Penal Code, in all such cases would work a reform quickly. The other matter (2) is the way in which Sub-Registrars admit deeds presented more than four months after date of execution without any proof of "unavoidable accident or urgent necessity" as laid down in the law.

XVII.—CONDITIONS OF THE DIVISION AS REGARDS LAND AND LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION.

78. Statement XVIII shows the position. Mr. Oldham says: "It was a bad year for Tippera and Noakhali. Collections must be bad in the Government estates, as they are mostly chars which felt both the floods and the cyclone. In chars Durwesh and Gazi the Collector of Noakhali had to stop pressing on collection, and reported this confidentially. The Board were informed. It was a very good one for Chittagong—high prices combined with a decent harvest." The figures showing the percentage of collections are—

		Tippera.	Noakhali.	Chittagong.
		Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.
1892-93	...	98.55	98.5	95.66
1893-94	...	96.90	96.46	96.28

79. Tippera and Noakhali failed to reach the standard prescribed for private and Government estates. The deficit is accounted for by the failure of crops and the loss of cattle caused by the floods and cyclone.

The balances at the end of the year are compared in the table below according to the classes prescribed by the Government Resolution on the Land Revenue Administration Report for 1890-91:—

	Balance in 1892-93.	Balance in 1893-94.	Percentage of balance in 1892-93.	Percentage of balance in 1893-94.
1	2	3	4	5
Class I ...	Rs. 4,430	Rs. 7,906	22	40
" II ...	3,728	9,867	3.51	8.89
" III ...	55,974	53,555	8.24	8.09
Total ...	64,130	71,128	2.35	2.63

80. Only one estate with a revenue of annas 13-9 was redeemed in the district of Chittagong during the year by paying twenty-five times its annual revenue.

81. The system of payment of revenue and cesses by money-orders continues to develop, showing larger operations, and to work satisfactorily, as the following figures show:—

1	Number of money-orders received.		Amount of revenue sent by money-orders.		Number of money-orders under reference or objection.
	1892-93.	1893-94.	1892-93.	1893-94.	1892-93.	1893-94.
2	3	4	5	6	7
Tippera ...	2,423	2,670	Rs. 55,208	Rs. 51,431	40	...
Noakhali ...	686	913	3,406	4,472
Chittagong ...	24,862	25,904	1,09,863	1,11,873	221	...
Total ...	27,970	29,487	1,68,477	1,67,576	270	...

The falling off in amount of money in Tippera was due to the extensive use of the money-orders by the proprietors of petty estates only, who have to pay small sums as revenue.

The following figures show the payment of rent by money-orders:—

	1892-93.	1893-94.	1892-93.	1893-94.	1892-93.	1893-94.
2	3	4	5	6	7
Tippera ...	792	1,224	Rs. 14,294	Rs. 18,643	306	347
Noakhali ...	1,701	1,278	23,478	18,350	445	348
Chittagong ...	6,517	4,587	20,477	23,136
Total ...	9,010	7,089	58,244	60,129	751	690

In spite of the large increase in the number of orders in Tippera, the percentage of refusals has fallen from 38 to 28. The Officiating Collector,

Mr. Carlyle, says it is probable that there will be a considerable increase in the number of money-orders sent, as it affords protection to tenants whose relations with their landlords are strained. In Noakhali landlords are said to refuse the remittances when tenants make mistakes in naming taluks or send rents without interest.

82. Nine hundred and seventy-three estates or shares of estates became liable to sale, of which 315 were actually sold, 298 in Chittagong alone against 282 in 1892-93. One thousand nine hundred and sixteen tenures were brought to sale in Chittagong, of which 513 were sold. Three estates and 24 tenures were purchased by Government.

In Noakhali six tenures were sold against 11 the year before; two of these were purchased by Government.

In Tippera four estates were purchased by Government.

The number of estates or shares of estates sold in Tippera and Noakhali was 12 and 5 respectively.

The law seems to have been worked without over-severity in all districts of the Division.

There were 48 appeals to Commissioner against revenue sales during 1893-94, of which 5 were rejected and 19 dismissed. In 19 the sales were annulled and 5 were pending disposal at the close of the year.

Working of the Public Demand Recovery Act.

83. The following comparative statement shows the result of the working of the Act:—

	1891-92.	1892-93.	1893-94.	1891-92.	1892-93.	1893-94.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Tippera ...	3,605	3,231	3,929	3,761	3,583	2,800
Noakhali ...	1,532	1,002	1,219	1,446	1,198	994
Chittagong ...	10,732	8,612	9,123	11,033	9,080	9,189
Total ...	15,869	12,845	14,271	16,240	13,861	12,983

The result of the year's work shows an increase in the number of institutions of from 12,826 in 1892-93 to 14,271 in 1893-94.

The increase has occurred in the classes, arrears of rent due to Government, rents due to the Court of Wards, and all other demands under section 7. The total amount covered by the certificates issued last year was Rs. 1,61,060, exclusive of demands for other districts. For 1892-93 the figures were Rs. 1,72,134. The consolidation of the department under recent orders has been taken in hand in all districts.

84. The total collections amounted to Rs. 5,11,856 out of a demand of Rs. 5,69,742. The percentages attained by each district were—

	Arrear.	Current.
1. Tippera ...	87·8	83·4
2. Noakhali ...	84·81	93·25
3. Chittagong ...	96·59	91·50

Chittagong alone has attained or exceeded the standard of 90 per cent. on the arrear demand. The current collections in all the districts are below the prescribed standard of 95 per cent.

The short collections are mainly due to short crops, the result of heavy rainfall and floods.

85. In Tippera 475 applications under section 42 were filed during the year against 587 the year before. The ratio of mutations to original registration was 4·1 per cent. against 5·11 in 1892-93. In Noakhali there were 456 cases against 503 the year before, and a ratio of 5·73 per cent. against 6·32.

Land Registration.

In Chittagong the applications increased from 6,571 in 1892-93 to 6,861 in 1893-94, and the ratio from 3·9 per cent. to 4·1 in the year under report.

The department in Chittagong is very heavy, and is managed by two Sub-Deputy Collectors. Eleven thousand five hundred and two transfers were reported by Sub-Registrars and others, and Rs. 6,137-8 were inflicted as fines under section 65 of the Land Registration Act.

86. Important professional surveys are in progress in Chittagong throughout the district, and in some estates in Tippera and Noakhali. In Tippera four Government estates and six private estates were under survey and settlement. All the four Government estates, excepting one, viz., Gunanandi, are petty. The cadastral survey of Gunanandi has been completed. Of the remaining three Government estates, two are in an advanced state of progress, and in one rates have to be determined. Of the six private estates, survey and khatnabari have been completed in two. In one case the proceedings are in abeyance owing to objections raised by the raiyats to the published draft khatians which are under consideration. In the Palpara and Sonachar estates, measurement and khatnabari have been completed.

The survey and settlement of pargana Sarail were completed at a cost of Rs. 1,28,703 and Rs. 52,376 respectively. In this estate the new jamabandi has been strongly objected to, and it is being revised.

In the Roshnabad estate traverse survey has been completed. The cadastral survey and other work has been done in some villages. The cost incurred up to date is Rs. 69,871 for survey and Rs. 17,904 for settlement.

87. In Noakhali an aggregate of 5,165 acres was surveyed during the year at a cost of Rs. 1,047. The measurement of the four Government estates was completed during the year. A private estate, the area of which is 4,217 acres, was also surveyed during the year at a cost of Rs. 2,038, as also 304 acres of another private estate.

88. Mr. Oldham proposed to have the Government lands in char Toom Madhub, an island of Noakhali in the Bay, created a reserved forest. It has been waste and under jungle since the cyclone of 1876, though let for grazing, and its jungles contain a breed of tame cattle become wild, as well as wild pigs.

89. The demarcation and survey of the district of Chittagong was completed during the year. The areas surveyed was 34·31 square miles in Moiskhal and Teknaf. Besides this an area of 15·43 square miles of Sankholas was surveyed during the year at a cost of Rs. 1,735-11.

90. In Tippera 18 settlement cases were disposed of during the year. None of these presented anything worth mentioning. The cases were all petty. In Noakhali 38 cases were disposed of during the year, in 29 of which summary settlements were effected, 2 were struck off the file as the land was diluviated, 2 cases were transferred to Register 8 of miscellaneous cases, and in 6 regular settlements were conducted. These settlements resulted in an increase of revenue amounting to Rs. 3,887.

The attestation of the khatians and the recording of rents have commenced in the private estate char Parbaty. The settlement proceedings of chars Gazi and Fakira were conducted under the Tenancy Act. The final records of these estates were published during the year, and the proceedings have been nearly completed.

91. In Chittagong the record-writing in the field was completed during the year for all lands with the exception of Sankholas. The khatnabari of 22 villages containing 91,288 plots in Teknaf and Moiskhal was completed. Record-writing in office has also been completed. Attestation had been completed in 641 villages previous to the year under report, and was done in 386 villages during the year, and only 3 villages in Moiskhal remained to be done out of the total of 1,030 villages. The "mahal milan" has been completed in Ramu and Juldi circles, and is making progress in the other circles. Out of the 1,030 villages surveyed, this work had been completed in 282 villages up to the close of the year. Assessment had been completed in Ramu, practically completed in Juldi, and was making progress in the other circles. The total number of tenants for whom fair rents had been settled was 43,456 out of the estimated total of 120,000.

The records of 44 out of 50 villages in Ramu were finally published before the 12th April, so that the new rents might come into force from the commencement of the current agricultural year. The cost of settlement was

Rs. 1,56,757-13-7 against an estimate of Rs. 1,74,532-8, showing a saving of Rs. 17,774-10-5.

XVIII.—WARDS' AND ATTACHED ESTATES.

92. There is no attached estate in this Division. The total number of wards' estates is 15, which was the number also in the previous year—12 in Chittagong and 3 in Noakhali. The total current demand of rent and cesses due to these estates is Rs. 3,74,181, of which Rs. 3,15,159, or 84·2 per cent., was collected during the year. The total collections, both current and arrear, amounted to Rs. 3,70,354, or 74·9 per cent., against Rs. 4,08,184, or 77·4 per cent., the year before.

Mr. Oldham says he would repeat as to Chittagong and as to the Panamia Trust in Noakhali what he wrote last year, viz., of the latter:—"Its management is, because it is compact, entirely satisfactory, and its objects are carried out without a hitch. In Chittagong several improvements were found possible and were effected. The most prominent were the erection and maintenance of sea-dykes, construction of roads, the excavation of tanks, and some agricultural experiments. Chittagong has more wards' estates than any district in the Province, and their component parts lie throughout the length and breadth of the district. The cost of management is high in some estates. This is solely because of the state in which they came on our hands and the fact that they have only so come recently. In all the older estates the cost is very low, and it is to be remembered that not one of these estates has been taken charge of to save the Government revenue. We have them in charge solely for the sake of the proprietors. Considering the amount of administration they involve, the cost is marvellously small.

"My sense of dissatisfaction with the state of the three estates in Noakhali has grown each year of my connection with them.

"For Girinda Chandra Mazumdar's estate we framed a liquidation scheme last year. With the utmost parsimony, bare subsistence for the family, nothing done for the tenantry, and no disturbance, the estate would be clear of debts in 13 years. The cyclone of October last has knocked this scheme to pieces. This is the most unsatisfactory of the estates.

"In Bhubanjoy Saha's estate, the old proprietor, who is very well off, sits still while we collect his rents for him and make over to him the profits. He used, moreover, to constantly interfere, and I have had proposals for us to do mahajani for him, or to buy in estates in which it was an object for us to default as regards his share benami. This, I think, has been stopped, as the estate consists of bits and shares, from shares of interest in mere tenancies to shares of taluks. Nothing for its benefit can be done." It was a mistaken piece of kindness on the part of the late Mr. Barua, while Officiating Collector, taking over the management of this estate. I recollect succeeding him in 1885 at Noakhali, and finding Government let in for carrying on a low money-lending and shop-keeping business with land, including fractional shares of raiyati holdings, &c., &c., and a shamefully false rent-roll. It seems to be but little better now.

Mr. Oldham continues: "Worst of all is the Courjon estate. We have had it now for over 20 years, and beyond some paltry subscriptions have done nothing for the tenantry, while we have been rigorous rent receivers and enhancers. The large amount of claims written off in my time showed in detail how freely and carelessly certificates used to be issued. The excuse for this system is that it came to us with a debt of Rs. 1,25,000, which was fully cleared last year. This debt was absolutely personal, and had nothing to do with the maintenance of the estate or the tenantry. I represented at the same time that at least one portion of the estate in which the operation was practicable at an estimated cost of Rs. 6,000 should undergo a survey and settlement. No reply has been yet received. In this estate the issue of certificates and the process of screwing up the rents, called by the manager applying the prevailing rates, has to be vigilantly watched, and the Collector is now fully alive to this."

93. I had knowledge of this estate also as Collector of Noakhali in 1885-87. I think with Mr. Oldham that both it and Bhujanjoy Shaha's estate might be properly given up.

TRAINING OF YOUNG CIVILIANS IN SURVEY AND SETTLEMENT WORK.

94. In Chittagong Mr. Stevenson-Moore, Joint-Magistrate and Deputy Collector, did some khanapuri near head-quarters, and visited the settlement office to learn to extract areas. He also did some khanapuri in Sitakunda while he was in charge of the mela there. In the middle of March he accompanied the Director of Land Records and Settlement Officers while they inspected the office of the Assistant Settlement Officer at Fatikchhari. He was out for 12 days on survey and settlement work. Mr. Assistant Collector J. T. Rankin was out for four days and attended the Assistant Settlement Officer's camp at Nhila, where he learnt the khanapuri and attestation work. He did the khanapuri of certain plots of lands and wrote out the khasra and khatian for them. Assistant Magistrate Mr. Kiran Chandra De was out for 55 days. He was employed in the khanapuri of a village the khasra of which has nearly been completed. There were no young Civilians employed in Tippera and Noakhali.

XIX.—EXCISE.

95. From year to year the excise revenue fluctuates for causes which at times are ascertained with tolerable accuracy and at others are somewhat unaccountable. For instance, in view of the general distress in Tippera and Noakhali, no one would have expected an improvement in the revenue from excise; and yet, contrary to all expectations, there was an increase of about Rs. 7,000 in Tippera and of over Rs. 1,000 in Noakhali. The explanations given are more or less stereotyped and do not correctly elucidate the phenomenon. In Chittagong, which was to a great extent free from the calamities that visited Tippera and Noakhali, the revenue decreased by over Rs. 10,000. The introduction of contraband opium is the correct explanation of the decrease of revenue under the head opium. But there was not any considerable increase under any other heads. Country spirits, for instance, showed an improvement of Rs. 244 only, though the Assam-Bengal Railway coolies must have caused an increased demand for liquor. Increased duty on ganja accounts for increased revenue under that head in all the districts. Very little can be expected from the new system of tari excise in this Division. In Chittagong the revenue doubled itself last year, but the original revenue was only about a thousand. There is no taste for tari here, and the revenue therefore cannot ever exceed a few thousand rupees.

96. There was not much detection work done in the district. The police in Chittagong detected a man with seven seers of contraband opium.

XX—STAMPS.

97. The table annexed shows the fluctuations of revenue under this head with prominent details. The falling off under judicial stamps in Tippera has not been sufficiently explained. It has been surmised that an accumulation of these stamps remaining in the vendor's hands at the end of the previous year told prejudicially upon the sale of court-fees during the year under report. This explanation is admittedly a guess, and the matter requires further enquiry.

In Noakhali the decrease in the sale of non-judicial stamps is said to have been the result of a falling off in the number of perpetual and other leases and bonds executed on account of the general destitution of the people after the cyclone and bad harvests, while the very same cause is said to have stimulated the sale of court-fee stamps, owing to the institution of a larger number of rent suits caused by the raiyats' impecuniosity.

The increase in Chittagong only followed the previous normal course of development of this branch of revenue.

98. There were 25 prosecutions under the Stamp Law, against 20 the year before. Of these 14 took place in Tippera. It appears that intentional evasions are not always followed by prosecutions. Civil courts impounded 928 documents against 734 in 1892-93, and revenue officers 2,577 against 1,935 the year before. These figures indicate probably more careful scrutiny on the part of Government officers than any increase in disregard of the stamp laws by the people.

XXI.—INCOME-TAX.

99. The administrative details of the tax are given below.

The receipts increased by Rs. 5,557, all the districts contributing, but chiefly Tippera. The increase was chiefly under the head "Tax on salaries," due to the number of employes on the Assam-Bengal Railway. The number of assesses in consequence increased from 5,164 to 5,222. This will be temporary. The development of revenue from other sources of income was retarded by short crops everywhere, floods in Tippera, and the cyclone in Noakhali.

The number of objections dropped from 499 to 422, Noakhali showing bad results in this respect. One hundred and fifty-one of these objections were successful. Fewer warrants had to be issued everywhere except at Noakhali, where the distress caused by the damage done by the cyclone resulted in non-payment in time.

There was only the small balance of Rs. 350 outstanding under all heads against a gross collection of Rs. 1,02,624. The tax was for the most part assessed and collected without friction or annoyance.

XXII.—MONETARY ARRANGEMENTS.

100. Monetary transactions were carried on by means of money-orders, currency notes, remittance transfer receipts, supply bills and cash. Hundis are very rarely used. The Chittagong Treasury received currency notes worth Rs. 3,51,525, and with the balance in hand at the beginning of the year issued Rs. 3,54,630 worth. In Tippera the receipts and issues were Rs. 2,42,750 and Rs. 2,48,230. In Noakhali the transactions in notes were limited.

The Chittagong Treasury did not receive any remittance from any treasury during the year, and it had to remit Rs. 7,00,000 to Akyab. It issued to the public Rs. 48,802 worth of small silver coins, and Rs. 14,211 worth of copper coins, and it paid Rs. 56,000 on supply bills and telegraphic money-orders and Rs. 40,481-15-11 on remittance transfer receipts.

These details show the comparative magnitude of monetary operations in Chittagong.

The Tippera Treasury received over forty-three lakhs and disbursed about the same amount. The receipts in Noakhali were over twenty-seven lakhs, and over thirteen lakhs were remitted to Dacca. Supply bills for Rs. 1,35,900 were issued there chiefly to the Bhulnah zamindars. The limit of the amount having been raised from Rs. 600 to Rs. 2,000, it is reported traders do not generally come forward for these bills. The demand for half pice still continues there.

XXIII.—RAILWAYS AND OTHER PUBLIC WORKS.

101. I quote the following from Mr. Oldham's note:—"The bank is three parts finished. The Engineers are sanguine that if all goes well the permanent-way, except for the two big bridges, will be finished in this Division by the end of next working season."

There was a serious riot in Tippera in July, due to the Railway taking up homestead lands. In that district these lands are so scarce that a good deal of hardship has been caused by this. The Agent has been very considerate, and has given way and diverted wherever it was possible for him to do so. In other places, particularly in Noakhali, disturbances have also been threatened and were averted by the tact and patience of the Executive Engineer, Mr. Brounger. The chief cause was delay in paying compensation, and it arose from the zamindar's reluctance to come to terms and the impossibility meanwhile of making them with the tenants, who in Maharaja Durga Charan Law's estates have all permanent leases.

In Tippera there was an uneasy feeling that sufficient waterway had not been provided by the Railway Company for the flow of the surface drainage across the line. At places the raiyats would, it came to the Magistrate's ears, if the necessity should arise, cut a passage for the flood water through the embankment. Professional opinion, however, was obtained that there was no ground for anxiety, and nothing further has been heard about the matter.

102. As regards the commercial prospects of the line, Mr. Oldham says that he does not hesitate to record that his views are the same as those expressed by Mr. Cotton in 1884, in contrast with the sanguine views taken by the Bengal Government, and subsequently by his predecessor. Mr. Cotton's alternative of steamer communication with Narayanganj, he says, is not practicable. The Navigation Companies have tried it again and again, and are not able to devise a steamer of any size which would at the same time be fit for the sea passage and have a draught light enough for the river channels.

103. In Chittagong a ballast train has already begun to run about four miles of the way, and will, it is said, run about 24 miles in a few months. The construction of houses for the railway officials and of workshops has begun. The railway officials' quarters will add a small suburb to Chittagong.

The construction of the road was delayed owing to very heavy and continued rain during the first week of March. The work of land acquisition was also tardy owing to various causes. The land along the Karnafuli for the Port line being covered with houses, has taken the Deputy Collector a long time, and the delay was causing the Railway Company loss and inconvenience, which gave rise to growing impatience at the end of March.

104. The only public buildings of importance completed during the year were the District Board's office and the Faizanessa Hospital at Comilla. Several of the thatched court-houses in Noakhali which had been blown down during the cyclone, were reconstructed.

XXIV.—COMMUNICATIONS.

105. Very little was done in extending road communication during the year, except in the way of making petty village roads. The resources of the local bodies were directed chiefly to the maintenance, metalling, and bridging of existing roads, and the making of masonry causeways.

In Chittagong three costly bridges were put up on three important roads, and two wooden bridges in Noakhali. Three miles of the important road from Chittagong to Rangamati near the boundary of the Hill Tracts had been almost wholly neglected, and the omission caused much dissatisfaction, especially as the other portions of the road had been kept in excellent order and the gap near the Hill Tracts broke the continuity of an otherwise excellent line of communication. It was ruled during the year that the Arakan authorities should pay the Chittagong District Board one-fourth of the income of the Ukhia and Mangdo ferries for the maintenance of the roads leading to them from the Chittagong side.

In Tippera the daily steamer service between Daudkandi and Narayanganj was given up in August last, and a line between Maniknagar and Brahmanbaria was started in its place, and the daily cart service between Comilla and Daudkandi was in consequence transferred to the new line. The steamer service between Noakhali and Barisal was maintained thrice weekly, the District Board paying the Steamer Company a monthly subsidy of Rs. 200. Communication by steamer with the islands of Hatiya and of Sandwip off the Noakhali coast has not yet been established for want of funds. It is much needed.

106. In Tippera nothing was done in the way of planting new trees, and it cost Rs. 1,704 to maintain the trees already planted.
Planting of trees on road-sides.

In Noakhali about three miles of road were planted with new trees, some of the plants being brought from the Botanic Garden at Sibpur. Rupees 917 were spent on this, and Rs. 1,196 on the maintenance of trees already planted. The cyclone did considerable damage to the trees along the roads everywhere.

In Chittagong the maintenance of old trees cost Rs. 1,227, and there was no new plantation.

XXV.—WORKING OF THE LODGING-HOUSE ACT.

107. This Act is in force only at Sitakund in Chittagong. Owing to the weather the attendance at the mela last year was below the average. The usual arrangements were made by the Magistrate, and there was no cause for complaint for house room or sanitary precautions. The improvement of the water-supply of the place is still receiving attention. It is proposed to start a dispensary there with an Assistant Surgeon, who will then be available as Health Officer during the mela. There was only one case of cholera among the pilgrims last year.

The fund at the close of the year stood at Rs. 6,531-6-4.

XXVI.—EDUCATION.

108. Some of the prominent details in connection with this department are that over four lakhs were spent on education, 5,379 schools were maintained, and 135,670 pupils were taught last year. The decrease of over a thousand schools is due chiefly to the exclusion from the Noakhali return of the Musalman schools known as maktabas, which numbered 1,054 in 1892-93.

Tippera, as reported in previous years, still takes the lead. More than half the number of schools in the Division is maintained there, and about two lakhs of rupees are expended there on education. The District Board gives liberal aid, expending over Rs. 30,000, against Rs. 26,201 spent in Noakhali, and only Rs. 14,846 in Chittagong. On primary education Tippera spends about Rs. 23,000, against only Rs. 5,155 devoted by the Chittagong District Board to an object of such great importance.

Noakhali in this respect is by no means behind hand. The District Board there very liberally spent over Rs. 21,000 on primary education. The percentage of boys of school-going age receiving education is 43.1 for the Division, Tippera being represented by 40.5, Noakhali by 43.2, Chittagong by 38.6 per cent.; the half-civilised Chittagong Hill Tracts bring up the rear with a percentage of 6.1 only. Each pupil in the Division costs Rs. 2-9,

Tippera, Noakhali and Chittagong being Rs. 3-04, Rs. 2-6, and Noakhali, 5 Rs. 2-0 per month, against Rs. 2-0 for Tippera.

109. Coming now to details, it appears that in Tippera one additional high English school was started at Sarail and some of the middle class English schools were reduced to vernacular schools. There was thus four English schools of the middle class less than three vernacular schools more.

The zila school, it is reported, maintains its reputation, though its success at the last two Entrance examinations was not so brilliant as a previous year. The Victoria School, a private institution, is becoming its rival.

The middle class schools, it is reported, were not very successful during the year. The floods compelled many of the schools to close shortly before the annual examinations, and the results were not satisfactory.

The floods and high prices are reported to have affected prejudicially the primary schools, causing a decrease of 317 schools with 8,076 pupils.

Each upper primary school had on an average 35 pupils costing Rs. 112 per year, Rs. 39 of which was borne by public funds. The lower primaries are subsidized by rewards given on results. The allotment, however, being exceeded by the rate, had to be reduced to 2 annas in the rupee. Each lower primary had on an average 20·5 pupils costing Rs. 49 per year, of which Rs. 6 was paid from public funds. The results of examinations were not very successful.

Female education is represented by the Faizunessa High Class Girls' School at Comilla. There was a noticeable reduction in this branch of education, resulting in a decrease of 56 schools with about 200 pupils. Still 6,447 girls received instruction during the year. Three girls passed the upper primary, one carrying away a scholarship, while 22 passed the lower primary, of whom one was a Muhammadan, five getting scholarships.

The building of the Elliott Artizan School was completed at a cost of Rs. 3,163, the Maharaja of Hill Tippera and Maharaj Kumar Bonoy Krishna of Calcutta bearing more than half the charges. There were 29 pupils against 34 the year before, 5 of whom received certificates of proficiency.

110. In Noakhali the number of high schools remained stationary. Middle English schools increased from 8 to 11, and middle vernacular from 37 to 38. A great falling off is observable in the lower primary schools, the number dropping from 1,225 to 1,185. It is reported that the high prices of food and the cyclone of October last are answerable for this. The children of the poorer classes were detained for work, and several of the pupils and gurus died of cholera that followed the cyclone.

The zilla school at the last entrance examination passed 11 out of 12 candidates sent up, and the Private Jubilee School 7 out of 10.

The results of the middle English and vernacular schools are fairly good; 36 and 83 passed respectively out of 45 and 114 sent up.

The number of pupils on an average at the upper primary schools was 35 and 21 at the lower. They were maintained by monthly stipends and rewards given on results. The percentage of success at the examination was 65·8 for the upper and 48·5 for the lower primary schools.

The number of girls' schools fell from 59 to 48 during the year, and only 3,657 girls received instruction against 5,441 the year before. One girl passed the upper primary examination and six the lower. The District Board have granted two scholarships to the girls for the encouragement of other girls to qualify.

The technical school at Noakhali shown in the return has been closed from the beginning of the current year. The average attendance was only two or three. The Board very rightly closed the school, and have instead awarded two scholarships of Rs. 10 each, tenable at the Sibpur Engineering College for five years by two natives of the district. Muhammadan education in this district is progressing favourably. It is doubtful whether the Koran schools, which have increased from 1,054 to 1,116, impart any education in the sense in which the word is generally understood. But the results in the recognized schools indicate gradual improvement. It is reported that three-fourths of the pupils of the Division are Muhammadans. Out of 83 who passed the middle vernacular examination, 33 are Muhammadans. Their number at the upper and lower primary examinations was 74 and 333 respectively, out of 245 and 607 passed.

There was a proposal to encourage Sanskrit learning in Noakhali by subsidizing tols. This was negatived by Mr. Oldham, on the ground that the encouragement of the study of Sanskrit in a purely Muhammadan district would have been a misuse of the public money.

111. In Chittagong there was no fluctuation in the number of high and middle class schools. But the success of their pupils at the examinations was far from creditable. Out of 93 candidates at the entrance examination, only 24 passed, and out of 242 who appeared at the middle scholarship examination, only 134 passed. Primary education, however, is gaining ground, and is being gradually diffused more widely. There was an increase of 108 to the number of schools. But still even this is very much behind Tippera. The system of maintaining these schools is the same as in the other districts.

One thousand four hundred and thirty-eight pupils went up for the examination and 733 passed.

Female education also shows a slight improvement. Thirty-one against 25 schools the year before were maintained, and 2,528 girls were taught. Twenty-two girls passed the prescribed examination. The special schools in the district are the Normal School for training vernacular teachers, three guru-training schools, and six Madrassas. Two of the last are maintained by Government, one at Chittagong and the other at Cox's Bazar.

The proposal for closing the Normal School has been negatived, and a new site for the College Boarding School has been sanctioned. The superannuation of the Superintendent of the Chittagong Madrassa came prominently to notice during the year, and my predecessor, as President of the Madrassa Committee, had many occasions for dissatisfaction, and has left the following record:—

"The unsatisfactory state of the Chittagong Madrassa has been under notice for some time, and I had begun communication with the Director of Public Instruction about it, and to suggest that the Superintendent, who is considerably past 55, should be superannuated. This is the opinion of the Muhammadan community, and I have had much evidence of his inability to carry on his duties. His health is bad. The institution recently has been far from successful. Though the Commissioner is President of the Local Committee, he, on it, can exercise practically no control, and I cannot recall an instance in which the Committee's recommendations have been followed."

The following details show the state of Muhammadan education in the district. The percentage of pupils of this class is 58. Three of them passed the entrance examination, 19 middle, 39 upper primary, and 180 lower primary examinations. In my report I have not included the Koran and other indigenous schools which swarm in the district, not so much to provide secular as religious instruction.

XXVII.—DISPENSARIES AND HOSPITALS.

112. Tippera under the initiative taken by Mr. Greer still takes the lead in this department. The District Board there spent 7·4 per cent. of its income in maintaining these good institutions, while Noakhali and Chittagong devoted only 2·8 per cent. to this purpose. There has been an awakening, however. Noakhali and Chittagong have each started a new dispensary, the former after the close of the year, and in the latter it is proposed to start two more.

In Tippera 4·8 per cent. of the population obtained relief, while the percentage for Noakhali and Chittagong was 1·9 and 2·9 respectively.

In Chittagong there was much opposition to the scheme for erecting a central hospital on the Rangmahal Hill from funds partly contributed by the municipality and by the District Board. The rate-payers and others impugned the wisdom of the proposal on the score of reckless extravagance, and sent up memorials against it to Government. After enquiry as to the objections raised, the scheme has been sanctioned, and it only remains for the estimates and plans to be sanctioned to begin the work. In Tippera the Faizunnessa Hospital has been completed and furnished, and will shortly be in working order.

Sixteen dispensaries were maintained in the year in Tippera, 13 of these receiving support from the District Board. The Comilla and the subdivisional dispensaries receive indoor patients. The number treated, however, is comparatively small, being only 351 out of a total number of 86,657 patients.

The Chandpur dispensary received over Rs. 400 private subscription for its support, against only Rs. 10 the year before.

113. In Noakhali the dispensary at Fenny began to receive indoor patients during the year. Both the Fenny and the Haripur dispensaries were badly damaged by the cyclone, and there was considerable expenditure on repairs. The Hatia dispensary is gaining in popularity, standing second in the district, while the Dalal Bazar dispensary, maintained entirely by private charity, is deteriorating. This is to be regretted.

114. The Chittagong District Board liberally subsidizes six dispensaries, which are reported to be very popular.

The Maghs, who are averse to the English method of treatment, are said to be getting over their prejudice and to have attended the Cox's Bazar dispensary in larger numbers than before.

XXVIII.—LIBRARIES.

115. The Birchandra Public Library at Comilla is the only institution of the kind in this Division. It is administered by a managing committee of which the District Magistrate is the Chairman. It is maintained by subscriptions, and has got a reserve fund of Rs. 2,000.

XXIX.—MUSEUMS.

116. There are no museums in this Division.

XXX.—LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT INSTITUTIONS.

117. An election of Municipal Commissioners took place in all the districts during the year, and was attended with much interest everywhere, and with some excitement at Brahmanbaria. There is not much to be added to the remarks made in previous reports as regards the working of municipal bodies. So far as their means allowed, and according to their lights, they have tried to do useful work. In Chittagong they have asked for a loan of Rs. 45,000 to erect a commodious public hospital on a salubrious site in the town, conjointly with the District Boards, the Port Commissioners also contributing.

In Tippera they propose to undertake an extensive drainage scheme, which will cost about Rs. 50,000. Noakhali, with its small income of about Rs. 5,000, spent about Rs. 3,000 on improving the sanitation of the town. But, as may be supposed, there is still much to be done. The scavenging and conservancy of the towns require considerable improvement. Commenting on the defective drainage of the town, the Magistrate of Noakhali writes:—"I must say the Municipal Commissioners have not the courage of their convictions, and do not choose to risk unpopularity by enhancing the incidence of taxation." This remark applies with more or less qualification to many other municipalities besides that of Noakhali.

The survey of Chittagong Municipality was completed during the year by the Settlement Officer, and the question of apportionment of the expenditure is under discussion. My predecessor, Mr. Oldham, inspected the Chittagong Municipal Office, and was able to submit a satisfactory account to Government.

118. The District and the Local Boards continue to maintain their reputation. They have worked satisfactorily, but have failed to carry out the wishes of Government in some matters. The District Engineers, notwithstanding the strain put on them by the transfer of the Public Works charge, have generally done good service; but in Chittagong Mr. Oldham says a portion of an important provincial road was neglected. The following table shows the prominent details of District Board administration:—

DISTRICT BOARDS.	Income.	Cost of establishment.	Percentage.	AMOUNT SPENT ON—
				Education.	Public works.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Rs.	Rs.		Rs.	Rs.

The high percentage of establishment charges is a feature calling for the attention of the Chittagong District Board. Tippera is comparatively the most economical, though it spends most liberally on education and the medical needs of the district. Chittagong has begun to try to follow its example, but (it must be said) at a long distance behind.

XXXI.—EMPLOYMENT OF MUHAMMADANS.

119. Appended statement XXXII gives details of the distribution of Muhammadan officers and menials in the different offices. The matter of giving them due encouragement has not been lost sight of. The Collector of Tippera writes that competent Muhammadan candidates are not always forthcoming.

XXXII.—POST OFFICE AND TELEGRAPH.

120. As usual, these institutions enjoyed the unbounded confidence of the public. The development of the banking business of the Postal Department may be estimated from the fact that in a small district like Noakhali money-orders covering Rs 11,52,301 were issued during the year.

XXXIII.—ZAMINDARI DAK.

121. The Postal Department has the sole management of this department, and there was no change in the year under report.

122. The important fairs in the Division are the Sitakund fair, held in February on the occasion of the Shivaratri festival; the Mahamuni fair, where the hill people come in numbers, held in April; and the Panchpukuria fair held in October in the district of Tippera. The last has usually the largest gathering of about 10,000 people. All of them passed off well, without any outbreak of disease or any outrageous crime being committed.

123. The figures showing the administration of the pounds are given below. There was a falling off in revenue in all the districts, but chiefly in Tippera, where, owing to a heavy mortality among cattle after the floods, a large amount had to be remitted.

In Noakhali, however, which suffered from the effects of inundation and the cyclone of October as well, the decrease is almost inappreciable, and it is reported that the percentage of collection of rent was above 98.

In Chittagong some petty pounds had to be closed, and the revenue decreased.

XXXIV.—SOCIAL AND POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS.

124. The political institutions are those reported last year. In Chittagong the United Schools Athletic Institution was started during the year to create and improve a taste for physical exercise among students. Foot-ball is the game it patronizes most. Exciting tournaments were held between the students of the different schools in the town, and the prizes were given away by my predecessor, Mr. Oldham. The Purity Association held one or two meetings to discuss temperance subjects.

The Islam Association in Chittagong met once to welcome two maulvis who had been converted from Christianity.

In Tippera the People's Association met once to protest against the proposed transfer of the Chittagong Division to Assam. These are the only outward signs of life the associations exhibited during the year. They did not exhibit much energy or enthusiasm.

The Oldham Institute and a similar institution in Tippera, are a sort of club intended to offer recreation in the shape of games and light reading to native gentlemen after the day's work is done, and in this they have been successful and are appreciated.

STATE OF PUBLIC FEELING AND THE PUBLIC PRESS.

125. Public feeling, that is, feeling common to any large section of native society, hardly exists.

Politics proper are seldom discussed or criticized, but local topics sometimes create a temporary agitation. The proposal to transfer this Division to Assam, though only a small part of the population realized what it meant, began to cause a ferment of objection which, however, the shelving of the project for the present brought to an end.

The survey and settlement operations going on in Chittagong have ceased to excite any lively interest. They have come to be taken as a matter of course.

The proposal to erect a central hospital on the Rungmahal Hill, evoked some discussion and one or two memorials to Government protesting against the municipality raising money on loan for the project.

In Tippera an increase in the amount of the chaukidari tax and the question of providing sufficient waterway in constructing the Assam-Bengal Railway, created some local dissatisfaction. The latter, on the Collector's report, I brought to the notice of Government with the result that the Consulting Engineer for State Railways for Assam declared that the waterway provided would be ample.

In Noakhali arm-to-arm vaccination and the realization of the vaccination fees—the latter especially—was opposed with some obstinacy by the orthodox Ferazis of the district. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner proposed to me to get the Government to make vaccination compulsory; but I declined, until it was shown that all other methods had been tried in vain.

The remarks in last year's report of my predecessor, Mr. Oldham, on the state of the relations of the people of this Division with the Agents of Government, may again be referred to. The Chittagong district exhibits the characteristics described most strongly, owing perhaps to some degree to the large number of small land-owners. Peasant proprietorship is to be found in the Chittagong district widespread.

The mass of the middle and lower classes of Noakhali are Ferazi Musalmans, and morally furnish a striking resemblance to the Pharisees of Judea in the first half of the first century.

In Brahmanbaria a Bengali newspaper called Usha was started during the year. It gives the local news and discusses social and religious matters. The Sansodhini in Chittagong appears by fits and starts, and carries no weight whatever in public estimation. Calcutta papers freely circulate in the Division. Those most in favour are the Bangabasi and the Sanjivani.

XXXV.—SUBORDINATE EXECUTIVE ESTABLISHMENT AND CHARACTER OF OFFICERS.

126. The information has been given in the prescribed statement.

XXXVI.—CONDUCT OF ZAMINDARS.

127. In Tippera some of the absentee zamindars gave trouble, and a special police force had to be quartered to keep the peace in certain localities on their estates. The Maharaja of Hill Tippera, the Dacca Nawabs, and the zamindar of Ganga Mandol, Maharaj Kumar Benoy Krishna Dev Bahadur, gave liberally to meet the distress caused by the floods of August last, and the acknowledgments of Government were notified in the official Gazette. Nawab Faizunnessa Sahoba of Tippera has maintained her reputation as a liberal and public-spirited lady. In Noakhali the great zamindars are absentees, and their relations with their tenants were not always satisfactory. About the local landholders the Collector writes: "As a class they are extremely uneducated and unenlightened. They do not display the least public spirit, and are perfectly indifferent to the well-being of the district."

XXXVII.—GENERAL REMARKS.

128. Damage to crops by flood and storms caused a fall from the usual standard of prosperity among the masses. Rice, instead of being available for export, had to be imported, a good deal coming from Burma. Prices of food-grains were high, and there was a fall in export of country produce from Chittagong.

Crime generally decreased excepting in Noakhali, where petty thefts increased considerably, owing to the scarcity prevailing. Progress was made but slowly in the construction of the Assam-Bengal Railway.

A redistribution of the police force was made to carry out the investigating centre system. The amended Village Chaukidari Act seems to promise good results. The Chaukidari Reward Fund was started in all the regulation districts. Honorary Magistrates did a large amount of work in court satisfactorily. The revenue was collected with fair punctuality, the losses of the raiyats considered. The sale law was enforced with moderation. The survey and settlement in Chittagong made good progress towards completion. The income tax receipts increased owing to the tax paid by employés of the Assam-Bengal Railway. The municipal elections took place quietly.

Having taken charge of the Division at the end of February, I have not been able to report from personal experience.

XXXVIII.—POLITICAL SECTION.

129. The political charge of the Commissioner of this Division comprised the South Lushai Hills, Chittagong Hill Tracts, and Hill Tippera.

I.—THE SOUTH LUSHAH HILLS.

A separate report on the administration of the South Lushai Hills has been submitted, and it will suffice to say here that peace prevailed throughout the district and the full amount of tribute due was collected without much difficulty and that expenditure was reduced considerably. To effect further economy a civil police force 86 strong for Demagri was started, and a contract was entered into for the transport of rations to Lungleh and beyond. The heavy rainfall of 1893 injured the Barkal tramway, and it was not put in proper order again till December, which delayed transport of rations at that point, and unusual and severe rain and storm in the first week in March seriously delayed the transport of rations from Demagri to Lungleh, and caused much loss to the contractor. During the year there was broached a proposal to transfer the South Lushai Hills to Assam, but this, for financial considerations, was put off till by the completion of the Assam-Bengal Railway through communication should be established between Assam and Chittagong, and this whole Division be annexed to the Chief Commissionership. Other notable occurrences of the year were the capture of the absconding recalcitrant Chief Longcheyva and the capture and deportation to the Chittagong Jail of the Lushai Chieftaines Ropui Lieni and of her son Lalhuama, thus eradicating two possible sources of disturbance in the future. A number of Lushais were allowed to visit Demagri, and some went as far as Rangamati to trade under passes granted by the Superintendent. Enquiry brought to light the fact that mismanagement has brought to an end the supply of caoutchouc from the Lushai Hills.

II.—THE CHITTAGONG HILL TRACTS.

130. In previous reports the peculiar character of the administration of this hilly tract, the nature and habits of the people, their institutions, and the resources of this portion of my charge, have been described. The present report records the progress that has been made in the development of the country and its people by the gradual extension of the operation of the rules of 1892.

Mr. C. S. Murray, C.I.E., was in charge from April to June and again from the 8th November to the close of the year, Mr. Cave-Browne, Assistant Superintendent of Police, acting for him in the interval in addition to his own duties as Assistant in charge of the Bohmong's Circle.

The former was on tour for 84 days, inspecting police-stations, schools, dispensaries, the Bohmong's circle office, holding conference with the local Chiefs, and explaining to them the new mauza system, and examining the progress of plough cultivation and the new jamabandis. Mr. Cave-Browne was out for 101 days visiting plough lots, making assessments and collections in the mauzas, holding sales of sun-grass, Gurjan kholas and fishery lots, and inspecting police stations in his jurisdiction.

131. The rainfall was very heavy both in the beginning and towards the close of the year, and its effect upon the crops was very injurious. The outturn of paddy, cotton, oilseeds, and sugarcane was consequently scanty; that of tea was very much the same as in 1892-93. Scarcity was felt as the year was closing in, and applications for relief were received from different quarters, which the local Chiefs were told to deal with. It was proposed to the men to go and work as coolies in the South Lushai Hills, but to this they would not consent, being naturally averse to leave their jooms and subject themselves to methodical labour. Considerable damage to crops was done in the Bohmong's circle by wild elephants.

Weather and crops.

132. Nomads as the hillmen are by nature, marriage, search for joom land, desire to join friends and relatives as well as to avoid debts and liabilities, are the principal causes of emigration.

There was much less emigration during the year to Arakan, Hill Tippera, and Chittagong than in 1892-93. There were also, as usual, inter-tribal movements. The grass farms or "sankholas" are said to have been injured by neglect on the part of the lessees by the year. I have directed their letting for terms of three years as an experiment to remedy this.

133. Notwithstanding short crops, the price of food-grains was comparatively lower, owing to increased import from Arakan. But the hill people, as their own crops had failed, had not the money to buy imported food, and therefore suffered to some extent. They rely on their rice crop for food, and on the sale of their cotton for the purchase of luxuries. There is no local skilled labour, and even hired cooly labour has as a rule to be imported.

134. The principal imports are piece-goods, rice and paddy, salt and dried-fish, and the exports are paddy, tobacco, and cotton.

Trade and commerce.

India-rubber and garjan oil have ceased to be articles of export. Owing to the exhaustion of the supply, the Lushais do not bring india-rubber to the Damagri bazar as before, and the extensive use of kerosine oil and the indiscriminate felling of garjan trees for timber have greatly reduced the production of garjan oil. It is noticeable that there was a larger importation of piece-goods than in 1892-93, which Mr. Murray ascribes partly to a growing taste for foreign manufactures and partly to the failure of the indigenous cotton from which the hill women weave the clothes worn by their families. For reasons stated above, the import of paddy and rice was almost double and the export much less than in 1892-93, and the export of tobacco, cotton, mustard, and til seeds fell considerably owing to the same cause.

135. Justice is administered to some extent by the Government officers, but for the most part according to the tribal custom by the three circle Chiefs.

Civil and criminal justice.

The civil suits were chiefly for damage done to "sankholas" by stray cattle, the recovery of loans and of joom rent. There was not much of crime among the hill people. There was not a single case beyond the powers of a Magistrate during the calendar year 1893.

136. As there is not much crime in these parts, the work of the police does not call for much notice. They failed to detect the perpetrators of the few burglaries which took place in the bazar. Mr. Oldham contemplated organising a body of village watchmen to be remunerated by a grant of service land. At present the arrangements for securing a knowledge of what goes on in the interior are defective, but it is probable that a chakran chaukidar would be entirely under the influence of his headman. Meantime criminal absconders can hide in comparative safety.

137. Under India Government order No. 413, dated 20th January 1894, received with Bengal Government No. 688For., dated 6th February 1894, the Superintendent of Kheddas has been requested to keep the Commissioner of Chittagong informed of the results of his operations in the Hills. Formerly this was not done. But as cultivation spreads and the country gets more settled, it is necessary that local officers should be more and more associated with these operations. The ravages by wild elephants to crops in the southern portion of the Bohmong's circle have been already mentioned above. The people there are unwilling to carry on plough cultivation unless they are better protected.

138. The year is reported to have been a healthy one. The returns of the Rangamati and Bandarban hospitals were comparatively favourable. As usual, there were malarial fever, sporadic cases of cholera, and a few cases of small-pox. Vaccination operations resulted in 16,962 cases, of which 9,849 were successful.

139. There were altogether 36 schools, including three girls' schools, and 611 pupils, against 43 schools and 721 pupils in 1892-93. The falling off is said to be due partly to the movements among the tribes and partly to want of sufficient grant-in-aids to primary schools. There was one school on the average for every 150 square miles, and one boy was taught to every 15 and one girl to every 139 of children of the school-going age. The total cost of primary education was Rs. 2,536, Rs. 2,388 of which was contributed by the Provincial revenues. In education the Chakmas take the lead; 240 of them are at school against 127 Tipperas, 115 Maghs, 16 Tonchongyas, 12 Mros, 3 Reangs, and 3 Kukis. The Rangamati High School achieved some success at the last Entrance examination. For the first time last year boys from that school were sent up. Four went up and two passed. One of them is the young Chakma Chief, Kumar Bhuban Mohan Ray. This must be considered an event not only in the history of the tribe, but of the Hill Tracts. The mode of his further education is under the consideration of Government. A Chakma girl also passed the lower primary scholarship examination from the Rangamati School. These are significant indications. There was some correspondence last year as to the language which should be taught in the primary schools. Because the population in the Hill Tracts is altogether a mixed one, though the general leaning is towards Bengali manners and customs, local opinion was for adopting the Bengali language.

140. The only estate of the minor under Government management was that of the Chakma Chief managed by Dowan Krishto Chandra. The Mong Chief, Neuprusain, having come of age, was formally installed as the Chief of his circle at a Darbar held at Rangamati in May 1893. To assist him in the management of his property, Babu Purno Chandra Das, the late Manager, was lent to him for a year. The management, as in previous year, was satisfactory.

141. The Chakma Chiefs are minors, and the Mong Chief has just begun to exercise his powers. Their managers worked satisfactorily.

The Bohmong caused dissatisfaction among his people by large calls on them for labour, money and produce, which he made by way of feudal service, or 'begar.' These demands were made most heavily from those who, while living in the area forming the khas mahal, escaped, while that system existed, their tribal contributions. As reported before, the remedy for the malcontents is to move off to another circle or to the South Lushai Hills.

142. Under the rules of July 1892, the fiscal divisions in the Hill Tracts are the three circles of the Bohmong, Chakma and the Mong Chiefs, the taluks in 33 blocks, and the mauzas which the Hill Tracts officers are forming with the headmen, service lands, and plough cultivation.

The number of mauzas has increased from 61 in 1892-93 to 113 in 1894. For most of these new mauzas headmen were appointed and service lands allotted them. It will be seen from the Statements A, B and C appended that exactly 50 acres of service lands could not be allotted in every case, possibly from a misunderstanding of the expression "best arable land" used in Rule XIII. It was explained to the Hill Tracts officers by my predecessor that much land now lying waste would, if brought under cultivation, be very good arable land, and might therefore be demarcated as service lands. It has been proposed also to allot pasture as service lands where arable land was not available.

The mauzas hitherto found are reported to vary in area from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 20 square miles, in compact blocks capable of being enclosed in a ring-fence.

The jamabandies were in most cases drawn up in the presence of Government officers.

Two taluk dewans were appointed in the Mong Chief's circle within the year, the Chief himself offering to be one of them. No other taluk dewans were appointed.

The land revenue of the Hill Tracts falls under the heads of plough cultivation, bazar rent, san and garjan khola rent, joom rent, and miscellaneous, viz., fisheries, &c. The increase of plough cultivation is shown by the fact that the acreage increased from 6,427 acres in 1892-93 to 7,672 in the year under report, and the revenue demand from Rs. 3,276 in 1891-92 to Rs. 8,251 in 1892-93 and Rs. 8,943 in 1893-94. The largest increase was in the Mong circle.

The majority of the plough holdings were examined, and jamabandies were revised in several cases, surplus land being charged; and an attempt was made in every case to get the acquiescence of the parties affected.

Receipts from bazar rents are insignificant.

The sankhola demand fell in the Chakma and Bohmong's circles; partly for want of proper weeding, some of them became less productive, and partly because in 1892-93 the prices were forced up by extravagant bidding. The joom rent paid by the Chiefs is to some extent stationary. It is in contemplation, however, to raise the Chakma Chief's revenue.

The collection of the revenue is made partly by headmen and chiefs, and partly by Government officers. It was collected fully and punctually. There was a balance of Rs. 505, under head Land Revenue Rs. 203, miscellaneous Rs. 436. The former has since been realised.

The Assistant Commissioner reports that the jooming area in most places has been so exhausted that the hill people have shown a perceptible tendency to settle down to plough cultivation. A decrease in the Chief's income and the increase of assessment work may therefore be anticipated.

143. The Deputy Commissioner's office at Rangamati, to which the

the early morning of the 5th May last. Mr. Oldham says: "No clue to the cause of the fire has been obtained, though Rs. 500 reward was offered. I am still disposed to regard it as a blow aimed at the new settlement by some or one of those Chakma Dewans, whose unlawful human taluks (of capitation tax) the settlement is discovering and destroying.

"On the whole I regard this fire as a benefit. The loss caused by it was estimated at Rs. 17,000. All the accommodation, furniture, and books required were replaced at a cost of less than Rs. 1,000, while the Rs. 500 or so a year which the maintenance of the old building cost is saved. The fire destroyed an unarranged mass of the most useless and profitless records and discussions and tabulations and statistics which I have ever seen, and so far from impeding the new settlements, has cleared the ground for the operations. The Police Office, in which the real history of the Hill Tracts is preserved, was not injured, nor was the treasury.

"I took advantage of this occurrence to entirely recast the registers and forms in use in the Hill Tracts. This turned out to be a much heavier task than I expected, as I had to do it absolutely single-handed, and it is not yet finished, though very nearly so. The object was to make the forms more effective, to simplify them and diminish their number (for which there was much room), and to adopt the Bengal printed forms, whether Government, Board of Revenue, or High Court's, when applicable, and for this, too, there was a good deal of room. The registers of all kinds have been cut down from over 100 to 36 in number. In my last report I was mistaken in saying that the word sarbarakar had not been used for 20 years as the proper official title of the Chiefs in their fiscal positions. It was used by the Bengal Government in 1884 in a printed letter received by Mr. Cotton when Commissioner. The letter was to lay down the position of the Chakma Chief (who had been giving much trouble) as regards the supply of labour. It was again used by Mr. Lyall in February 1886, when he declared in Darbar the present minor Bhupon Mohan to have succeeded to the sarbarakarship, and he describes his having done so in his report for that year. It was of course the term used by me when I installed the Mong Chief Neuprasain last May. It is of the greatest importance to adhere to the use of this term, and to reaffirm periodically the exact fiscal position of the Chiefs, and that their only right in lands is as tenants under Government, who have been let into lands for plough cultivation, and that they can never occupy the position in the Hill Tracts of talukdars, still less of zamindars. It is to be remembered that their claims to such a position are actively fostered by their superior clansmen like the Chakma Dewans, who, if their Chiefs were acknowledged to be zamindars, would themselves easily become talukdars."

The development of plough cultivation seems to portend the cessation of jhooming in the near future. The new rules and system of land revenue worked satisfactorily. Local opposition seems to have died out. The only dissatisfaction apparent was on the part of lessees of land to whom the anti-subletting clause of the rules of 1892 was applied with retrospective effect, with the result that their leases were cancelled, their improvements confiscated, and their lands let on enhanced rents to actual cultivators. Some of these grants had been made to influential hillmen or Bengalis of the plains, and the application to such leases with retrospective effect of the anti-subletting clause of the rules of 1892 seemed to me inequitable. The previous rules forbade transfers except of the entire grant and with registration in the Deputy Commissioner's office. Transfer, however, I take it, cannot be held to include subletting.

III.—HILL TIPPERA.

144. I have not got much information to give about Hill Tippera. Personally I do not know much as yet about the country, and I am waiting for the report of the Political Agent. He has given me a very brief note, saying that the administration of the State during the year was uneventful. The existing arrangement under which the business of the State is carried on by the Jubraj and the Bara Thakur under the supervision of the Maharaja, appears to have worked smoothly and satisfactorily on the whole. More use is now made of the native element in administering the country, though very little change has been made in the general lines on which the administration is carried on. The Jubraj and the Bara Thakur met the Commissioner of the Division at Comilla in July 1893, the Maharaja being, it is said, unable to come personally owing to a death in his family and to bad health.

AMENDMENT OF THE BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT III OF 1884.

Cir. No. 34M., dated Calcutta the 27th August 1894.

From—C. W. BOLTON, Esq., Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—All Commissioners of Divisions.

AT page 15 of Part III of the Calcutta Gazette of the 15th August 1894, it is announced that His Excellency the Governor-General in Council has signified his assent to the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to municipalities in Bengal, which was passed by the Bengal Legislative Council on the 28th April 1894. The Bill is printed in full in the Gazette of the same date; but, in order to draw attention to the alterations and additions which have been effected, a special set of copies has been printed, which I am now directed to forward to you for information and for communication to the officers subordinate to you, showing in italics the new matter added by Act IV of 1894 and indicating by the method of black underlines the passages in the old Act which have been omitted or altered. I am also to invite your attention to the following observations on the chief points in the new Act.

2. The sections of the Bill naturally divide themselves into two groups, viz. (a) those which make administrative changes of a more or less important character; and (b) those which are merely corrective, which repair omissions, give effect to the decisions of the Law Courts, recast the wording of old sections, and repeal those which are no longer necessary. The latter form, of course, far the larger group, but they need little notice, as for the most part they explain themselves.

3. The matters on which Government, on behalf of the rate-payers or for the better administration of the country, has felt itself obliged to assume larger powers than it possessed before are few in number, and in each case careful safeguards are provided. First comes the power taken in sections 9 and 9A to disestablish a municipality, or to alter its boundaries when it no longer fulfils the conditions which originally justified its creation; then follow the power to appoint Commissioners ex-officio (section 14), the power given to Commissioners of Divisions to remove Commissioners (section 20), the delegation to Commissioners of Divisions of certain of the smaller powers of Government (section 29A); the appointment of a special Auditor when the accounts are in confusion (section 82); and, lastly, the power to appoint an assessor when it has been proved that the affairs of the municipality require it, and when the Commissioners will not move of themselves (section 111A).

4. On the other hand, the powers and responsibilities of the Commissioners have been advanced in many ways. They will now be able to order a survey (section 223A), and to organise a fire-brigade (sections 349A and B). Their financial powers are increased by the provision that the Commissioner of the Division shall not finally pass orders on their Budgets till they have had an opportunity of replying to his criticisms (section 76), and their income may be considerably developed in several ways; the maximum of the water-rate is increased to $7\frac{1}{2}$ instead of 6 per cent. (sections 86 and 279); they may levy in the same municipality both the tax on persons and the rate on holdings (section 84); arable lands are no longer exempt from assessment where the personal tax is in force (section 87); property in their temporary possession may be turned to pecuniary advantage (section 200); licenses may be issued at burning-ghats and burial grounds (section 260A), and the latrine rate may be levied from vacant holdings (section 322). Not less important than their increased financial powers are the larger powers of administrative control now confided to Municipal Commissioners. They may control the water-supply where its purity is suspected, even when private rights are affected (sections 199-199A); they will exercise larger powers over ruined and dangerous houses, walls and trees (sections 208, 210, 210A); their powers in regard to building regulations may be greatly increased at their option (sections 237 to 242), and they have been enabled to frame wider bye-laws and to enact rules of business for their own guidance (sections 350, 350A and 351A).

5. Turning next to the most important sections of the Bill in detail, I am to direct your attention in the first place to sections 9, 9A and 9B of the Act. Under the old law a place which had once been made a municipality, however little it might be entitled to claim municipal government, could be removed from that category, or could have its limits varied, only upon the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting, a course which for obvious reasons was very seldom adopted: the new law does not take from the Commissioners this power of recommendation, but provides that, where the conditions laid down in section 10 as to amount or density or character of population no longer exist, the Lieutenant-Governor, after affording full opportunity for objections to be made, may exercise in this respect, without recommendation from the Municipal Commissioners, the powers which ordinarily he would only use upon the recommendations of that body.

6. Section 14 of the Act as amended provides that the appointed Commissioners may be appointed either by name or by official designation. The object of this provision is to avoid the inconvenience which sometimes occurs when an official is transferred who has been appointed by name only. As vacancies take place among the appointed Commissioners of municipalities in your division, it is for you to consider in each case whether the new nominee should be appointed by name or by his official designation. This change of principle involves petty changes in sections 17 and 23 of the Act.

7. By the amendment of section 15 of the Act, an important provision is added which enables Government to lay down by rule the authority who shall decide all election disputes under the Act. The question of amending the election rules is still under discussion, and orders on this point will issue hereafter. A proviso at the end of the section safeguards such jurisdiction as the Civil Courts may now be deemed to have in respect of these disputes. The franchise is extended by the same section to a class of persons whose exclusion hitherto has been felt to be anomalous, viz., those who, being in receipt of a monthly salary of Rs. 50 or more, which implies intelligence and education, have yet had no vote because they were not independent rate-payers. The number of voters added to the list by this section will not be large, but they should all be citizens of weight and importance. A new clause added to this section also declares what shall be included in the term rates—a point which has not hitherto been decided.

8. Section 20 of the Act has been recast so as to enact clearly on what grounds a Municipal Commissioner may be removed, and who shall pass the order for his removal.

9. Section 23 of the amended Act gives to the Local-Government power to appoint the Chairman of a municipality entered in Schedule II by name or by official designation. In clause 2 of this section it is made quite clear that when the Commissioners of a municipality in Schedule I have once asked Government to appoint a Chairman, they do not thereby permanently surrender their right of election, but are entitled to exercise it on the occurrence of any future vacancy in the post of Chairman.

10. The alterations in section 26 of the Act enable a Chairman whose term of office under the Act would ordinarily have expired to carry on his duties till a proper and effective meeting is convened to elect his successor or ask Government to appoint him. By the same section the old body of the Commissioners will continue in office until the first meeting of their successors. Section 26A provides for certain subsidiary but necessary formalities in the same connection. By section 26B leave may be given to a Chairman or Vice-Chairman, and an omission in the present Act, which has not infrequently caused inconvenience, is thus repaired. As a corollary, section 28 authorises the grant of leave allowances to these officers when they are in the receipt of salary. Section 27A defines clearly the procedure to be followed when a Chairman, Vice-Chairman or Commissioner desires to resign.

11. By section 29A certain minor powers, which have hitherto been exercised by Government, may now be delegated to the Commissioner of the Division.

12. Two important alterations have been made in section 30. One has reference to the ruling of the Calcutta High Court in the Chairman of the Nishaty

Municipality vs. Kishori Lal Gossami, I. L. R., 13 Calc, 38, and Modhu Sudan Kundu vs. Promoda Nath Roy, I. L. R., 20 Calc., 732, where it was pointed out that the absolute property in the soil of a road was not vested in the Commissioners. This will no longer be the case. The object of the other alteration is to provide that a road, bridge, or drain need not be entirely excluded from the provisions of this Act, but only from the operation of certain specified sections.

13. The important provisions of the new sections 37A to 37M were very carefully framed by the Select Committee before they were accepted by Council, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that they will receive at the hands of local authorities the same careful consideration. It is hoped that recourse will be fully and frequently had to these sections in the larger municipalities which have not yet been provided with a wholesome water-supply, and that they will facilitate the execution of a much-needed reform with the least possible risk of discord or extravagance. It will be noticed first that compulsion will not be employed by Government, except in the last resort (section 37K), and not until the local authorities have had ample opportunity afforded them of taking action spontaneously, and, secondly, that even then the representations of a substantial and undisputed majority will suffice to procure the abandonment of the scheme.

14. Section 59 requires the consent of Government to the ad interim election of a Chairman, and section 66A provides for the settlement of disputes between a municipality and its external neighbours, such as another municipality or the District Board.

15. Some additions have been made to sections 68 and 69 of the Act, which allow the municipal fund to be expended on the maintenance of Municipal Benches and on the payment of an officer who may be specially deputed to revise their accounts.

16. Section 76 of the Act is more remarkable for what it omits than for what it enacts. An effort was made when the Bill was passing through Council to confine the supervision of the Commissioner of the Division to the major heads only of the annual budget estimate, and the refusal of the Council to accept this proposal has been commented upon with some acerbity. It has been alleged that Government insisted on a retrograde step which deprived Municipal Commissioners of a privilege they already possessed. The exact contrary is the case: the Commissioner of the Division has been invested with no new powers, but on the contrary an important, though reasonable, concession has been made in the provision that the Commissioner can no longer alter a municipal budget without affording the Commissioners an opportunity of considering and replying to any modifications which he may think desirable in their estimates.

17. Section 82 of the Act has been recast so as to provide for the appointment of a special officer to examine and report upon the accounts of a municipality whenever the yearly audit has shown that the accounts are in great confusion and the Municipal Commissioners, after due notice, have failed to set them straight.

18. Two important changes in the law on municipal taxation have been introduced in sections 85 and 86 of the Act. Both the tax on holdings and the personal tax may now be levied in the same municipality, provided that both are not levied in the same ward. But where a municipality is not divided into wards, it must be considered as consisting of one ward only, and both these taxes cannot, therefore, be in force there at the same time. By the second section quoted the maximum percentage for water-rate has been raised from $6\frac{1}{2}$ and 5 to $7\frac{1}{2}$ and 6 respectively. In section 87 of the Act it is now provided that in assessing the personal tax arable lands held by the assessee may be taken into account, but not any public burial ground or burning ghat. It was understood by the Council that, as a matter of fact, Municipal Commissioners when assessing a man's means and income are unable to leave out of consideration the income he derives from arable land, and it was deemed advisable to sanction this practice by legal enactment. Moreover, it was pointed out that, in the absence of such a provision, arable land within the boundaries of a municipality escaped taxation altogether.

19. As regards the rate on the value of holdings, some changes have been made in sections 97, 98 and 99 of the Act which explain themselves.

20. A new section, 111A, deals with the appointment of an assessor of municipal taxes—a question which has probably given rise to more discussion than any other embodied in the Bill. The provisions of the section as they now stands have been very carefully considered, and a power, the want of which has sometimes been very acutely felt, has been placed in the hands of Government with the minimum of inconvenience and the greatest possible regard to the dignity of Municipal Commissioners. The authority now conferred will, in fact, be exercised only when the necessity for action admits of no question, and it may be hoped that the very existence of this power in the statute book will make its exercise unnecessary.

21. The importance of the alteration in section 116 should not be overlooked. In accordance with the spirit of the decision of the High Court in the case specified in the margin, section 116 now provides that the decision of the Commissioners or of a Committee appointed by them under section 114 shall be final only as regards the amount of assessment or rating: the larger question of liability to be assessed or rated will now be left to the decision of the Civil Courts.

Appeal under section 13 of the Letters Patent No. 23 of 1893.
 Chairman, Barisal Municipality ... Defendant-Appellant versus Srimutty Addya Soondury Mittra and others Plaintiffs-Respondents.

22. In section 121 an important proviso has been added on the subject of distrained property, and the addition to section 125 provides a punishment for the breach of the orders in the earlier part of the section. Similarly, the addition of sections 141A and 147A is intended to correct what is an omission in the old law, and the same may be said of the addition of the word "sewage" in section 187 of the Act.

23. Important additions have been made to the sections which deal with the control of bathing and washing places, wells and tanks. In the first place, in section 199 wells have been brought under the control of Commissioners to the same extent as other sources for the supply of water for drinking and culinary purposes, and secondly, the last clause of that section has been rewritten so as to define with greater precision the powers of Municipal Commissioners in respect of the private portion of any water-course which forms part of the public water supply. Section 199A gives to the Commissioners the power of prohibiting the use of unwholesome water, the absence of which power has often been extremely inconvenient, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that it will be freely exercised. It will now be possible for municipalities to close a source of water-supply which may be suspected, and to maintain this prohibition until the purity and wholesomeness of the water is established by chemical analysis in accordance with the rules laid down in the Sanitary Commissioner's circular No. 342 of the 25th June 1894. The reference may be made by the Commissioners, but would ordinarily be made by the person aggrieved by the closing of the well or tank.

24. By section 200 as now enacted, when an unwholesome tank or other source of water-supply has to be put in order, the Commissioners may call upon the owner or occupier to do one of three things, i.e., either to re-excavate, fill up, or cleanse the place to their satisfaction. If the owner or occupier does none of these things, the Commissioners may do any one of them for him, and by the clause now added, if they re-excavate or fill up, they may retain possession of the property and turn it to profitable account until the expenses thereby incurred have been realised. The Commissioners are not entitled by the law to dictate to the owner which of the three courses open to him he is to pursue.

25. Section 208 has been rewritten so as to give the Commissioners power in respect of trees, hedges, &c., which are likely to cause damage or obstruction, or to foul the water of any well or tank.

26. The powers of the Commissioners in regard to buildings in a dangerous state have been a good deal extended in sections 210 and 210A, and these sections should be carefully noted. The Commissioners can now interfere to protect the inmates of a building against the consequences of their own apathy or neglect. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that the good sense of the local authorities throughout the province will prevent the powers now given from being misused to the annoyance of individuals.

27. The penal provisions of section 217 have been extended to section 199A; those of section 218 to sections 206 and 207; and those of section 219 to section 210A; and persons infringing the provisions of those sections can now be punished for so doing.

28. The addition to section 220 should be noted. It is now formally declared by law that wherever the whole of the provisions of any one of the Parts VII, VIII or IX of the Act of 1876 were in force when Act III of 1884 became law, the whole of each of the corresponding Parts VI, XI or X of this Act shall be considered to have been in force. This provision was necessary in order to remove doubt as to the continued application of these Parts. Where only a portion of the provisions of any one of Parts VII, VIII and IX of the Act of 1876 was in force when Act III (B.C.) of 1884 became law, its continuance was secured by the provision of section 1 of Act III of 1884, as further explained by the additions made to section 2 by the present amending Act IV of 1894. The result is that all notifications or orders passed, and all rules made under Act V of 1876, are still in force, unless expressly rescinded, even although the number of the Parts or sections quoted in them may have been altered.

29. By section 223A of the Act power has been given to make a survey, the cost of which is chargeable to the municipal fund under section 69 (9).

30. The sections which refer to building regulations (sections 236-244 of the Act) have been considerably expanded and should be carefully perused. The provisions of section 241 are suitable only to large municipalities, which include many masonry buildings; and while all the remaining sections of this group came into force on the passing of this Act in every municipality in which the corresponding sections of Act III of 1884 were in force at the time, it will be observed that the provisions of section 241 are expressly exempted from the operation of this general rule, and that this section will not take effect in a municipality until it has been specially extended thereto at the request of the Commissioners at a meeting.

31. Some small alterations have been made in the sections relating to burial and burning grounds, and it is believed that some income might be derived from the licenses which may now be granted under section 260A. These receipts might well be devoted to the improvement of these places which are often allowed to remain in very bad order.

32. Three important additions have been made to the provisions of sections 261 and 262, which deal with certain offensive or dangerous trades or occupations. Places for the storage of rags or bones or both have been added to the list of those for the use of which a license is necessary, and the last clause of the section has been so rewritten as to safeguard, as far as possible, persons following any one of the specified trades or occupations from having to pay unreasonable and unsuitable fees for the privilege. It is important to note that in future no fees can be levied under this section until the scale has been approved by the Commissioner of the Division. No time should, therefore, be lost in submitting the scale for sanction. Lastly, section 262A, empowers the Commissioners to prohibit the burning of bricks, etc., for private purposes within defined limits. Under section 263, as now amended, any person who keeps even one horse or pony or one head of cattle for the purpose of trade or business may be required to take out a license. The object of this change is not to raise an income from the poor, but to bring under control all the places where such animals are kept.

33. The additions in the penal sections—270, 271, and 273—merely give effect to provisions in other parts of the Act.

34. The alterations in Part VII of the Act, which deals with water-supply, are the outcome of prolonged and elaborate discussion. The maximum amount of the water-rate has been raised from 5 and $6\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. to 6 and $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. respectively. The principle on which it is to be calculated is carefully defined; and a fair share of the cost of collection and of general supervision has been made a legitimate charge against the fund: lands used exclusively for agricultural purposes are exempted from assessment, and power is left to the Commissioners to make special arrangements for the supply of water to persons beyond the limit up to which a water-rate can be levied.

35. A new section has been added (section 318A) making the lighting rates into a separate fund and defining how they may be expended.

36. Important changes have also been made in Part IX which deals with cleansing of private privies and cess-pools. It is now clearly laid down that this Part does not deal with public latrines, which should be provided under section 186 as part of the general scheme of conservancy in the town, but with the cleansing of private privies and cess-pools only. It was at one time proposed to substitute for the existing rate a scale of fees for service rendered, but after the fullest consideration the proposal was abandoned and the existing arrangements maintained. Cess-pools have been brought within the scope of this Part, as it appears that in some cases it was difficult to distinguish between a cess-pool and a privy. No privy rate will be assessed on a holding which does not contain a dwelling-house (section 321), nor on certain public buildings (section 334A), nor will it be levied from a shop-keeper twice over (section 322). Lastly, remissions or refunds will be allowed for vacant holdings. The effect of these changes ought to be to lighten the fees charged under this Part to the poorer residents of the municipality.

37. The effect of the additions made to section 339 in Part X (regulation of markets) is to protect the proprietors of old markets from arbitrary treatment. The section compels Commissioners to renew year by year licenses for markets lawfully established at the time of the extension of this Part to the municipality, so long as the Chairman continues to give year by year the certificate required by section 340 that the land is fit for use as a market for the sale of provisions. * When a market is established after the extension of this Part to the municipality, no such compulsion exists, and the Commissioners may give or withhold the license as they please.

38. Part XI-A is entirely new and empowers Municipal Commissioners to make arrangements for the extinction and prevention of fire. The cost of these arrangements is declared to be a legitimate charge upon the municipal fund by section 69(8).

39. It has been found that the wording of section 350 of Act III of 1884 was not sufficiently specific, and that, as a matter of fact, many bye-laws have been made from time to time, and have been accepted by Government which do not, strictly speaking, fall within the scope of the section as it formerly stood: The wording has, therefore, been recast, and the matters in regard to which bye-laws may properly be made have been more clearly defined. At the same time an opportunity has been taken in section 350A to give to hill municipalities more stringent powers over private owners of land as regards cutting down timber and excavation of building sites. A new section (351A) has been added, empowering the Commissioners of all municipalities to make rules for the conduct of business in the same way as District and Local Boards have been empowered under Act III (B. C.) of 1885. The Lieutenant-Governor proposes to circulate for adoption by Municipal Commissioners a set of model bye-laws and one of model rules of business. Meanwhile the bye-laws which have already been passed by each municipality and confirmed by Government will continue in force until repealed or altered in the proper manner. Power has been taken by the Lieutenant-Governor to cancel any bye-law which he has sanctioned: an omission in the former law, which can only have been due to oversight.

40. The last section to which it is necessary to refer is 365, which now extends to offences against bye-laws as well as those against the Act itself, and allows certain selected servants of a municipality to exercise the powers of a police officer under the section.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INCOME-TAX IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1893-94.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—SEPARATE REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 28th August 1894.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the financial results of the Administration of the Income-tax for the year 1893-94.

The principal administrative change in the working of the Income-tax Act during the year was the appointment of a whole-time officer as Collector of the tax for Calcutta, in the place of an officer who also discharged the duties of another office. The system under which the pay of assessors is personal, not local, so that they can be promoted without transfer, is reported to have worked well, but occasional transfers are advantageous, and can be made under the rules. The amalgamation under a single assessor of the district of Hooghly with Howrah, of Bankura with Birbhum, and of Manbhum with Singhbhum, is reported not to have been successful. If this result is confirmed by further experience, the Government will be prepared to reconsider the arrangement, on the receipt of a special report from the Board. The scale of the clerical and assessing establishments was revised, in accordance with a suggestion of the Government, and made more elastic and commensurate with the work done, the scheme resulting in an immediate saving of Rs. 2,004 per annum, and a further gradual saving of Rs. 2,640 per annum.

2. The following statement compares the financial results of the income-tax during the last two years:—

	1892-93.	1893-94.
	Persons.	Persons.
Number of persons originally assessed, excluding Government servants ...	106,142	107,741
Number of persons finally assessed, excluding Government servants ...	103,894	105,476
Number of persons finally assessed, including Government servants ...	111,858	113,770
Number of assesseees, including Government servants, who paid the tax within the year	108,818	110,483
	Rs.	Rs.
Final demand of income-tax for the current year ...	41,73,554	43,51,144
Final demand, including penalties, fines, and arrears of previous years ...	44,50,299	46,06,032
Collections of income-tax within the year ...	40,60,705	41,97,022
Total actual receipts, including advance and excess payments and after-adjustments ...	42,25,366	43,48,453
Charges ...	1,80,171	1,76,272
Percentage of charges on total actual receipts	4·3	4·1
Net revenue ...	40,45,195	41,72,181

The net revenue shows an increase of Rs. 1,26,986, or 3 per cent., against a decrease of 1·8 per cent. in the preceding year. Including advance payments and excess collections, and making allowance for various adjustments, the actual receipts at the close of the year amounted to Rs. 43,48,453, against Rs. 42,25,366 in the previous year. The receipts on account of the current demand for 1893-94 amounted to Rs. 42,27,219, which is Rs. 1,40,792 in excess of similar receipts in the previous year.

The increase in the final demand occurred in every district, except Howrah, the 24-Parganas, Khulna, Darjeeling, Mymensingh, Cuttack, and Singhbhum, and is attributed to fresh and enhanced assessments resulting from more careful and systematic enquiries on the part of the assessing officers. In Howrah the decrease was insignificant, and in Mymensingh it amounted to only one per cent. of the former demand. In the 24-Parganas, however, the percentage was 9·6, in Cuttack 6·8, in Singhbhum 6·2, in Darjeeling 4·6, and in Khulna 3·7. Various causes are alleged for the large decline in the 24-Parganas, but the Lieutenant-Governor is not disposed to accept the explanation without reserve. Failure of crops in Khulna, decline of trade in Cuttack, and an outbreak of rinderpest affecting the incomes of cart-owners and dairy farmers, and the removal of a number of contractors on the completion of certain large works, in Darjeeling, are assigned as the causes of the decrease in those districts. In Singhbhum it is probable, as the Board think, that the reduction is due mainly to the negligence of the assessors. The Board mention that Mr. Lyall, while inspecting the Puri Income-tax Office, found that the ground-rents liable to taxation had not been taxed, and that, as the result of this discovery, ground-rents in municipal areas have since been brought under assessment in all the districts in Orissa.

3. Demand, collections and balances.—The following statement shows the original demand, the revised demand, and the percentage of collections from assesseees exclusive of Government servants:—

Year.	Original number of assesseees.	Revised number of assesseees.	Original demand.	Final demand after revision.	Amount of final demand collected.	Percentage of final demand collected.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
1892-93 	106,142	103,894	Rs. 38,17,869	Rs. 36,97,623	Rs. 35,84,774	96·9
1893-94 	107,741	105,476	39,00,291	38,58,026	37,03,001	96·

The outstanding balance at the close of the year, including penalties, &c., aggregated Rs. 2,66,987, against Rs. 2,48,747 in 1892-93. Of this balance, Rs. 60,742 are reported to be good and under realization, Rs. 1,19,464 doubtful, and Rs. 86,781 bad and irrecoverable.

4. The only districts which succeeded in collecting the entire demand within the year were Balasore and Puri. In the following districts the collections on account of the current and arrear demand, including penalties, &c., were below 95 per cent.:—

Manbhum 94·4	Darbhanga 86·3
Muzaffarpur 93·9	Gaya 84·7
Purnea 93·3	Khulna 83·4
Hooghly 93	24-Parganas 78
Birbhum 89·6	Singhbhum 69·4
Calcutta 87·2

With the exception of Manbhum, Hooghly, and Birbhum, the same districts failed to attain the prescribed standard in 1892. In Gaya, Hooghly, Calcutta, the 24-Parganas, Singhbhum, and Birbhum, the collections of the current demand of the tax also fell short of the standard in the past year, and the explanations furnished are generally unsatisfactory. The Lieutenant-Governor must again impress on the officers concerned the importance of energy and promptitude in both the assessment and the collection of the tax, and he will look for evidence of marked improvement in the next report. The large outstanding balances are attributed in Birbhum and Calcutta to the completion of the assessments towards the end of the year, but it is not explained why such delay occurred. It is obviously essential to success in collecting th largest possible percentage of the tax within the year that the assessments should be concluded two or three months before the close of the year, and every effort should be made to achieve this result.

5. Assessments.—The number of assessors employed during the year was reduced from 52 to 49 in consequence of the amalgamation of certain districts already referred to. The assessors visited 70,992 villages and 542 streets in Calcutta, against 78,447 and 512 streets in Calcutta in the previous year. The decrease in the number of villages appears to be mainly due to the fact that previously in some districts villages which were not actually visited, but regarding which enquiries were made in their neighbourhood, were returned as visited, and villages visited by both the Deputy Collector and the Assessor were shown twice. The Board have rightly issued orders stopping this practice. The general explanation of the local officers in regard to the cases where the visits to villages were really fewer than in the previous year is that more attention was given to towns and villages which were known or believed to contain persons liable to taxation. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees that this is the sound principle, and that time should not be spent in visiting small and purely agricultural villages which can be better employed in making more careful assessment elsewhere. Enquiries must, however, be extended to all villages in which any likelihood exists of the discovery of new assesses.

6. The number of persons finally assessed was 105,476, against 103,894 in 1892-93, the percentage of exemption (2·1) being the same as in the previous years. Calcutta also partly recovered its position with an increase of 248, against a decrease of 516 in the preceding year. A few districts show a reduction, but nowhere exceeding 90, save in the 24-Parganas, where the number was 487. This large decrease is attributed to depression in some trades and closure of business, but it appears partly due to want of energy on the part of the establishment.

7. Objections.—The statistics of objections to assessment are shown in the following table:—

YEAR.	Number • originally assessed.	Number of objections.	Percentage of objections.	Number of successful objections.	Percentage of suc- cessful to total number of objec- tions, column 4 to column 3.
1	2	3	4	5	6
1892-93 ...	106,142	11,640	11·	4,205	36·1
1893-94 ..	107,741	12,269	11·4	4,593	37·4

The percentage of objections to assessment was again highest in Gaya (31·6) and Puri (23). The percentage of successful objections exceeded 50 in the 24-Parganas (64·8), Darjeeling (62), Purnea (61·9), Khulna (53·8), and Calcutta (52·6). These percentages are not creditable to the officers against whose assessments the objections were preferred. After full allowance for the difficulty of estimating profits in the absence of accounts, it is clear that the assessments were hasty and injudicious in many cases. Closer and more constant supervision should be exercised over the work of the assessors while the assessments are being revised.

8. Incidence of the tax.—Excluding the tax on interest of Government securities and the salaries of officials, the average incidence of the tax on the whole population of the province was Re. 1 to every 18·4 persons, against 19·2 in the previous year. Without Calcutta, the average was Re. 1 to every 35·7 inhabitants, against Re. 1 to every 36·9 inhabitants in 1892-93. Darjeeling again shows the highest mufassal average (Re. 1 to every five persons) and Cuttack the lowest (Re. 1 to every 82 persons). In Calcutta the average incidence was Re. 1 to every 4 persons, and one person in every 39 persons was assessed to the tax, the proportion for the whole of Bengal being 1 in 674, against 1 in 684 in the previous year.

9. The following statement illustrates the distribution of the tax between Calcutta and the rest of the province under the present Act and under former Income-tax and License Acts :—

* Figures not available.

† Exclusive of the tax on salaries, &c., recovered by the Accountant-General and the tax on the interest of Government securities.

The figures show a gradual increase in collections in both Calcutta and the districts since 1887-88, Calcutta contributing in the past year 47.8 per cent. of the whole. The percentage of the final on the original demand and of objections on the total number of persons assessed has also steadily improved, with a slight falling off in the year under review, indicating gradual improvement in the working of the law.

10. Coercive measures.—The coercive measures which had to be taken for the realization of the tax are shown in the following statement :—

YEAR.	Number of persons finally assessed.	DISTRESS WARRANTS.		CASES OF DISTRAINT.		CASES OF SALE.
		Number	Percentage to column 2.	Number.	Percentage to column 2.	Number.	Percentage to column 2.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1891-92	103,176	6,451	6.2	2,320	2.2	333	.3
1892-93	103,811	5,559	5.4	2,460	2.4	502	.5
1893-94	105,476	5,929	5.6	2,290	2.2	288	.3

In the majority of cases payment is made on the issue of the warrants, while in the remainder distraint suffices and sales are rare. Wilful recusancy doubtless accounts for a large proportion of the warrants, but the number in some districts is excessive. The Collectors should give attention to the matter. Earlier completion of the assessments would obviate the issue of coercive process, which is often found necessary towards the close of the year.

The proportion of warrants issued on the number of persons assessed was above 10 per cent. in the districts of Singhbhum, Jessore, Khulna, Muzaffarpur, Noakhali, Gaya, and Jalpaiguri. The first four districts showed a high percentage in 1892-93 also. In eight districts no sales took place, while they were most numerous in Jessore, Rangpur, and Khulna. In Calcutta distress warrants were issued in 1,499 cases, but in one case only was sale found necessary.

11. The amount of tax collected under section 9 (2) of the Income-tax Act, which permits private employers to undertake the collection of the tax from their employes on receipt of a commission from the Government, was Rs. 2,66,584, against Rs. 2,47,918 in the previous year. The number of companies, &c., who undertook to collect the tax again fell from 324 to 307. The Board are inclined to recommend an increase of the commission allowed, in order to offer greater inducement to companies and other employers to enter into agreements with the Government. The present rate of commission does not appear to the Lieutenant-Governor inadequate for the small trouble imposed, but he will be prepared to consider any proposals, which the Board may desire to submit. This special provision of the law cannot be expected to work with advantage where the number of employes liable to taxation is very small. With a large number of such employes the commission offered is remunerative to the employer, and also repays the Government by the amount of relief given to the collecting establishment.

12. Expenditure.—The expenditure incurred in the working of the tax fell from Rs. 1,80,171 in 1892-93 to Rs. 1,76,272. In view of the increased collections and the appointment of a whole-time officer as Collector of Calcutta, the decrease is very satisfactory.

13. The system of payment by money-order continues to gain in popularity. Only one case of embezzlement of a very trifling character was discovered during the year. The Board devote a paragraph (52) to evasions of the stamp law detected by income-tax assessors. The information is useful to the Stamp Department, and should be regularly furnished to that Department for the annual report. Its inclusion in the present report may be dispensed with in future.

14. The names of the Deputy Collectors specially reported by the Board as having done good service will be communicated to the Appointment Department. The remarks regarding the unsatisfactory work of some officers will not, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts, be ineffectual. The principle of keeping a Deputy Collector in exclusive charge of Excise and Income-tax has been definitely laid down for all districts except the few in the third class, in which the work is not sufficient for a whole-time officer. In those cases the Collector should not place the Deputy Collector in charge of duties which entirely preclude travelling for excise and income-tax purposes.

15. Popular feeling in regard to the tax remains the same. It is greatly disliked, and efforts to evade it by a variety of devices are still common among certain classes of assesses.

16. The thanks of Government are due to the Board for their supervision of the collection of the tax during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. BOLTON,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 85, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; <, lightning.

TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVA-
DAY, THE 25TH OF AUGUST 1894.

DURING the previous week a barometric depression had passed through Bengal, moving in a west-north-westerly direction, but without intensifying in any way. It had then advanced to near Nowgong, and on the last day of the week it was rapidly filling up, so that on the 19th or the first day of the present week it had practically ceased to exist. In the rear of the feeble depression, however, a steady and fairly strong monsoon current was blowing, and hence at the close of the past week the monsoon conditions were fairly strongly developed over Bengal. On the 19th or the first day of the present week pressure was rising slowly, but it was still comparatively low in West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, where there was a tendency for a feeble low pressure area to be produced. Ordinary monsoon winds however, continued to flow in over the province, and rainfall was fairly general except over parts of Bihar and Orissa. On the 20th pressure had fallen slowly in South Bengal and Orissa, while elsewhere it had risen, and hence the tendency to the formation of a depression was somewhat more marked, while there was also a feeble tendency for winds to circulate round the low pressure. On the 21st pressure rose briskly over the whole province, the increase usually equalling from 0·07 inch to 0·09 inch; the very feeble depression in the south-west of the province quite disappeared, and pressure also became in excess by small amounts at practically all stations. This increase of pressure continued on the 22nd, the rise at the south-eastern stations equalling 0·08 inch, and pressure hence became above the normal by rather large amounts, the excess being larger than a tenth of an inch at a few of the south-eastern stations. On the 23rd the increase of pressure had continued at all except a few of the north-eastern and eastern stations, and pressure was more largely in excess than on the 23rd. On the 24th the pressure changes were small, and the general pressure distribution was practically unaltered, while on the 25th, or the last day of the week, a small increase in pressure had again occurred, and pressure was therefore very considerably above the normal, the excess ranging up to more than a tenth of an inch at many stations.

The pressure changes therefore during the greater part of the week have been towards the establishment of a pressure distribution which is decidedly unfavourable for the free flow of the monsoon current over Bengal. For the greater part of the week, however, notwithstanding the adverse pressure conditions, the monsoon current has continued to give good general rain over almost the whole province, and on the last day or two particularly heavy rain was received at the eastern and northern stations. There were, however, at the close of the week very distinct indications of the falling off in strength of the current, and winds at the inland stations had become very light, though at the head of the Bay moderate monsoon winds were blowing. The pressure and other conditions, however, which obtained over Bengal at the close of the week, were those which usually precede a short break in the rains.

Pressure.—Owing to the large increase of pressure during the second half of the week, and to the establishment of the high pressure area, the mean pressure for the week has been in very considerable excess. This excess has been largest in the south and east of the province, where it has equalled about 0·03" and 0·04", while it has been smallest in the extreme west of the province, where it has equalled about 0·02". In Assam the mean pressure has been about 0·03" above the normal.

Temperature.—Owing to the fairly abundant rainfall during the week, the mean temperature has generally been decidedly below the normal, and the defect for the whole province has averaged 1·3°. The largest defects have been registered in East Bengal, where they have slightly exceeded two degrees, while in South-West Bengal, North Bengal and Bihar they have equalled about a degree and-a-half.

In Assam the general defect for the week has equalled about 2°.

Rainfall.—Very heavy rain has been received in East Bengal, the stations in which have averaged nearly seven inches during the week or a full twice as large as usual. In North Bengal an average fall of four and a half inches is reported, or nearly two inches more than usual, and in Bihar an average of nearly four inches has been received, or more than an inch in excess. Falls of rather more than three inches have been recorded in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur equal to about the usual amount, while Orissa has received rather less than two inches, or about thirty per cent. less than usual.

Expressed as percentages of the normal rainfall, the actual falls during the week have equalled the following amounts:—South-West Bengal 112 per cent., North Bengal 171 per cent., East Bengal 203 per cent., Bihar 154 per cent., Orissa 69 per cent., and Chota Nagpur 95 per cent. Taking each Division to have an equal value in the calculation, the rainfall of Bengal for the week has equalled 134 per cent. of the normal fall.

In the case of the smaller districts exceedingly heavy falls have been received in the districts of Burdwan, Midnapur, Murshidabad, Rajshahi, Jalpaiguri, Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Tippera, Noakhali, Saran, Champaran, Darbhanga and Sonthal Parganas. On the other hand the falls have been comparatively light in Bankura, Hooghly, Howrah, Calcutta, Nadia, Cuttack, Balasore and Puri.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 25th of August 1894:—

Rangoon River entrance—New channel eastward of Spit sand and alterations in buoyage.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 383 of 1894) that a recent survey of the western channel, entrance to Rangoon river, shows that a new channel has opened out, which is now named Spit channel, and consequently the following alterations have been made in the buoyage north-eastward of Spit sand:—

1. Spit channel is half a mile wide and carries a depth of 21 feet at low water springs, with the exception of a small patch of 18 feet, which lies nearly in mid-channel with Elephant Point obelisk bearing W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (N. 69° W.), distant $1\frac{7}{10}$ miles; and Grove point beacon N.N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. (N. 31° E.)

Approximate position, lat. $16^{\circ} 28' 0''$ N., long. $96^{\circ} 21' 20''$ E.

The western side of Spit channel is marked by three buoys.

2. Lower Spit buoy (black can) has been moved to the north-westward, and now lies with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N.N.W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. (N. 28° W.), distant $3\frac{2}{10}$ miles; and Eastern Grove light-house N.N.E. (N. 23° E.).
3. Spit Tongue buoy is a black can buoy, surmounted by a staff and cylinder, moored with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. (N. 50° W.), distant $2\frac{2}{10}$ miles; and Eastern Grove light-house, N.N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. (N. 31° E.).

4. Upper Spit buoy (black can) has been moved to the south-south-westward, and is now moored with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N.W. by W. $\frac{5}{8}$ W. (N. 63° W.), distant nearly $1\frac{2}{3}$ miles; and Eastern Grove light-house N.E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E. (N. 49° E.).

The eastern side of Spit channel is marked by four buoys—

5. Upper Eastern buoy (conical red) has been moved to the westward, and now lies with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N.W. (N. 45° W.), distant nearly $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles; and Eastern Grove light-house N. by E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E. (N. 13° E.).
6. Lower Spit Middle Ground buoy is painted black and white in horizontal stripes, surmounted by staff and globe, and moored at the southern end of Middle ground, with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. (N. 48° W.), distant 3 miles; and Eastern Grove light-house N. by E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E. (N. 17° E.).
7. Upper Spit Middle Ground buoy is painted black and white in horizontal stripes, surmounted by a staff and globe, and moored at the northern end of Middle ground, with Elephant Point obelisk bearing N.W. $\frac{7}{8}$ W. (N. 55° W.), distant $2\frac{2}{3}$ miles; and Eastern Grove light-house N. by E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E. (N. 21° E.).
8. Upper Ridge buoy (red) has been moved about half a cable to the south-eastward.
9. Centre spit (Spit Fairway) buoy (black and white in horizontal stripes) and West Lump buoy (black) have been withdrawn.

Mariners are reminded that, as mentioned in Notice to Mariners No. 271 of 1894, Spit light-vessel, which previously marked the fairway in this channel, sunk on 29th April 1894.
